MARSHALL VISITS KOREAN FRONT

CHATHAM STUDENT DROWNS IN LAKE

Dragging Of Ouachita River Here Ends When Police Find Hance Alive

A 38-year-old Chatham, La. trade school student drowned in Edwards Lake near Chatham yesterday afternoon, and a search for a Monroe man believed drowned in the Ouachita river here was ended late last night when police detectives found the man alive in a local bus station.

Chatham Town Marshall M. R. Tolar identified the drowned trade school student as Huggie Pardue. Tolar said Pardue drowned when a fishing boat capsized in the lake at about 4 p. m. The body was recovered 20 minutes later by other fishermen.

GI's Kick 3 Reds Out Of Austria

Salzburg, Austria, June 9.—(AP)—American soldiers put an arm-lock on a struggling Russian chauffeur, dragged him from his car and forcibly escorted him and two other members of a Soviet repatriation mission from the U. S. zone today.

The mission was asked June 1 to leave. It ignored the deadline of midnight, June 8. The mission here to assist Russians who wish to return home repatriated only 26 persons in the year ending last September, and American officials considered their business was ended.

Today the Russians — headed by Col. Alexander Smirnov — were tricked into leaving the American-requisitioned Cheesemakers Inn, where they occupied 21 of the 24 rooms in this U. S. headquarters city, to go to the displaced persons branch of the U. S. army for talks.

They again refused to leave the zone. Returning to the inn, they found the door blocked by an American army truck and their baggage being loaded by American soldiers. When the truck was loaded Maj. G. E. Hartel, the American escort officer, approached the big black car in which the Russians were waiting and asked them peacefully to follow the truck to the Soviet zone border. Again the Russians refused.

Thereupon Hartel, assisted by a lieutenant and two GIs, opened the driver's door. Together they dragged the stocky chauffeur, Sgt. Vasily Eliastrov, from his seat and held him while the American lieutenant took the wheel.

Cease-Fire Order In Korea May Be Near

U. S. Secretary Of Defense Still In Secret Conferences At Tokyo

Tokyo, Sunday, June 10.—(AP)—Secretary of Defense Marshall held more secret conferences yesterday amid growing concern in South Korean government circles that a cease-fire order was in the making.

While Marshall said specifically his surprise visit to Japan and Korea had nothing to do with current peace rumors, the south Koreans seemed to take the position this would not rule out a cease-fire.

The disturbed south Korean legislature meeting at Pusan, on the southeast coast of Korea, asked the Korean defense and foreign ministries for their opinions on the Marshall mission.

President Syngman Rhee, while not mentioning Marshall's visit, gave a reporter this view of recent cease-fire rumors:

"We will do something in desperation if the United Nations should make any decision contrary to our national security." He did not say what.

Rhee in reference to the 38th parallel said there was no longer any line between north and south Korea and United Nations forces should go ahead. The cease-fire rumors mention a halt somewhere around 38.

"We are fighting and will continue to fight to do without such a line," Rhee added. "Our aim and determination to fight communism will never change."

8 PLANE CRASHES ARE INVESTIGATED

FBI Trying To Determine If Sabotage, Storm Caused Worst Jet Crash

Richmond, Ind., June 9.—(AP)—Air force and FBI experts today tried to determine whether sabotage, a thunderstorm, mechanical trouble, or human errors caused the nation's worst jet plane crash.

Eight fast-flying F-84 Thunderjets, racing at 500 miles an hour across the Indiana-Ohio border in a group of 71 jet planes, suddenly floundered and flopped to earth yesterday from stormy skies.

Three pilots were killed, two were injured, and three others escaped unhurt in the mysterious mass crash. Two of the unhurt pilots rode the sleek planes down and a third parachuted.

Among theories studied was one that "wrong" fuel was used. Before investigators sealed their lips, one surviving pilot told newsmen the crash cause "wasn't the weather." Another said the jet power unit of his plane exploded as

Acheson Concludes Eighth Day Under Senators' Fire

Washington, June 9.—(AP)—Secretary of State Acheson ended his eight-day siege of the senate griddle today after a new clash of views with General Douglas MacArthur and a parting barrage from Republican critics.

The secretary appeared unflinched and in good humor as he emerged from the closed-door senate inquiry into the firing of General MacArthur and the administration's Far East policy.

Acheson posed smilingly with Chairman Russell (D.-Ga.) for new photographers, but afterwards he commented wryly: "That was rather stiff, wasn't it?"

Presumably he referred to the long grind of his testimony, climaxed by G. O. P. charges that the state department exercises "dictatorial" powers over U. S. military strategy.

Acheson denied the charge—aired by Senators Bridges (R.-N.H.)

U. S. Foreign Policy In Korea Is Hit

Washington, June 9.—(AP)—Senator Bridges (R.-N.H.) charged to-night the administration's Korean war policy boils down to "the immoral course of kill, kill, kill and hope somebody will be willing to negotiate."

Bridges said in a statement that General Douglas MacArthur has outlined positive steps for winning the war.

But he said the American people are confused "as to why we have suffered about 175,000 casualties in Korea and have no administration plan to end this slaughter."

The New Hampshire senator also declared that testimony at the senate inquiry into the firing of General MacArthur indicates that "the

U. N. Infantry Flushes Die-Hard Enemy Troops Left To Defend Outskirts Of Chorwon, Kumhwa In Central Korea

By Don Huth
Tokyo, Sunday, June 10.—(AP)—Thousands of hard-hit Chinese Reds Saturday abandoned the twin strongholds of their "iron triangle" under blistering Allied bombardment.

The Chinese left die-hard rear-guard elements to defend the low hills on the southern outskirts of the cities—Chorwon and Kumhwa, 17 and 20 miles north of parallel 38 in central Korea.

Heavily censored field dispatches reported allied infantrymen were flushing out the rearguards with bayonets and hand-grenades.

The main body of communists appeared to be retreating toward Kumsong, 12 miles northeast of Kumhwa, and toward Pyongyang, 13 miles northeast of Chorwon.

Pyeonggang is at the apex of the vital build-up and supply triangle—the fountainhead of the two futile Red spring offensives.

Terrific allied artillery fire blocked the important east-west highway linking Chorwon and Kumhwa at the southern base of the triangle. The Reds were retreating on secondary roads to the northeast and, possibly, northwest of Chorwon.

They may attempt a stand on a new line anchored to Kumsong, some 28 air miles north of parallel 38.

Frontline officers have ex-

Master Detectives, Agents Searching Europe For Missing British Diplomats

London, June 9.—(AP)—Two AWOL British diplomats led master detectives and secret agents on a will-o'-the-wisp chase tonight in one of the greatest manhunts in European history. The cold trail appeared to shift from France to Italy.

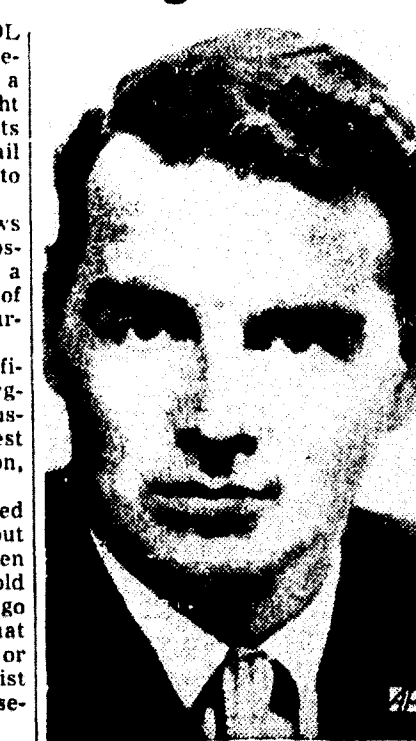

The day's only important news came in a foreign office disclosure that a cablegram concerning a "long Mediterranean holiday" of the Russian — speaking Guy Burgess was filed from Rome.

Roman police and customs officers of Italy — which has the largest Communist party outside Russia — quietly joined in the quest for Burgess and his companion, without results.

Fifteen thousand sleuths ferreted through continental hideouts, but no certain trace of either had been spotted since their trail went cold in Rennes, France, two weeks ago today. Fears mounted here that the pair may have decamped or been spirited to the Communist east with British-American secrets.

Burgess is the 40-year-old bachelor and expert on Marxist lore recalled from his job as second secretary of the British embassy in Washington after he used his diplomatic immunity to get out of three jams for speeding in Virginia, Feb. 28.

Edgy as he awaited reassign-is expecting their third child shortly.

The foreign office, concerned by theories ranging up to the possibility the pair might be headed for Moscow under duress, made public Friday three cryptic cablegrams from the continent to their relatives. The telegrams appeared to have been filed in their behalf by one or more mysterious strangers.

Authorities testified that two from MacLean—which went to his wife and his mother, Lady MacLean—were filed at the Paris central post office. The implication was that Burgess' message also was filed in the French capital.

Directed to his mother, Mrs. J. R. Bassett, it said: "Too sorry for my silence. Am embarking on long Mediterranean holiday. Do forgive, Guy."

Revelation today by a foreign office spokesman that this message came not from Paris but from Rome gave rise to two new theories:

"That either the two now have split up or have moved eastward together."

The foreign office spokesman, William Riddell, again emphasized that no secret documents are missing. He was denying reports published here that some secret

DOROTHY DIX

Be Sign Of Incompetence

DEAR MISS DIX: What in the world can you do with a man who goes about dressed like a tramp and who is positively indifferent to his personal appearance? I am in love with a man who is clean physically and morally, but when I look at his sloppy old brown pants and his coat and waistcoat that seem to have been assembled from the ragbag, I wonder, if I married him, if he wouldn't become intolerable. He is very particular as to my appearance, and seems content just to worship me, never dreaming that I long to worship him in the same way.

I have tried in a tactful way to make him aware of his slackness, but his only reply is, "That is why I need you." What shall I do? Swallow my pride and marry him because he is so fine in other ways, even if he is a living example of what No Well-Dressed Man Should Wear?

DOROTHY DIX

DISGUSTED D. M.

ANSWER: Slovenliness used to be considered the hallmark of genius. Perhaps your young man belongs to this class. But make very sure that he is a genius before you marry him for, as a general thing, carelessness about one's personal appearance is nothing but sheer laziness and shiftlessness, or lack of perception and up-to-dateness and all the qualities that make one get along in the world.

HE'S TOO LAZY

A man puts on a soiled shirt in the morning because it is less trouble than to put buttons on a clean one. He doesn't shine his shoes because that would require five minutes' work. He doesn't send his clothes to the cleaner or take out the spots himself and press them because that is a little work. Such a man is a slacker by nature, and ninety-nine times out of a hundred he will spend his life sitting on the do-nothing stool. Judging a man by his clothes isn't as silly as it seems. It is about the best way we have of getting his number.

But, of course, there are exceptions to all rules and there are doubtless men who have all the virtues except clothes sense. So, if you are certain the man has plenty of intelligence along other lines and that his sloppiness is not the result of laziness and stupidity, go ahead and marry him and save your sensibilities by making yourself his valet.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a woman of 40, in love with a man nine years younger than I. He knows I am older but not how much. When I first met him I told him we were not suited to each other because of the difference in our ages, but he said he didn't care how much older I was. He claims he would love me no matter how much difference there was in our ages. I don't have anything, so he couldn't be after my money. He has proved his love in many ways. He seems to enjoy every minute of the time we spend together. Is nine years too much difference?

SHIRLEY

ANSWER: While a marriage between two people with the woman so much the elder merits careful consideration and a thorough weighing of all circumstances, it is by no means a matter to be dismissed with a firm "Impossible!" Are you sure you are really in love with this man, and not marrying merely because you are lonesome? Is it certain that he loves you as a mature man loves his mate, and is not seeking maternal solace and protection?

Age as measured in years is not of itself important; the vital concern is the mental age. A man of 30 may be as old in his tastes and feelings as a woman of 40, and it really doesn't matter which has had more birthdays. No man marries a woman older than himself unless she has some quality of heart and mind that appeals strongly to him and he is much less liable to grow tired of her than he is of a young girl whose character is unformed and whose appeal to him is her youth.

As the wife of a man so much younger than yourself, you have a greater responsibility to keep yourself abreast of the times, smartly groomed, and eager to follow your husband's interests.

Before you marry, be sure your fiancé knows exactly how much older you are. Even though he says it makes no difference, the fact should be established to prevent later repercussions.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am the mother of five children. My husband and I are devoted to each other and have got along together splendidly, but the children are driving me into a nervous breakdown with their constant quarreling, calling each other names and arguing about everything. The two older girls even have fist fights and I am afraid to leave them together for fear I shall need the undertaker when I come back. What can I do with such children?

A DISCOURAGED MOTHER

ANSWER: Separate them, if possible. Send one of them off to school or away from home. In that way you will at least promote the peace of the household and save your nerves.

DOROTHY DIX cannot answer personal mail. For those considering ending a marriage, she has written leaflet D-2, "Divorce." To obtain a copy, send a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to Miss Dix, c/o this newspaper, P. O. Box 98, Times Square Station, New York 18, N. Y.

College Place Ending Revival

Revival services at the College Place Baptist Church, under the preaching of Rev. Otis Strickland, president of the oldest Junior College in the world, namely the Decatur Baptist College founded in 1898 in Decatur, Texas, will close Sunday night with the evening service instead of Wednesday, June 13, as previously suggested. Great crowds have attended each evening, and there have been a sincere group uniting with the church upon a profession of faith in Christ and also by the transfer of church membership. According to the pastor, Rev. C. S. Cadwalader, Jr., the response and spirit of the membership has been the most encouraging and promising ever experienced in the six-year life history of the congregation.

Musical talent has been used to proclaim the message of Christ in a wonderful way as Walter Mangham and Miss Dorothy Bynum have lead the singing accompanied at the piano by Joe Monroe, Jr. Baptismal services have been arranged for 4 o'clock in the auditorium of the First Baptist Church of Monroe, since the new sanctuary and educational unit of the church is still under the construction.

WALGREEN'S NOW IS 50 YEARS OLD

Drug Firm Known Nation Wide
Celebrates Half Century

Walgreen Drug Stores will celebrate its Golden Anniversary this June. And during its half-century, from when young Spanish American War vet Charles R. Walgreen, Sr., opened his first drug store, to the present, there's been some changes, and much progress made in drug stores.

Fifty years ago, small, with dim shadowy interiors, they were a far cry from the modern establishments of today. Then many folks still believed in such remedies as what one 1901 magazine stated: "The onion will ward off disease when put in a sickroom." And to become a pharmacist, men usually had to work only four years in a drug store before passing an examination. Compared to today's over 2,000 drugs, they worked with only about 400 botanicals and simple salts. Now, future pharmacists are required to attend pharmacy college for three full years and in most states four, before undergoing a rigid state examination.

Old time druggists mixed their own ointments, tinctures and plasters. And often, a customer with a bruised shinbone had to wait while the druggist took arnica flowers and compressed and percolated them for their active ingredients. True, there were some already-compounded items (like Hostler's Bitters and "SSS" Blood Tonic) but even Castile soap was sold in bars 18 inches long which the buyer cut at home. And many drug stores still displayed wooden Indians outside, indicating that they carried tobaccos (a gift of the red man).

Ice cream sales in winter were practically unheard of in 1901 and like others of its day, Mr. Walgreen's small, wood-based fountain only operated in summer. Other months found it a convenient display stand for chocolate candies, etc. However, rising ice cream sales (spurred by the introduction of the ice cream cone at the St. Louis Exposition in 1904) soon made it a year 'round business.

Keeping the ice cream cold though was a backbreaking job of constantly packing ice and rock salt around the containers. But after World War I, muscle-effort soon disappeared, thanks in part to Walgreen's who pioneered in the development of the first electrically refrigerated soda fountain (much to the joy of young fountain men). The serving of sandwiches in drug stores then followed in the middle 20s.

IN ARMED SERVICE

Camp Chaffee, Ark., June 9.—(Special)—Pvt. Frank E. Maxwell, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Maxwell of 2809 N. Eighth St., Monroe, was among 45 students graduating from an army leaders school here Saturday.

Lt. Col. John F. Smith, commander of the school, presented diplomas to graduates. In an address, he stressed the need for leadership in the armed forces.

The tough eight-weeks course is designed to develop the potential of students for future instruction as non-commissioned officers.

Private Maxwell, a graduate of Delhi High School, attended Louisiana State University. He was a hardware merchant before induction.

Wright-Patterson Air Force Base, Ohio.—1st Lt. Van H. Shepard, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Shepard of 3210 DeSiard street, Monroe, La., this week completed an intensive two-year engineering curriculum at the USAF Institute of Technology.

Lieutenant Shepard goes to a new assignment in the electronics research and development field.

Before entering the service Lieutenant Shepard attended Northeast Junior College of Louisiana State University at Monroe, La. Prior to entering the USAF Institute of Technology he was stationed at Hamilton A. F. Base, San Rafael, Cal., as an F-84 fighter pilot with the 82nd fighter squadron.

His recent work at the USAF Institute of Technology fits Lieutenant Shepard for work in technical fields where A. F. requirements for specialists are today paramount.

H. F. Easterling Receives High Honor, Heads Shippers

A recent high honor was accorded a Monroe man at Amarillo, Tex. when H. F. Easterling was elected general chairman of the Southwest Shippers advisory board at a meeting held there. Mr. Easterling, as traffic manager for the Brown Paper Mill Co., Inc. in West Monroe, had long been a prime mover in better traffic facilities.

The shippers advisory board is a national organization devoted into regional zones or territories. Monroe happens to be in the south-west region and is known as the west region and is known as the west region and is known as the west region.

H. F. EASTERLING

Southwest Shippers advisory board. This board is in its 28th year of operations and has held a total of 86 regular meetings. Its membership comprises more than 1600 members which includes practically all lines of business and all railroads in the states of Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas and the western half of Louisiana.

The chief purpose of the organization is to promote a better understanding of the problems of transportation of mutual concern to all carriers and shippers with ultimate objective of developing and maintaining the highest standard of service consistent with business requirements and operating possibilities.

Mr. Easterling, in this work, has carved out for this line and made for himself a most substantial place in serving the public and his reputation is an enviable one. It dates back to the beginning of World War II a decade ago. Then it became apparent that if transportation needs of business concerns in the Twin Cities were to be met in the fact of all existing shortages and restrictions consistent with national defense programs, that it would be wise for an affiliation with this shippers organization for the important company that Mr. Easterling represents. This proved a wise step and one heartily approved by his company.

A year ago C. C. Dehne, general chairman from Stuttgart, Ark., addressed the Southwest Shippers advisory board in the following language: "It is generally recognized that the United States cannot get along without a sound national railroad transportation system. Are we in danger of losing our 'free enterprise' railroad system? Are they pricing themselves out of competition with other methods of transportation?"

"The shippers in this board are lending active support to maintain our rail transportation system. We have instituted the clean car campaign and the chairman of that committee has named subcommittees and chairmen in principal cities within the southwest. This program by the shippers, supported by the carriers will have the effect of providing clean cars for immediate placement for further loading. Thereby eliminating expense of the railroads to clean cars before reloading. It will tend to speed up turn-around time, which results in additional cars to our already short supply.

"Our rail lines emerged from 1949 with tremendous loss and damage claim record-over 113 million dollars. In the final analysis the shipper bears this cost in transportation rates. Our perfect shipping campaign general committee, and sub-committees are doing a splendid job to eliminate loss and damage. Are you, Mr. Shipper, doing your part to pack carefully? Are you, Mr. Railroad man, doing your part to handle carefully? Remember 'Johnny Careful'."

"We are now in the wheat harvest and as summer passes and fall approaches, we will go more and more into seasonal crop harvestings. We will need every box car the carriers have in service. Will you assist by unloading promptly and be sure to clean the car; also will you load promptly and avoid when possible holding cars over week ends? Mr. Railroad, will you exert your best efforts to avoid terminal delays, especially at freight houses over week ends to provide additional equipment?"

In this connection, with Southwest Shippers, Mr. Easterling eventually served as chairman of many committees; was a member of the executive committee among others, and then was named to the post of general secretary in which he served for two years.

Next he served as alternate chairman for two years and then at the May meeting, just held in Amarillo, he was still further advanced to the general chairmanship for the coming year. This marks the top rank in the organization and places Mr. Easterling in a position where he can render more benefits than ever to shippers of Monroe and West Monroe.

All shippers concerned in this area are quite delighted that this recognition has come to Mr. Easterling. A man in whom they place complete confidence, and also they are assured that he will work with even greater zeal in the future, if it be possible to do so, to make local shippers realize greater than ever benefits from their connection with the important concern of which he is the local top representative.

Truck Victim In Ferriday Improves

Ferriday, La., June 9.—(Special)—The condition of Marie Humphries, 10-year-old girl of Port Necessity, who was seriously injured Wednesday afternoon while en route home from a church outing in Natchez, is improved at the King Hospital in Winnsboro.

The accident occurred when a group of youthful choir singers from Lismore and Fort Necessity stopped in Ferriday for ice cream after a day spent in Natchez.

The choir had made a recording to play back over radio station WMIS at a later date. Following that they had gone to Duncan Park for a picnic lunch and to witness the Little League ball game.

The group was returning home under the chaperonage of seven or eight adults in a truck driven by Mr. R. L. Newman. Pausing in Ferriday, the little girl alighted from the truck and was on her way to obtain refreshments when she was knocked down by a truck and dragged for some distance, according to witnesses.

The child, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Humphries, Ft. Necessity, was taken to the Ferriday Hospital with a broken collarbone and other injuries. She was removed by ambulance to the King Hospital in Winnsboro.

STATE POLICE

State police of troop "F" arrested 19 persons during the past week including eight for drunk driving. Those charged are:

Otis C. Bruce, 38, route 1, Sicily Island; Alton O. Porter, 40, 2706 Lee avenue, Monroe; Elijah Griffin, 32, Negro, Jones; Henry Kelly, 55, Negro, route 3, Monroe; T. J. Finister, 55, Negro, route 1, Gilbert; Sam O. Marble, 41, Negro, Alto; drunk driving.

Sammy C. Hooper, 26, 2820 San Pedro street, San Antonio, Tex.; drunk driving and carrying a concealed weapon.

Delton Anthony, 37, Mer Rouge road, Bastrop; drunk driving and property damage.

Lake Providence Event Worthy

Lake Providence is to be congratulated on the highly successful "Miss Louisiana" beauty pageant held there last week end for the second consecutive year.

Prior to last year's contest, Louisiana had not had an entry in the "Miss America" contest in Atlantic City, N. J., for 15 years. Through foresight, hard work and cooperation of Lake Providence businessmen, the pageant has brought recognition that would cause any community extreme civic pride.

The typical delta town of less than 5,000 people, rolled out welcome mats last Friday to state contestants, their families and the thousands of spectators who anxiously watched the performances and enjoyed the town's well-known hospitality.

Residents of Lake Providence opened their homes to the contestants and pageant guests with hotels, courts and restaurants affording accommodations unsurpassed by large cities.

It was through the Lake Providence Chamber of Commerce last year that the town acquired a franchise for the "Miss Louisiana" pageant.

This year, city officials, local businessmen of the town with the assistance of the Chamber of Commerce secretary, formed the Miss Louisiana Beauty Pageant Association of which Joe Ellis was made president. He worked with local townsmen in making the pageant a success.

Pageant Director Herman Sommer was responsible for getting entries to represent parishes and cities throughout the state and will for the second time accompany "Miss Louisiana" to the Atlantic City contest.

In addition, he obtained judges from three different states and a former Miss America, Miss Bebe Shopp, to select "Miss Louisiana of 1951."

As it was pointed out, the state beauties were all non-professional and were judged on talent, beauty of face and figure and in evening dresses.

The title of "Miss Louisiana" was won by a 19-year-old Baton Rouge beauty who was the recipient of a one thousand dollar scholarship from Senator Dudley J. LeBlanc. She will use the scholarship for furthering her education at Louisiana State University where she is a senior in the College of Arts and Science.

Handsome bronze trophies were presented each of the beauties who placed first in the various performances during the pageant. These were all made possible through members of the non-profit pageant association.

Adding to the activities of the two-day pageant were Sunday boat races in which racers from Arkansas, Mississippi and Louisiana took part.

Certainly the well-planned pageant took hours of planning and work—not only on the part of those responsible for its success but also on the part of the girls competing.

As a result of this, Lake Providence and its citizens have just cause to be proud of their annual festival—the "Miss Louisiana" Beauty Pageant. It is an asset to Lake Providence, Northeast Louisiana and our state.

Crossing Work Needed

Hundreds of citizens who live in the southeast part of Monroe and thousands of other citizens who visit Bernstein Park and the Monroe baseball park are confronted with a condition that is not only uncomfortable but dangerous.

We refer to the Thomas street crossing of the Missouri Pacific Railroad tracks.

Conditions at this crossing are so bad that a Jeep or even a farm wagon cannot cross without undergoing contortions. The section of this street occupied by the railroad tracks has had no maintenance and is made up of a series of holes, bumps and jagged edges.

The city of Monroe once attempted to pave Thomas street all the way eastward to Bernstein park but was prevented from doing so by court action initiated by the railroad.

In upholding the railroad's contention that the city of Monroe did not have a right to pave across railroad property, the federal court ruled that this crossing must be kept open by the railroad.

Since the court ruled that the crossing must be kept open but held that the city had no right to do work in this section, it was plainly the intention of the court that this action should be maintained as road by the railroad. The road has not been maintained and we believe the railroad should be called upon to put the crossing in good condition for the traffic that necessarily passes over it.

Communists and Optimists
There has been a strange surge of optimism about the possibility of peace with Russia. It stems from starry-eyed judgments in some sections of the press and in Washington. Despite the optimism, Communists continue killing Americans in Korea. Hopeful newspaper essays and wishful presidential utterances are bitterly rebuked by agonized cries of maimed American soldiers. . . . Communism's tactics frequently vary, but its global conquest aim has never changed. That is the one thread of consistency in the Communist crazy-quilt. . . . Of course, Stalin will refrain from forcibly enslaving nations, if they voluntarily accept his chains. The lunatic logic of communism defines a very peace—and tyranny as liberty. The explanation is simple: Communists accept lies as the truth.

The record will attest that the Soviet Union has never been at peace with the United States. Long

George E. Sokolsky: THESE DAYS

OVER-COMMITTED

Although the Russell committee started as an investigation into the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur, it has developed into full-dress consideration of the policies, methods, results and objectives of the administration, not only as they affect the far east, but generally in relationship to war.

For instance, Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg's discussion of our weaknesses in the air and his acknowledgment of the superiority of the Russian air force must have come as a shock to our people. What has been done with all the billions that have been expended out of public taxes since 1945? How has that money been used? Why did the administration let Russia get ahead of us in the air—a field in which we maintained superiority throughout World War II?

Gen. Omar Bradley said: "It may be that right at this minute, we do have more diplomatic commitments than we can carry out militarily."

"Take the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, for example: The twelve nations of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization do not have the capability, right now, of stopping an aggression by Russia. I don't see why that should imply, however, that we should not go on and have the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and try to encourage them to build up their security forces, because that is the way you get built up to that commitment; and I think it is perfectly proper in a case like that, to make this commitment, if you want to call it that, of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, and try to build to it."

"I agree with you that we should not just go around the world making commitments, military commitments, which we cannot fulfill; but I think it is perfectly proper, on the other hand, to make some, particularly where you are trying to build up on a collective defense, and then build to it."

This part of a colloquy establishes the fact that the United States is over-committed; that it has undertaken to do more than it can do. General Bradley does not oppose this over-commitment because he feels that it has to be done that way and may pay off in the end. General Vandenberg made it clear that if we had to use our air force today, we should accomplish certain favorable results but that the United States would be stripped of air defenses.

The assumption of over-commitment is that Soviet Russia will not attack western Europe or the United States at once; that time is in our favor in the sense that Soviet Russia will not act until 1952 or 1953 or some such date and that the western powers will, by that date, catch up.

But suppose the north Atlantic treaty powers do not catch up when and if Stalin should decide to strike? Then the United States might have to go it alone, or with whatever small aid we might garner in Europe. Thus far, western Europe has not produced an atmosphere or a force that stimulates confidence.

Asia we can now discount, as we have lost the best of it—namely, China. And the prospects are that the Arab states will become strictly neutral, which, from our standpoint, means pro-Russian. India, as long as Nehru is its leader, will continue to play a confused and cowardly role, designed to achieve acknowledgment as a world power while making no contribution to the maintenance of world peace of human liberty.

I think that this testimony of General Bradley is of particular significance, for while he could not have been expected to let down President Truman, Dean Acheson or General Eisenhower, he acknowledged the fact of over-commitment, which may be the source of our present difficulties. We have spread our strength so thin that it actually has become weakness.

The value of the prolonged and detailed MacArthur hearings is that it gives the country its first opportunity to see how badly off we really are.

All the testimony thus far has been convincing along these lines: 1. That we cannot make war on Soviet Russia alone with any hope for victory;

2. That we have little expectation of immediate aid and satisfactory aid from our Allies;

3. That actually we have no plan of defense but are pursuing an opportunistic day-by-day program of meeting contingencies.

This is a frightful picture our military men have painted for us.

The end justifies the means. Thus, every seemingly peaceful Russian policy is actually a military maneuver. It is an attempt to obtain time to strengthen their own armies for eventual world conquest—or to use undercover forces in foreign lands to obtain the same end. Communists are ready to make any sacrifice for tactical advantage—even if that includes a temporary policy of peace. They are ready to use all forces and motives which lead, even for a moment, in their direction.

BIBLE THOUGHTS:

Jimmie Fidler IN HOLLYWOOD

Hollywood, June 9.—During the twenty-one years that he's been a screen star, Clark Gable has been one of the most generally envied men in the world, and certainly there's been superficial reason enough to make the envy understandable, for he's had money, fame, and more than an ordinary amount of leisure.

Sylvia Ashley, I presume, has also been regarded by millions of women as one of the "fortunate few." She, too, has lived in the lap of luxury, first as the wife of an English nobleman and since then as Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks, Lady Stanley and Mrs. Clark Gable. Two of her husbands, at least, have been idolized by a large percentage of her sex.

I called the reasons for the envy "superficial"—and it seems to me that the term is justified when you consider the amount of personal unhappiness which must underlie all that wealth and celebrity. Clark and his estranged wife have identical records. Each has lost one mate by death; each is now going through the ordeal of divorce for a third time. Crowd all that into a space of only twenty years and if you can still be envious, you're to be pitied.

The separation of the Gables, and her suit for divorce, has caused a lot more comment in Hollywood than has found its way into print. Some of the partisans sympathize with Clark, others seem to think that it's Mrs. G. who deserves the sympathy. To my way of thinking, they both rate condolences, for it's tragic to find two people so frustrated in their quest for happiness.

Preview nights: Pic of a lack-lustre week: Universal-International's "The Prince Who Was a Thief" (Tony Curtis-Piper Laurie-Everett Sloane-Jeff Corey-Peggie Castle). A fanciful, Arabian Nights-styled tale that offers a pleasant evening to anyone in search of "escape" entertainment. . . . Good: Paramount's "Warpath" (Edmund O'Brien-Dean Jagger-Forest Tucker-Harry Carey, Jr.-Polly Bergen). One of the best entries—thanks to a better than usual story—in the now overdone Indians-versus-Cavalry cycle; put it on your preferred list if you appreciate a magnificent scenery.

Fair: Columbia's "The Texan" (George Montgomery-Gale Storm-Jerome Courtland-Noah Beery, Jr.). A better-than-average western melodrama, crammed to the gunnels with "thrill stuff" and gunplay. . . . Questionable: United Artists' "The Hoodlum" (Lawrence Tierney-Allene Roberts-Marjorie Rordan). A well-played but distasteful story about a completely despicable character. . . . United Artists' "He Ran All the Way" (John Garfield-Shelley Winters-Wallace Ford-Sena Royce). An unusually well done crime melodrama, which frankly capitalizes on brutality; if you must see it, leave the kids at home. . . . Best performance: John Garfield in "He Ran All the Way."

Before leaving the subject of this week's previews, let me give you a thumbnail sketch of the plot of "He Ran All the Way," as set forth in one of the trade papers, which reviewed, and extolled, it. . . . He is Garfield as the muscle member of a two-man hold-up gang, who kills a cop during a getaway from a payroll robbery. Garfield meets Miss Winters, a bakery worker, in a public swimming pool, goes home with her to meet the family, and then takes command, using the home as a hideaway until he can flee town. The family of four (Miss Winters, her parents and her brother) lives through a couple of hectic days as the suspicious Garfield browbeats first one and then another, always keeping one as a hostage about him to prevent betrayal to the police. He takes advantage of the fact that the femme has fallen for him despite his savage flareups and brutal treatment of the family. . . . And now, let's look at the plot of "The Hoodlum." It goes like this: "Tierney enacts title role, playing an unsympathetic character without any redeeming trait. He seduces his brother's girl and is responsible for her suicide when she learns she is to become a mother; when the brother takes him into his gas station so he may thus have a job to meet the requirements of his parole, he plans and executes the robbery of an armored truck. Hold-up results in wholesale murder, and ex-con goes on the dodge, ultimately being killed himself."

Admittedly, I'm devoting more space than usual to these reviews of a couple of new pictures, but I just want you to know that Hollywood has no intention of neglecting your entertainment needs, and is busy providing you with the whirlwind for a gay and joyous season. . . . I also want you to have in mind information which will enable you (even though you may be one of the countless millions who have turned away from movies in disgust) to accurately weigh those periodic statements made by Hollywood moguls who resent the whole idea of censorship.

Angelo Patri Our Children

BY THE CLOCK
Like it or not, we must all live by the clock. Time is our master. People who accept that fact do more and get more fun out of the doing than those who try to defy it by forgetting all about time. To be on time, at the right time, is to have a leg upon the day's swift force.

The household that regards the clock runs more smoothly. The housekeeper who regards time with respect and budgets it carefully so as to have time for such essentials as work and rest and recreation will create a happier home than the one who can't tell time from a desire for pleasure.

Living in the moment is a child's way of life. Living in time, with a thought ahead for time to come, is the grown-up way of living. To say one has no time for things that ought to be done or that one would like to do is not exactly correct. Each of us has all the time there is: twenty-four hours a day. What we do with that time is our pleasure. Usually we use it just that way, doing what we like to do with our time. What we do with it is what spells happiness and success or their opposites.

Children should be taught early the meaning of time, and its value to them. "Do this now." Later you can do that," is a simple lesson that many a mother gives her little child who is just learning how to get about living. As he grows these lessons become more and more specific so that by the time he is in high school time has definite meanings and clear implications for him, much to his benefit.

Teach little children to tell time: first the hours, then the minutes, on the clock. Teach him how to feel minutes, so that he has an accurate idea, or at least a working idea, of just how long a minute is. A young person with that knowledge set in his nerves and muscles is not likely to make many mistakes regarding those five minutes he is to wait, or work.

Frank Farrell NEW YORK Day By Day

New York — Mrs. Anthony Eden, whom I TV-interviewed from the Stork Club the other night, opined unofficially: "It would be a pleasant, democratic and understandable departure from rigid protocol if the King and Queen gave an informal party for Margaret Truman, as well as the usual invitation to curfew." . . . The charming ex-wife of Britain's former foreign minister indulged in a few braver comments in our direction during dinner. "American women always take their bulls by the horns. English wives don't do that," she said. "American wives seem to jump into the situation and run things themselves — but lead their husbands to think that men are running the country."

Maybe that's what's wrong over there, I suggested.

Blackout — Now that the Cub Room has changed to summer decor and those not-so-easily recognized paintings of famed magazine covers have been replaced with clear photographic portraits of debaucherous Sherman Billingsley feels less likely to swallow a foot. One dark night Sherm stopped at Myrna Loy's table, pointed to one of the covergirl paintings and said: "Did you see your pretty picture?" Miss Loy studied it for an instant and cracked: "You must be drinking some of your own liquor. That's Greer Garson."

Ups & Downs — Janet Gaynor's hubby, Adrian, who does a thing or two with dresses in Hollywood, voiced a masculine staid in current events in the helpline controversy. "If they want to wear ankle-length skirts in Paris, let them wear them," he said. "I'm going down to Texas, where men are men and do something about it. I'm going to broadcast for volunteers to rally up a real Texan defense of another freedom—freedom of visibility." . . . I suggested that he take Playwright Russell Crouse along for support. When it was originally fashion-advocated that short dresses caused mindless accidents, Crouse declared that he looked forward to the day when dresses are so short—that feminine casualties might be eliminated entirely.

Fragrant Trial — The least a columnist can get is flat feet from the way New Yorkers expect one to gulp and run these evenings. . . . Hygrade Products asked me to judge Poppy Cannon's cooking contest on video the other afternoon. All contestants presumed I preferred spicy platters and overcooked same with garlic. . . . When I subsequently dropped in for a look-see at four cocktail parties whipped up by Gloria De Haven, Dr. Gaylord Hauser, Miriam Alexandra and Mary McCarty, each charged me with air-conditioned sabotage. . . . Couldn't help but sympathize with folks later in the theater, when they fanned themselves with programs. . . . And during midnight supper in a snooty cafe, the proprietor inquired with a wry smile: "Who mixed your salad earlier this evening?"

Nuff Sed — Marie Jeritza, the Viennese favorite who used to send Wagner to the rear rows at the Met, strained for an in-between note in music, following a recent earful of a nightclub soprano. Asked for comment on the quality of the cafe's warbler's throat-talent, Jeritza slyly contributed a bro-mide generally reserved for bewildered drama critics: "She's exceptional!"

Static-Static — Five characters were hunched over dusty volumes of newspapers in the N. Y. Public

What Others Say EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

ACHESON AND FORMOSA

To a large minority of editors the State Department's 1949 document discounting in advance the possible loss of Formosa was justified propaganda. But a plurality of editors sees in this memorandum, now fully disclosed in the investigation of General MacArthur's dismissal, unwise propaganda and bad judgment. And to a considerable minority it appears, moreover, to have been one move in a state department policy of opposition to and undermining of the Chiang Kai-shek government. (Note: Secretary Acheson's testimony concerning our China policies in general will be considered in a subsequent survey of editorial opinion.)

Oakland (Calif.) Tribune (Rep.): "It is easy to see why Secretary of State Acheson objected to making public the much-discussed document dealing with Formosa. This foreign policy memorandum . . . told consular officers in 1949 to prepare for the fall of the Chinese Nationalist-held Formosa, and threw in for good measure a statement which flouts the opinions of our top military experts, that Formosa was not of vital importance to American defense. . . . There is no reason why it should have been suppressed other than to 'save face' for Secretary Acheson and others in his department."

Washington (D.C.) Post (Ind.): "It turns out, according to Acheson's statement, that the directive was issued on the advice of one of the heroes of the diaphanous, General Wedemeyer, who told Assistant Secretary Allen, then heading the Voice of America, of the parlous condition of Formosa, and the need, in terms of psychological warfare, to get America off the hook. . . . The premise was that the United States would not intervene in Formosa, so the necessity arose in official policy to disengage the

St. Paul (Minn.) Dispatch (Ind.): "ing ship, so as not entirely to submerge America's prestige." . . . St. Paul (Minn.) Dispatch (Ind.): "Even if the idea for the memorandum did originate with Wedemeyer, the responsibility belongs to Acheson. . . . Rarely has a foreign office of a major nation been made to look so ridiculous as does the State Department in the light of this horrible example of bad judgment and lack of foresight. What is worse, Acheson undoubtedly is correct in his opinion that publication of this document puts in the hands of the Communist powers a very damaging weapon."

Salt Lake City (Utah) Tribune (Ind.): "The memorandum indicates that the state department expected Formosa to fall. This can be called defeatism, but it was not unnatural at a time when the Communists . . . seemed ready to cross the straits to the island. . . . In another policy, opposition to U. S. military intervention, the department's stand was in keeping with public opinion of the time. Since then, of course, there have been changes. The Korean war was followed by the 'neutralization' of Formosa by the U. S. Navy and . . . a military mission has been sent to the island and military supplies have been promised."

Cleveland (Ohio) Plain Dealer (Ind.-Dem.): "In our opinion, Acheson's exposition of our Formosa policy does not hold water. A more plausible explanation was given by Senator Knowland, who said he believed that the state department had representatives on Formosa at the time who were following the situation closely to undermine the position of the government of the Republic of China and had consistently sent back reports that the island could not hold out. . . . When the defense department proposed in 1949 that a military mission be sent to Formosa, along with some military equipment, the state department vetoed the idea."

Wilmington (Del.) Morning News (Ind.): "After a series of crushing military defeats by the Chinese Reds, Chiang had abandoned the mainland and taken refuge in Formosa. His beaten army, outnumbered by at least 5 to 1, could hardly be expected to defend the island successfully. . . . The state department therefore issued the secret memo, asking its employees to go around saying that Formosa really didn't matter to the United States. . . . Most people at one time or another, have tried to save face after losing something they wanted by pretending that they never wanted it particularly."

Baltimore (Md.) Sun (Ind.-Dem.): "It is questionable whether this was good propaganda. . . . Grant that it is important to save face in the Far East. . . . Still, we made public representations at variance with our real policies and convictions. . . . We were concerned and did recognize the military importance of the island. The document was intended for propaganda purposes only. The revelation of this fact of necessity is damaging to our future propaganda. It will be used by those who are countering us abroad, and thus tend to diminish the force of what our representatives say."

Library's storage room when I dropped in for a nostalgic wander through some of the late O. O. McIntyre's masterpieces was other musing. They worked quietly, copying, figures, turning pages, adding, subtracting, dividing. The custodian dubiously regarded them and remarked: "I don't know what they find in those files. They are in here every damned day, all doing the same thing. They never speak to one another."

A stroll around the room confirmed my suspicions. All five were hairlined-deep in statistics from horse charts contained in back issues of a sports magazine—and the intense quiet: coated before post time for the first at Belmont.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. S.

Play Safe With Discards

"Is it a good idea to pile up the same kind of discard in the first discard pile?" asks a Scranton reader. "For example, suppose two or three sevens are discarded. Is it wise to discard two or three more sevens? Whoever wins that pile will have a natural canasta."

or very close to one. Isn't this too dangerous?"

It's dangerous, all right, but other discards are often even more dangerous. If you feel fairly sure that you can discard a seven without giving the pack away, why should you experiment with some other discard that may bring the roof down on you?

Suppose your other choice does give away the pack. You have your pair of sevens still in your hand, so the opponents do not have their natural canasta — yet. But what are you going to do with those sevens? They're just a nuisance to you, taking up room that might otherwise be occupied by useful cards.

Now look at the other side of the picture. Suppose you discard your sevens and later lose the discard pile. Perhaps the opponents have a natural canasta, but this is rare. More often they have only five or six of the rank in question; and they may wait a long time before they can complete a canasta with natural cards.

Even at the worst, you have the chance of keeping eleven useful cards in your hand. If you watch your chances carefully you or your partner may manage to meld out before any great loss has been sustained.

The picture may well be far more cheerful. Perhaps your side will not lose the pile after all. Those two safe discards may make just the difference between losing and winning the pile. Then your sevens will come back to you with interest.

In short, there's no harm in piling up the same kind of discard during the struggle for the first discard pile. Just be sure that your discard is safe, then make it.

Q—A player asked for permission to go out, and this was granted. He melded some of his hand, including a wild card, and then discovered he could not meld out unless he used that wild card in a different meld. What should he do?

A—The player is permitted to rearrange the cards in his final meld in order to go out. Ordinarily, a player may not shift a card that has been legally melded. However, in this case the shift is necessary to enable the player to make his compulsory meld-out.

TECH EXPECTING BIG ENROLLMENT

Faculty Prepares For Opening Of Summer Session Monday

Ruston, June 9.—(Special)—Anticipating an increase in enrollment above that of a year ago, Louisiana Tech faculty and staff members are preparing for the opening of the nine-week summer session Monday.

An increase of freshmen particularly is predicted by Registrar Mabel May who said "it's just in the air" for high school graduates to get started in college this summer.

There may be a slight pick-up in the enrollment of veterans at Tech this summer, it was pointed out, since the G. I.'s will have to enter college by July 25 to obtain training under the G. I. bill.

Two hundred airmen of a clerk-typist unit at Tech, who have been holding the fort alone since the close of the spring semester, several days ago will welcome the arrival of the summer school crowd to enliven the campus.

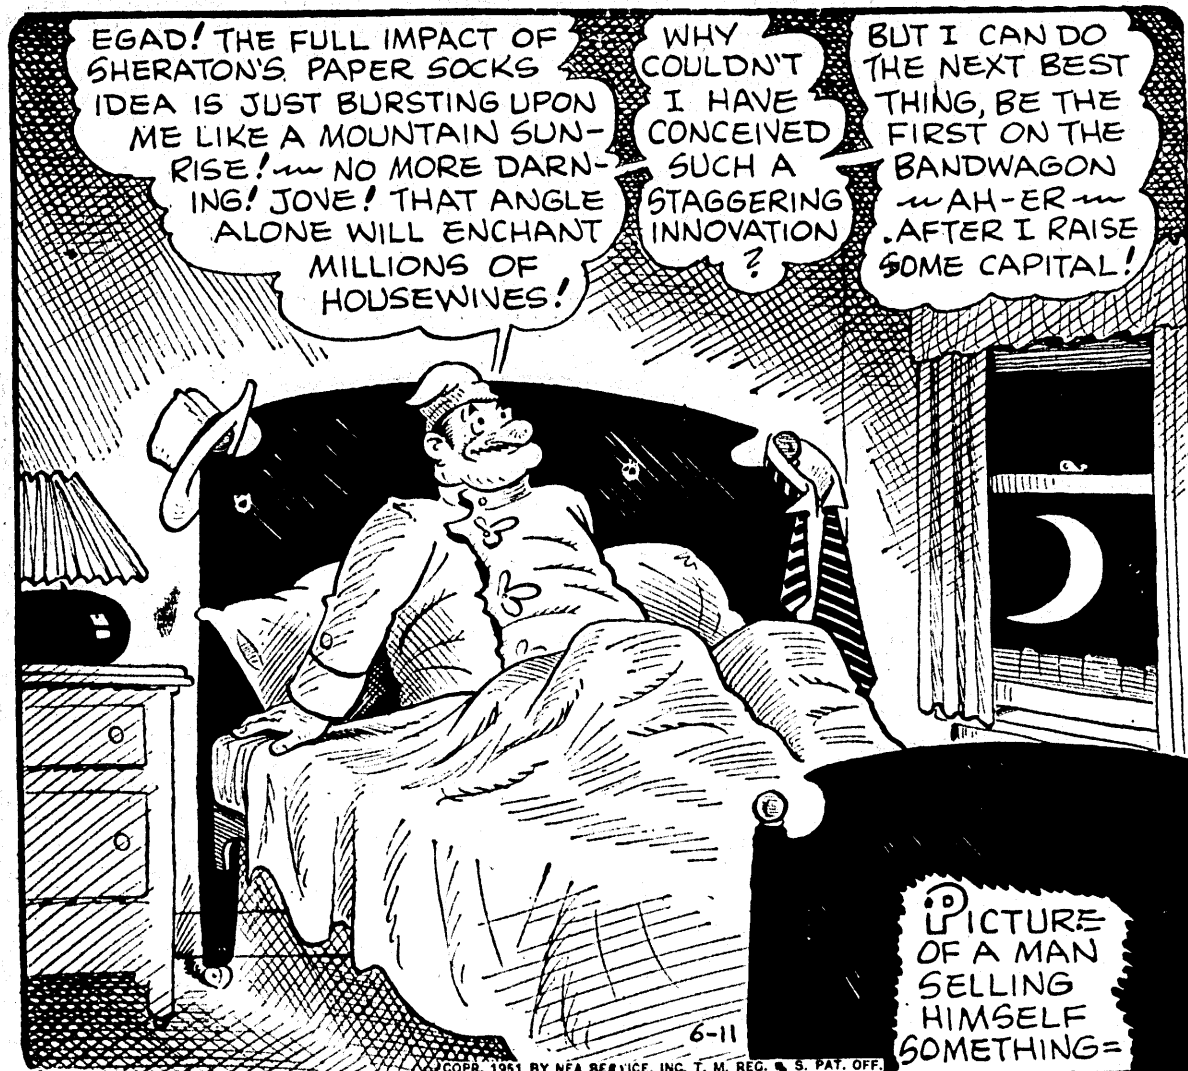

A convocation of all new students, including first-term freshmen and transfer students, is scheduled to be held at 8 o'clock Monday morning in Howard auditorium.

Psychology examinations will be given the first-term freshmen at 9:15 a. m.

English tests are scheduled for 11 a. m.

Registration of all students is to be completed on Monday and classes will begin at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning.

There is one sentence in Stalin's book, "Problems of Leninism" (page 42), that makes clear the strategy of Communism: "The dictatorship of the proletariat is a persistent struggle — sanguinary and bloodless, violent and peaceful, military and economic, educational and administrative — against the forces and traditions of the old society." Every Russian vow of peace, every amicable maneuver should be judged by that sentence. The confession is simple and deadly. It convicts Communism as an enemy of peace.

The Communist party line is a graph of treachery. It zigs and zags—but never loses sight of its goal: The destruction of freedom. . . . The theory of world revolution was firmly formulated over a century ago in the Communist Manifesto. Since then Communists have justified every crime to attain that fundamental premise. And they will use—every method to make that doctrine a reality. . . . No Communist tactic should be underestimated. If their propaganda conquers an American's mind—he is just as much a slave of Communism as any Russian citizen. And more dangerous.

History is a great teacher. Unfortunately, it has never been able to impress enough students. . . . That tragic fact is the reason for recurring international and domestic calamities. Those who cannot learn from past blunders are condemned to repeat them. . . . Despite the Soviet Union's lengthy record of deceit, its pose as a devotee of peace still deludes too many Americans. Communist peace proposals today are an echo of past events. While Russia was arming itself to the teeth in 1938—Litvinoff was in the League of Nations pleading for total world disarmament.

The Communist propagandists are playing upon our earnest desire for peace—and some Americans think they're hearing the music of angels. But the facts indicate Russia is composing democracy's "Funeral March." There are no notes of optimism in Communist lullabies that would put us to sleep permanently.

The World War II freak alliance between the Soviet Union and the Western Allies was a union forged by military expediency. The Kremlin never doubted it. . . . While the assembly lines of capitalist America were rescuing Russia from annihilation, the cynical Communist leaders never wavered from the basic Communist principle that its arch foe is capitalism. . . . Stalin announced it publicly Feb. 9th, 1946, by insisting capitalism (not Hitler!) was responsible for World War II. Here are Stalin's words: "Actually, the war was the inevitable result of the development of world economic and political forces on the basis of modern monopoly capitalism."

Communists believe there is not one main road to world conquest—but numerous paths. No matter how often they twist and turn, they still hope to reach that destination. . . . This reporter has often stressed that point before and he emphasizes it again.

BASCOT TIMMONS

Ominous forecasts that the nationalization of Iranian oil wells may be the spark which will touch off World War III have a hysterical ring to most American business leaders here, whose comment is:

"If Britain's Socialist government can nationalize her own top industries—coal and steel—how can it object if the Iranian parliament takes similar action on oil?"

The delicacy of the situation, however, appears to be much greater than that between the United States and Mexico in 1938, when the Mexican government expropriated the properties of 17 foreign oil companies, of which 11 were American, the others chiefly British. That action offers a precedent for the Iranian nationalization, and it also contains some ideas as to how the far eastern snarl may be straightened out without fighting.

In the Mexican seizure, the British put pressure on the U. S. government to protect its interests, even to the extent of forceful action. But U. S. oil production was moving up as Europe prepared for war, and the expropriation difficulty was eventually worked out with credit to both sides.

The Iranian charges that native labor was underpaid and that the returns to Iran in royalties were much less than equitable are reminiscent of the Mexican decision that workers should have higher pay, pensions and participation in management. Oil is a rugged business and in both instances, the companies have probably taken a tougher stand than if they had been influenced more by international considerations.

The British position in the Iranian situation becomes more involved in view of the ownership of more than one half interest in the Anglo-Iranian Co. by the British government itself, with a value estimated in some quarters at half a billion dollars.

Under the straightened circumstances in Britain the loss of that income is a serious matter. The Iranian government has given assurance that 25 per cent of the profits from the oil industry will be set aside for compensation, but a question rises whether the vast output of 700,000 barrels of oil a day can be maintained under Iranian management. Furthermore, it takes a fleet of 200 tankers, many owned by Anglo-Iranian to move that oil. The company tankers are not understood to be included in the nationalization.

Britain, too, is reviewing the

SPIRIT OF THE SOUTH

So long as we have courage, so long as we support principles, so long as we believe in ideals, the spirit of the south will never die, neither will it fade away.

That thought came to me again and again while participating in the final reunion of the United Confederate Veterans at Norfolk, Va. last week. The distinguishing characteristic of the south throughout its history has been its spirit. And this spirit will never die, because it is based on certain eternal truths that cannot die.

These truths may be submerged at times. They may even be betrayed by those who have held them dear. But, crushed to earth they will rise again, and if not regained by those who have relinquished them, it will be the fortune of some other people to rekindle the flame.

But throughout its history, the south has remained faithful to its trust; it remains so now. What are these truths? In essence, they are these: the inherent right of the individual to choose his own destiny; the inherent right of each state to decide what is best for its own people.

These principles are fundamental to the maintenance of the form of government under which this nation has lived and prospered; they are the very core and essence of the democratic way of life. Their stronghold remains in the south—a fact recognized by thoughtful people both within and without the region.

And yet for some years now the collectivists in this nation have been making every effort to break down these principles in every possible way. They are attempting to delude the people of the south with subsidies, in education, in health, in public works, in many other fields—either now being granted or being promised.

They are endeavoring to get the south to yield its determination to look after its own affairs to a centralized bureaucracy. But the south does not "live by bread alone," and the people of the south have not been inclined to thus trade their birthright of freedom for a mess of security pottage.

This does not mean we must not remain on our guard in the south. In fact, it is more necessary now than ever. For there are many indications now before us that we have grown soft in this nation, that we are weakened in our moral stamina. There is every possibility that the principle of individual freedom shall be sacrificed on the altar of public indifference. Surrendering the reins of government during the terrible emergency of a second world war, the people were slow to regain them, and now again under the guise of war emergency we are surrendering them once more.

Listening, in addition, to the seductive philosophy of the cradle-to-the-grave advocates of paternalistic government and strangled by the bureaucracy which fattens on its own success, regardless of political party, the people have been prone to forget that the government is the servant of the people and exists only "by the consent of the governed." Once that principle is surrendered, this nation would be no different from those that have gone down the corridor of time before it, and it would be doomed to inevitable oblivion. Then it would remain for some future people at some future time in history to pick up the torch of liberty where we have dropped it and press forward to success where we have failed.

It takes a great deal of faith and a great deal of patience to believe in democracy, to believe that man has the ability to manage his own affairs, yet without that faith we betray the dreams of freedom-loving men since the beginning of time, without that faith the whole history of our own nation would be meaningless. May God grant that in our struggle to maintain our American way of life, the people of the south may remain true to their heritage and stay in the vanguard of the fight.

moves by which Mexican expropriation became a matter of history, but it is doubtful that much precedent found there will be followed. The Sinclair Oil Co. was the first to work out a settlement with Mexico. In 1940, Sinclair reached an agreement to accept $12 million over three years, and to purchase 20,000,000 barrels of crude annually over four years.

In 1941 a committee of American and Mexican experts was formed to place a value on the Mexican properties. Mexico finally paid the American companies 24 millions, with 3 per cent retroactive interest. Payments were completed in September 1947.

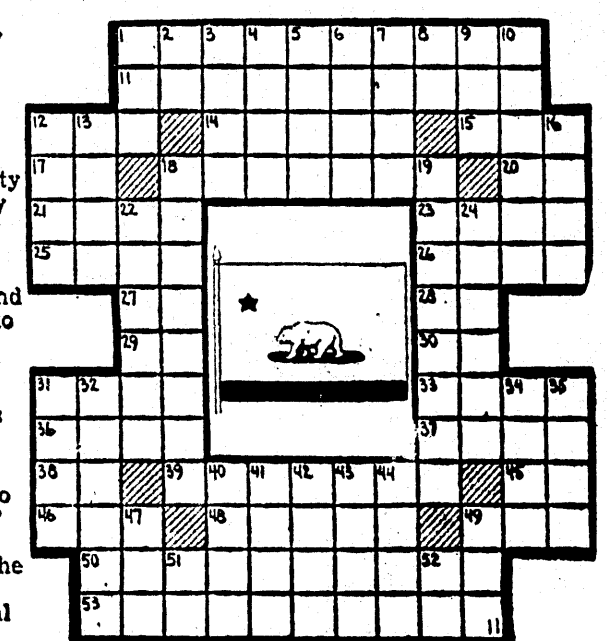

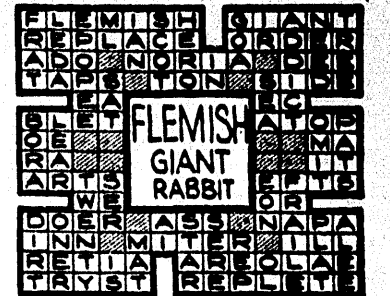

Britain has asked U. S. help in working out an agreement with the Iranian government, which would be to our interest, as oil now supplied to Europe from the Iranian fields would have to be replaced from U. S., Mexican and Latin American fields if the Iranian production was sharply reduced or diverted to other consumers. In that event, gasoline rationing in this country would be likely.

American oil men have said that delivery of Iranian oil direct to Soviet Russia would face huge difficulties in transportation over mountain ranges. But the Communists are determined to get a considerable share of that oil and to develop permanent installations which would guarantee continuous information reaching Washington. That is where the spark might flash to set off the battle, but neither civilian nor military authorities think World War III will start in Iran, if it does start.

PLENTY DEGREES COOLER INSIDE

THESE folks are enjoying something that's being pioneered by Buick.

It's freedom from the blinding glare of bright summer sunlight.

It's freedom from hot laps—caused by the sun's rays beating down through the broad expanse of windshield.

These freedoms trace to a new feature you may have noticed in '51 Buicks—a new kind of glass with a cool, soft, blue-green tint, in every glass area of the car, front, side and back.

Buick engineers tell us that this "Buick first" reduces glare 18% over conventional glass—cuts sun heat as much as 45%—and Buick engineers are very conservative fellows.

This glare-and-heat-reducing Easy-eye glass is factory-installed at moderate extra charge. It gives you a built-in transparent "sun visor" right in the windshield—and it also dulls the dazzle of oncoming headlights at night.

As we've said, this is something Buick owners were the first to enjoy. It takes his craft streaked 17,000 feet above Richmond.

The possibility of sabotage was investigated by federal men. But an Indiana state police lieutenant, a world war 11 flyer said, "The sabotage theory is farfetched."

Police Lt. Earl Smith said that if it were sabotage he could not understand how all the mishaps could have happened simultaneously.

Lt. Smith and a Pentagon source in Washington ruled out weather as a factor although lightning cracked in the skies at the time.

The Pentagon also said exhaustion of fuel did not seem to be involved. The planes were only 20 minutes out of Wright - Patterson Air Force Base, Dayton, Ohio, en route to Selfridge Field, Mt. Clemens, Mich.

The possibility that the eight planes had been fueled from the same tank with improper fuel at the Ohio base was being investigated. The high speed jets use a special fuel mixture involving kerosene.

It was generally agreed that none of the planes collided in the air. And Lt. Smith said one pilot told him an aerial explosion of one of the planes probably could not have downed another plane.

Police, however, said witnesses reported seeing planes "simulating combat maneuvers," as if in a dog fight. This led to speculation on whether a distress signal from one plane might have led others to break formation and possibly seek emergency landings.

Robert Croft, a Richmond telephone lineman, said he saw what looked like "a dogfight." He said: "Several planes went into a cloudy bank just as lightning creased the sky. A moment later there was an explosion."

The planes were from a second flight formation of 34, based at Bergstrom Air Force Base, Austin, Tex.

The air force at Washington ordered Maj. Gen. Victor E. Bertrando, its director of flying safety, to proceed to the scene and take charge of the inquiry. His headquarters are at Norton Air Force Base, San Bernardino, Calif.

at Pusan issued a statement saying an cease-fire at the 38th parallel "should be a danger signal to the free world."

"It would mean," he said, "either an unwarranted communist concentration of both manpower and war materials to give the United Nations forces in Korea a finishing push into the sea, or an ominous shifting of the communist forces from the Korean front to wherever the creation of a new battlefield is desirable."

On his arrival Friday, Marshall went off immediately for a tour of the Korean war front. He held conferences in Korea with high field officers. He told correspondents his visit was "purely military."

Back in Tokyo, Marshall spent many closely-guarded hours Saturday talking with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, supreme allied commander.

Speculation persisted that some big war announcement was in the wind. Marshall, however, said on his return from Korea he carried no new directives for Ridgway.

One high official indicated that Marshall would remain in Tokyo at least through part of Monday. He told correspondents that he felt Marshall would be willing to arrange another conference with the press, but under questioning said it probably would not be on Sunday.

An aide to Ridgway said Marshall had given no indication of his plans or when he would return to the United States.

Wars, and that was all that was needed.

Mr. Hunt saw that the matter was presented to the post Thursday night and Acting Commander N. O. Freeman gave the required impetus. He named a committee and before the next 24 hours were over, all details were arranged. Dave Kaplan will furnish piping at a low cost; H. M. James, post member, will do the welding required. Johnny Simmons, city commissioner, will furnish the labor, and firemen will also participate in the project.

There is already a flagpole on the Memorial plot for veterans of wars, but that is far from the entrance and the new flag pole will be near the office and will fly the flag at all times, being at half mast for military funerals.

R. D. Farr admits he is keeping his ear to the ground for 1952 is coming and he is planning to be again in the political race. "I do not ask anyone directly to vote for me but I am asking my friends to do anything they can in my behalf," he concluded.

Alexandria residents were quite interested when they observed a luxury boat docked there. It bore the name of "Idle Time," owned by Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Hibarger and George Hibarger, Wichita, Kans. The stop was made on the Red river for the purpose of refueling. It was destined for Burns Bay resort on Lake Texoma near Denison, Tex. The boat was built at Orange Beach, Mo., and the present owners left there with it up at airports and frontier posts.

May 24. They travelled down the Lake of the Ozarks, Osage river, and the Missouri river, the Mississippi, then up the Red river which was a trip of 1,100 miles when Alexandria was reached. The boat has a capacity of carrying 160 people. It is 65 feet long and 20 feet wide with a double deck and is powered by twin engine Diesels.

The entire community was shocked at the word that Capt. R. C. White Jr., is missing in Korea. This popular youth, who saw gruelling service in World War Two, being in prison for many months and at one time reported as missing, re-entered on his own accord the war in Korea soon after last New Year's. Now he is reported by the war department as missing since May 18.

He was one of the most highly regarded and valuable young men to be found anywhere, active in community projects in church and in all that concerns the area and the state. He was named "Man of the Year" by local Jaycees, elected to the lower house of the legislature and served as president of the Civitan club among his numerous other affiliations.

Incidentally one of the saddest persons in Monroe Saturday was Priscilla, faithful employee at the La Casa, who enjoyed nothing so well as bantering "R. C." and he in turn liked to return the compliment. "R. C." was my favorite, just couldn't sleep last night when I heard he was missing," she said Saturday, as her eyes dimmed with tears. Told that he is only reported missing and that he may, and as all hope, he still heard from, she wiped away the tears, and asked eagerly, if there was really any such chance. This expresses the feelings of the community which is still hoping for the best.

MacLean dealt in top-policy matters for the British government. He was consulted on the Atlantic alliance, British - American relations, and other topics. Burgess too, a brilliant if occasionally ill-groomed man, was in a position to know high international secrets.

Ridsdale was asked a his regular news conference if it is believed the two men are still together. "The search is going on and we have no information as to their whereabouts," he replied. "We are not proceeding on any hard and fast theory, but are taking every step to try to get in touch with them. We are not excluding any theory."

Asked why the Rome angle was disclosed only today, Ridsdale hinted that Britain's intelligence and counter espionage chiefs were keeping some details even from the foreign office to give their men in the field the benefit of secrecy. Rome police confirmed that the Burgess message was filed in Burgess' name Thursday. They combed Rome hotels for him in vain. Police noted it would have been possible for both men to have flown to Rome from Paris in a few hours, once they were through the guard French police have set up at airports and frontier posts.

state department calls the military tune" in Korea.

Bridges demanded that U. S. military planning be "removed from the state department and returned to the Pentagon where it belongs."

Earlier in the day, Secretary of State Acheson denied that the state department controls either military strategy or planning. "It is done in the department of defense under the joint chiefs of staff," Acheson told the senate inquiry committee.

Bridges said in his statement that administration witnesses—the list includes Secretary of Defense Marshall, General Omar Bradley, and Acheson—have given "conflicting opinions as to why we must not try for victory" in Korea.

The senator, a member of the inquiry group, continued:

"The ineptness, inconsistency and distortion of the testimony of administration witnesses has been highlighted on several occasions. Sometimes the witnesses contradict each other, sometimes they contradict themselves."

Bridges said that Acheson, in his testimony on June 4, "undertook another of his doubletalk dissertations to explain the fall of the government of the republic of China in spite of vast quantities of American aid."

He said Acheson specifically took credit for "the aid rendered by the United States forces in China" during World War II in planning and carrying out the movement of the Chinese government forces into the areas occupied by Japanese troops.

But Bridges said both Acheson and General Marshall have repeatedly claimed that "the primary military reason for the collapse of the Nationalist armies was the fact that they were over-extended and tried to occupy too many cities and too many facilities."

"In one breath, the administration claims credit for 'planning and carrying out the movement' of Nationalist forces," Bridges said, "and in the next breath they proclaim that such plans and movements were the very reason for their downfall."

"This is an outstanding example of talking out of both sides of your mouth."

pressed belief the Reds would make their main stand across the narrow waist of the peninsula. This would mean a pullback of 65 miles to a line hinged on Wonsan, battered east coast port, and Pyongyang, Red capital in northwestern Korea.

Lt. Gen. William M. Hoge, commander of the ninth corps, said during a frontline inspection that the military situation was "excellent."

Noge said he attached "no particular significance" to the surprise visit by Secretary of Defense George Marshall, now in Tokyo in secret conferences with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway.

There was no hint as to the subject of Marshall's discussions with the supreme allied commander. But rumors of impending important developments persisted.

A delayed dispatch from AP Correspondent Stan Carter reported that two Chinese armies had been withdrawn from north Korea. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, Bradley was the previous high.

Lt. Gen. Albert Wedemeyer, author of the Wedemeyer report on China, is scheduled to be the next witness at 9 a. m. E. S. T., Monday.

Acheson's long-range clash with General MacArthur came after the ousted far Pacific commander hotly denounced as a "prevarication" any suggestion that he ever favored a coalition of Communists with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Chinese Nationalist regime.

However, Acheson insisted that MacArthur's recommendations on China policy in 1945 were included in the instructions given to Secretary of Defense Marshall for his 1945-46 China mission.

That was the mission on which Marshall reported failure to bring Chinese Communists and Nationalists together and end their bloody strife.

In a telegram from New York, MacArthur charged that Marshall's mission was designed to "force" Chiang's government into an alliance with the Reds, and he declared:

"It was one of the greatest blunders in American diplomatic history for which the free world is now paying blood and disaster and will in all probability continue to do so indefinitely."

Testifying before the senate foreign relations and armed services committees, Acheson repeatedly denied that the U. S. government ever tried to force a Red alliance upon Chiang.

"We have never tried to force that at all," he said.

It was in reply to testimony last Wednesday by Acheson that MacArthur issued his angry blast to the senate.

Acheson had produced a document in which MacArthur recommended on Dec. 7, 1945, a "compromise between the major opposing groups" in China "in order to promote a unified Democratic China."

MacArthur said in a telegram to Senator Knowland (R-Calif.) that it was "almost beyond belief" that anyone could interpret this as favoring a Communist-Nationalist coalition. Rather, he said, he sought to strengthen Chiang's hand and prevent a reversion to a system of disunited war lords.

MacArthur's message reached Capitol Hill amid these other developments in the senate inquiry into his ouster as far Pacific commander.

Secretary of State Acheson announced that President Truman has ordered all government agencies to cooperate in congress decisions to investigate the "China lobby" backing large-scale aid to Chiang Kai-shek.

Acheson made the statement in testimony for the eighth day at senate hearings on the administration's Far East policies.

The cabinet officer said the state department has amassed considerable "hearsay" evidence about the China lobby's activities, and he told senators:

"There is some reason, if this hearsay is believed, to say that some of these activities, at least, are not in accordance with the law."

He said, however, that the data on hand "would not warrant me in making charges of any sort."

and Cain (R.-Wash.) — but acknowledged at one point in his day-long testimony that the department "strongly objected" to U. S. planes bombing Rashin, Korea, 17 miles south of the Soviet border.

Acheson said such attacks "raised very great dangers of involving Soviet forces."

Cain said the hands-off order on Rashin gave the Reds a "fireproof and bombproof supply center in the heart of enemy country."

As Acheson finally left the witness chair, official stenographers estimated that nearly 1,500,000 words have poured into the inquiry records in the last five weeks.

Acheson was credited with some 424,750 words, nearly one-third of the total, compared with 286,550 words during the testimony of Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff. Bradley was the previous high.

Earlier, Senator McMahon (D-Conn.) had told newsmen that any probe of the China lobby would certainly focus on the question of whether U. S. aid funds have been used to sway the American people in support of Chiang's government.

2. Senator Bridges (R-N.H.), countering Acheson's disclosure of administration support for a China lobby probe, promptly demanded that any such inquiry should also cover "the pressures and lobbies and influences" of other foreign nations.

He mentioned Great Britain, France, Belgium, Holland, Colombia, Finland, Denmark, Greece, Sweden and Iran.

Shortages Of Beef Is Seen In U. S. Soon

Chicago, June 9.—(A)—Butcher shop meat lines and beefsteak restaurants — home front sights in the last war — may begin re-appearing in some U. S. cities next week, a spot survey showed today.

The smallest parade of cattle in more than three years came into the nation's stockyards for sale this week. Butchers and restaurant operators in several cities reported a below normal supply of beef on hand.

Some industry spokesmen predict the shortage will grow more acute later in the month and that a consumer switch to fresh pork may cause a temporary scarcity in that meat.

Many persons close to the situation, however, expect at least a temporary improvement in the nation's cattle sales and beef supply in July, regardless of what happens to beef price controls.

Trade sources said poultry is in good supply.

Meat packers and cattle raisers blame government price ceilings for the present shortage. Spokesmen for the office of price stabilization, meanwhile, charge the packers are trying to force congress to end price controls June 30.

A spot check of representative large cities from coast to coast today showed most sections of the country already are or soon will feel the pinch of beef shortages.

James R. Browne, president of the Kansas City retail grocers, representing 500 independents, said some stores did not have sufficient beef to meet their Saturday demand. He said all meat lines were in short supply and that packers could promise no relief.

Local retail meat and restaurant representatives in most areas said they took "a dim view" of the beef outlook for next week.

One Chicago grocery chain reported it would have only 40 per cent of its normal beef supply next week. However, another chain which depends on its own packing plant said it would have a full complement. Some Chicago independent reporters reported they were out of beef.

An official of a large supply house that services restaurants and clubs in Buffalo, N. Y., said "after working twice as hard to procure the product, we were able to get only 35 to 50 per cent of our normal beef needs." Buffalo restaurants had beef on their Saturday menus but said the outlook for next week was dim.

The Danahy Packing Company, a Buffalo sausage maker, closed down and laid off 25 workers. A plant official said this marks the first time since the company was founded 65 years ago that it had to suspend operations because of a beef shortage.

Packers advised the St. Louis Restaurant Association that practically no beef will be available for restaurants next week.

Police said last night that Edward T. Hance, 416 Hart street, Monroe, was found by detectives about 11 p. m. in a bus station here reportedly getting ready to board a bus for Houston, Tex.

Firemen had dragged the Ouachita river since early yesterday morning in attempt to recover Hance's body. A coat with the man's name in it and two notes sheriff deputies said indicated a suicide, set off the firemen's search.

The coat and notes were found by Joe Curry, a West Monroe youth crossing the bridge at about 2:30 a. m. yesterday. No one reported seeing anyone leaping from the bridge but Curry notified police and firemen began dragging the river early yesterday morning.

Reasons for taking Hance to the sanitarium were not explained by police late last night. No further information regarding Hance's discovery at the bus station was given.

ACTIVITY IN NEW ENGLAND

Pittsfield, Mass.—(A)—Who says New England communities are static?

A directory company, beginning its canvass for the 1952 directory for this city of 53,000, estimates it will have to make 30,000 changes in its existing data.

Of course, explains the representative of the H. A. Manning Co., of Springfield, that doesn't mean 30,000 people moved. When a family moves and is replaced by another, or when a business changes its address, or officers, there is often a chain-reaction of developments involving several entries.

Know These Men!

Your County Agent... Extension Specialist... State Experimental Station Personnel

These men know cotton insecticides as a part of their job. They are in position to advise you and are a reliable source of information. This year some cotton insecticides may be in short supply. If you can't obtain the insecticides you prefer, your local agricultural authorities' recommendations on effective alternatives will be invaluable to the success of your crops.

Don't take chances with inferior products. Buy insecticides just as you buy your cotton seed and fertilizer—for their effectiveness. High quality chemicals properly applied are actually more economical and will assure maximum yields. When in doubt about the most efficient cotton insecticide for your use, check with a recognized agricultural authority.

New Organic Insecticides by Chapman Chemical Company offer the farmer balanced formulations for complete control of all major cotton insect pests. Their killing power and easy handling characteristics are familiar to all users. Buy Chapman to get the best quality. See your local Chapman dealer.

Negro Arraigned For Mail Theft

A 32-year-old Negro was arraigned yesterday at a U. S. commissioner's hearing on charges of forgery and theft.

U. S. Commissioner Haynes Harvey identified the Negro as Eligh Allen of 3004 Pearl St.

Allen is charged with unlawfully, knowingly, and willfully stealing from a U. S. mail receptacle at 3001 Jackson on June 7.

The stolen letter, mailed from Kansas City, Missouri, June 6, was addressed to George Watson, 3001 Jackson.

On the same day, June 7, Allen allegedly committed the second crime of forgery when he feigned Watson's signature on a U. S. treasury's check payable to the amount of $20 at Collen's Pharmacy, 601 DeSiard.

Eight Ouachita Parish High School students, shown above, will start their senior work this fall by serving as pages during the Ouachita Parish Teachers' Workshop, scheduled September 4-7. Left to right, front row shows Barbara Monroes Tarver, Imogene Noble, Jr., Jo Rhodes and Donna Montgomery. In the back row are Martha Hatchell, Violet Venable, chairman, Pat Black and Margaret Hunter. The group will be directed by Miss Agnes Shaw of the commerce department in assisting in keeping many details of the project work smoothly. Dr. George Daer, professor of education at Louisiana State University, will direct the workshop, with several consultants in various fields as assistants.

Civilization Weighed In Balances, States Prather

The class of 1951 of Ouachita Parish High School, numbering 238 received diplomas at the annual commencement held in the Neville High School auditorium, Friday night. The speaker, H. Lee Prather, president of Northwestern State College, for many years an outstanding coach and educator, delivered the address of the occasion. His address in part was as follows:

"You graduates step forth into the world at an uncertain time, when it seems that leader of the nation have made a mess of things. But this condition," he assured, "leaves a great opportunity to make democracy, for which our forefathers fought and in many instances gave their lives, once more live as a vital world force. Confusion seems to exist on all sides today."

"This is the last chance given the world to permit civilization to continue. I want to talk with you tonight on the general subject of Success."

"First, there is no real success in life without ambition. There is no limit to where one can go if he has this needed quality. Real success is achieved to a large degree through culture acquired through good books, good associates and a well-balanced life in which the spiritual aspect receives proper attention."

"Ambition is the urge that says you can, you must, you will when all outside seems to say that it just can't be done. A bootblack becomes president of a large New York bank; a gentlemen's furnishing store operator becomes the president of the United States. Such things as these are possible only in a great democracy like we have here."

"Sometimes I feel that certain high degree of progress is attributable to heredity, but again it seems quite evident that it can best be traced to environment. A far-seeing teacher may be the one to awaken the spark of ambition and genius in the child she is instructing."

"The crime investigating committee has shown unfortunately that men in high office have had close connections with gangsters and racketeers. We now that juvenile delinquency is one of the perils and unsolved problems of our time. As never before we are in need of people with worthy ambitions."

"The second point that I would cite is this: Ambition is in vain without knowledge. We live in an age that is confronted with the keenest sort of competition. Society is far more complex than in past times. Parents want their children to have better educations, to live easier lives than they themselves experienced. Education has gone far past what has been the record of other periods in history. Today with college educations so widespread, there is a better opportunity for success than ever before."

"Many, however, go to college who should not go there, and many do not go on with higher education who should be so permitted. I can quickly and easily give a test as to who should and who should not go to college. Ask yourself this: Can you pursue a schedule of study day by day, retire at a proper hour, arise each day at the early hour needed? Can you go by dispensing machines where candy and cold drinks are on sale and not be tempted? Can you practice self-control, no matter what occurs? Would you rather fail in a test than to cheat on your paper? If you can answer these truthfully and properly you should be permitted to go to college."

"I would stress that religion must rightly enter into your lives as educated young people. The laws forbid that religion be taught in schools, but it is through the home influence a necessity in attaining a well-rounded life. . . . Today the nation is well down spiritually and morally. This presents our very greatest need. We are spiritual beings. God breathed into man the breath of life and he became a living soul. Any education that makes light of this statement has utterly failed."

"Another statement that I would impress on you tonight is that knowledge without work is dead. I believe that each and every child should be taught to do some work. Hard work is the secret of success in the lives of those who have gone far up the ladder of achievement. While not belittling the new order of things, it is a fact that our ancestors did not achieve results that they did through anything like a 40-hour working week. The world does not owe you a living, as some seem to presume, but it does owe you an opportunity to make a decent living for yourself. Happy is the person of whom it can be said that he works with music in his soul and a song on his lips. The world is full of misfits, with square pegs in round holes, here are too many derelicts on the sea of life."

The class attired in caps and gowns marched into the auditorium to the strains of the processional, "Pomp and Circumstance" by the parish high school band. After the singing of the national anthem, Rev. R. H. Staples, offered invocation. A spiritual, "Way Over Jordan," was sung by the high school choir, soloists Leone De Loach and Dick Frantom.

The salutatory address on "Our World Today" was by Scotty Tullier and the valedictory by Dorothy Words was on "Our Faith in Tomorrow."

After the address by President Prather, there was Overture by the band entitled "Orpheus in the Underworld."

The American Legion awards made for excellence in character, courage, scholarship, leadership, and service were earned by Tommy Trawick and Alice Marie George and Legionnaire Bailey Grant, sheriff, made the presentation.

Mrs. James Conway Liner, on behalf of the Fort Miro chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, presented the annual medal to Dorothy Words, for excellence in American history.

Principal I. C. Strickland presented the class of 1951 and diplomas were awarded by J. H. Trousdale, Jr., president of the Ouachita parish school board.

Alma Mater, by Jane Wallace, played by the band, closed the program with the exception of benediction by Reverend Staples.

TAYLOR EXAMINED

Physician Says Every Possible Consideration Shown At Hospital

Monroe Charity Hospital records and statements by Dr. C. P. Gray, Jr., superintendent, show that A. L. Taylor, who died in the morning of June 2, was thoroughly examined by a physician at his last appearance at the hospital early in the morning of May 31. At that time, Dr. Gray said, Mr. Taylor was shown every consideration possible under state hospital regulations.

The superintendent said Mr. Taylor appeared at the hospital at 1:30 o'clock in the morning and asked for treatment, saying he was sick and wanted to see a doctor. Two doctors are present at the hospital at all times at night, Dr. Gray stated, and as soon as Mr. Taylor said he wanted a physician, he was examined.

Dr. Gray said that a thorough examination of the man was made, including temperature and pulse tests, and it was found that Mr. Taylor was in an intoxicated condition but that his general condition was otherwise normal, including a normal temperature. Two weeks before, Mr. Taylor had been similarly examined and had been found to be intoxicated.

Since no provision is made at Charity Hospital for caring for intoxicated persons who otherwise are in normal condition, Mr. Taylor was asked if he wished to go home but told attendants he had given up his room and did not know where to go. He said he worked for a cab company, but when the cab company was called, a spokesman said the firm had nowhere to put the man and did not wish to pick him up.

Dr. Gray said the hospital made no charge against Mr. Taylor but merely asked officers to remove him.

It was also pointed out that Mr. Taylor later appeared in court and entered a plea of guilty to a charge of drunkenness.

Hospital records were exhibited to show that Mr. Taylor was examined and that his requests were met as nearly as possible.

Berle Takes Tour For Cancer Fund

New York, June 9.—Radio and television comedian Milton Berle settled down at noon today for 22 non-stop hours to raise money to fight cancer.

He planned to stay before television cameras and a battery of telephones until 10 a.m. tomorrow to take pledges for the Damon Runyon memorial fund created in memory of the newspaperman and writer who died of cancer.

The calls began within 30 seconds. Forty-four minutes later the fund had $51,668 in pledges and contributions.

Berle wasn't taking all the pledges himself. He announced to the television audience that 91 phones had been hooked up off-stage and 1,000 telephone operators had volunteered to take calls in two-hour shifts. On stage behind him, nine eye-appealing models also were taking calls.

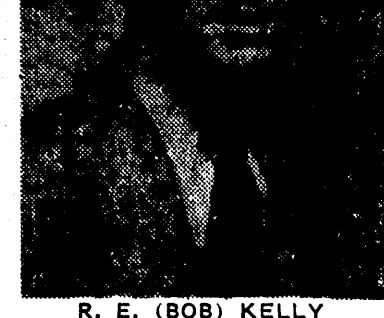

This is the third annual "teletthon" Berle has run for the Damon Runyon fund. Last year, more than $2,000,000 was pledged. This year's goal is higher, but Berle wouldn't say how much.

He began the 22-hour benefit show by presenting Mayor Vincent Impellitteri with a $50,000 check from the fund for cancer research at New York University's Bellevue Medical Center. He said the fund has paid out more than $4,200,000 for cancer research since Runyon's death four years ago.

The show is being broadcast by the National Broadcasting Company from its Radio City studios and is hooked up with 43 NBC television stations in other cities.

Comforts Upped In Past 10 Years

Washington, June 9.—The comforts of home increased considerably in this country in the 1940-50 decade, despite World War II.

The census bureau, in an initial report on the 1950 census of housing, said today:

"Almost every home had a radio in April 1950, about one out of eight had a television set, and four out of five had mechanical refrigeration."

Perhaps more important from a comfort standpoint, about half of the 45,875,000 houses and apartments had central heating equipment, half cooked with gas, and 85 per cent had a kitchen sink—in the "rural-farm" areas, in fact, many homes without running water had a kitchen sink, and a hand pump to go with it.

The proportion of homes with these devices in 1950 was up notably from 1940. For instance, the number of houses with mechanical refrigerators doubled in that time—reflecting the further fact that 94 per cent of homes had electric lighting in 1950 against 79 per cent in 1940.

Homes became more numerous as well as more comfortable. The housing boom that ran from the war's close in 1945 right on through 1950 saw to that: It added an average of 1,100,000 dwelling units to the nation's housing facilities.

Injured Sailor Ran Over, Killed

Lewes, Del., June 9.—A 20-year-old sailor, laid under a blanket by the side of the road after being injured in an auto accident, was run over and killed by another car early today.

The victim, identified by state police as Seaman Robert Ray Smith, of Buckhannon, W. Va., was returning to Ft. Miles where he was stationed, with two soldier companions.

His car skidded, overturned and landed on its roof in the middle of route 18. Cpl. Okey Hamrick, 22, Minerva, O., the driver and another passenger, Cpl. Charles E. Bishop, 21, Hillsdale, Mich., only slightly hurt, pulled Smith out of the wreck and helped him to the side of the road. They covered him with a blanket to keep him warm. He was conscious and talking.

State police said that when James F. Johnson, 55, of Lewes, pulled off the highway to get around the wreck, his car ran over Smith. Police stopped Johnson a short way down the road and held him in $500 bail on a charge of leaving the scene of an accident.

Johnson told police he did not see the injured sailor and did not know he had driven over him. Smith was dead on arrival at Beebe Memorial Hospital.

Deaths HARRY DORTCH

Columbia, La., June 9.—(Special)—Funeral services for Harry Dortch, 49, who died in a Monroe hospital early today will be held at 3 p. m. Sunday in the Palestine Church, Reverend Seals and Reverend Cokerham will officiate.

Mr. Dortch had been in ill health for the past three years. Services will be under the direction of Riser's Funeral Home here. Interment will follow in the Palestine Cemetery.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Joyce Dortch, two daughters, Bobbie Jean and Tommie Sue Dortch, a son, Jimmy Dortch, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dortch of Columbia, two sisters, Mrs. Goldie Hall of Monroe, Mrs. Floy Gentry, of Columbia and three brothers, Emmet and Lammie Dortch, of Monroe and Solon Dortch of Grayson.

DORTCH RITES

Columbia, La., June 9.—(Special)—Funeral services for W. H. Dortch, 49, who died in a Monroe hospital today, will be held at the residence of a brother, Solor Dortch, in Grayson Sunday at 2 p. m.

Interment will be in Palestine Cemetery.

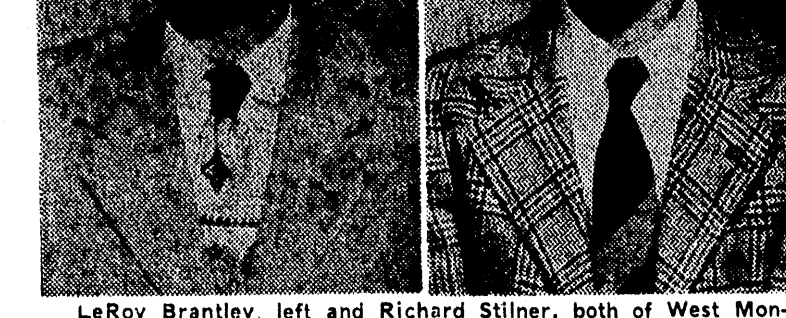

Surviving are his wife, two daughters, Tommy Sue and Bobby Jean; one son, Jimmy; parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Dortch, Columbia; two sisters, Mrs. Goldie Hall, West Monroe, Mrs. Floy Gentry, Columbia; three brothers, L. B. and E. M., Monroe, and S. E., Grayson.

Pallbearers will be Murel Bailey, Jesse Hargrove, Jr., Hardy Lee, Dyke Coates, Odla Gregory, and James Haddock.

Arrangements will be under the direction of Riser Funeral Home of Columbia.

"America" was written by Rev. Samuel Francis Smith in 1832, and it was first sung in Boston on the Fourth of July of that year. It was inspired by a great tune, "God Save the King."

TO LEAD REVIVAL

LeRoy Brantley, left and Richard Stiller, both of West Monroe and students at the parish high school, will lead a revival series at the Peniel Baptist church in Bawcomville June 10 through June 15. The youthful preachers have both worked with evangelists in previous revivals.

WOMEN VOTERS LEAGUE GROWS

National Figures Pass 100,000 Mark; Local Group Also Active

The L. W. V. of the United States is growing by leaps and bounds. More and more women are finding it a real help and pleasure to be a member of this enthusiastic group whose sole purpose is to find effective ways to promote better government.

Mrs. Elmer Slagle, local president reports that national figures have topped the 100,000 mark. There are now 100,316 members in 764 leagues all over the U. S. A., an increase of approximately 7,000 members and 25 leagues since April, 1950.

The Monroe League is keeping pace with the national organization.

"Know Your Town" is the title of the project that will receive concentrated attention for the next two years. Special committees will study and report on all phases of our city government. The result will be a clearer understanding of our type of city organization, the functions of each office, the work of various departments and how they are authorized and financed, thus developing well informed and effective citizens.

NO FOUNDATION FOR ACCUSATION

Acheson Denies He Advocates Turning Over Korea, Formosa To Reds

Washington, June 9.—Secretary of State Acheson said today there was no basis for an assertion by Senator Taft (R.-Ohio) that Acheson advocates a policy which would turn over Korea and Formosa to the Communists.

Taft said yesterday that was inherent in Acheson's willingness to agree to a cease-fire at the 38th parallel in Korea. Acheson had testified earlier at the senate MacArthur hearings that it would have to be a "real settlement" with a real guarantee against new aggression.

Senator Sparkman (D.-Ala.) said Taft had declared that Acheson showed "a willingness to surrender Korea" and Formosa to the Communists.

"Have you said anything there from which any such inference could be fairly drawn?" Sparkman asked.

Acheson: "I don't think so, sir." Sparkman: "That is not your belief, is it?"

Acheson: "No." Sparkman: "Is that the belief of the department of state or the administration?"

Acheson: "No, sir." Sparkman: "And you adhere to the statement that you have made here repeatedly, over and over, that we shall do everything we can to prevent Formosa falling into the hands of the Red Communists or of any group that would be hostile to us?"

Acheson: "I have stated that so many times." Sparkman: "And the same thing is true with reference to Korea?"

Acheson: "Yes, sir."

Journalism Instructor Will 'Pound' News Beat

Madison, Wis., June 9.—A former president of the American Association of Teachers of Journalism will pound the pavements this summer as a reporter for the Toledo blade.

He is Prof. Henry Ladd Smith, of the University of Wisconsin School of Journalism.

"It's all part of good teaching," he explains. "We feel in the 'J' School that every five years or so we ought to get back in the groove."

MUFFETT BLANKS OILERS, WINS 9TH IN ROW

MONROE SCORES OVER EL DORADO 3-0, ON 5-HITTER

Sports Protect League Lead With Win; Series Final Here Today

Jilly Muffett, Monroe righthander, pitched and batted his way to a ninth straight Cotton States League triumph here last night as he shutout the El Dorado Oilers on five hits, 3 to 0, to brush aside an Oilier effort to take over the league lead.

Muffett, who lost only his first start of the season for the Sports, helped his cause along with a two-run double in the first inning last night to put his club into an early lead. The win sent the Men of Mazur a game and a half ahead of the Oilers again in their battle for the perch at the head of the class.

Like all Monroe - El Dorado games here this season, the game yesterday was tense all the way, and the 1,610 paying fans had some especially tense moments in the ninth inning when the Oilers loaded the bases. It marked the first time in the game El Dorado had been able to get a runner as far as third, but the Sports got through the threat without damage.

With the current series all square the two rivals met in the rubber game of their set here this afternoon at 3 o'clock at Legion Memorial Stadium. The game will close out the current home stand for the Sports who go to Pine Bluff for three games, beginning tomorrow, and Hot Springs for two, beginning Thursday. Manager Al Mazur brings his boy back home next Saturday night to open a two-game stand with Pine Bluff, the Bathers following with three.

Jerry Gardner hurled a creditable game for El Dorado last night but errors hurt his chances. El Dorado bobbles figured in Monroe two scoring innings, the second and third. Gardner fanned seven and walked only three. Muffett didn't register a strikeout and walked five, but he had better fielding support and was less charitable with base hits.

When Mel Nunes muffed Greene bounded to second to open the bottom of the second, the Sports were away for their first scoring punch. "Andy" Andrews fanned, but Jesse Van Winkle dropped a double along the right field foul line, putting Greene on third. Dick Anderson grounded out to Ed Zabeck at third, but Muffett followed through with his double along the right field foul line, putting Greene on third. Dick Anderson grounded out to Ed Zabeck at third, but Muffett followed through with his double that drove home Greene and Van Winkle.

Two were out when the Sports shoved over their other run in the second. John Paul Jones was safe when Gardner, fielding his roller in front of the mound, threw wild to first. Greene came through with a triple into center field, scoring Jones.

Although the Oilers left two men stranded in three earlier innings, they never looked as threatening as they did when they loaded the sacks in the ninth.

Jim Morgan grounded out to An-draws at short to start the ninth. Then Nunes popped a hopper to Andrews whose throw to first was a mite wide. However, Jones made the catch, and, as Umpire "Steamboat" Johnson was starting to signal an out, Jones dropped the ball. Nunes was safe, but he was ejected from the game in friction with Umpire Johnson. Joe Slaber came in to run for Nunes. Bill Lewis down on a long fly to Bob Hamric in left field. Zabeck punched a single into right field, sending Slaber on a pop fly to Jones at first and the game was over.

SPORTSPURTS: Through the opening game of the current El Dorado series, the Sports boasted two hurlers with earned run averages below the 2.00 mark. Billy Muffett is right at the top of the league with a 1.58 while Claude White isn't far behind with a 1.99. Roger Stewart has a 2.73; "Chris" Chrisco, a 3.72; "Arky" Bowden, a 4.88; and Bill Knoke has a 4.95. Carl Tucker and R. W. Bruce, batting one - two in the Sports' order are tied for the club leadership in runs scored. Each has 40. Bobby Greene is top dog in hits with 58. Johnny Jones' four triples in four consecutive nights has catapulted him into the club leadership in that vital category. The Taten Thumper had seven - batters to ease one ahead of Bob Hamric, runner - up in that category. The Mazurmen have slacked up in their double play production. They've created only four in their last nine games. A decided drop from the pace they set most of the year. The locals now have wrapped up 63 twin - killings in 54 tilts. Gene Mitchell, brilliant young righthander, who was with Monroe during spring training last year, was a visitor in town during the week. The Anniston, Ala., native was optioned to Port Arthur of the Texas Class C Gulf Coast League, where he won 11 and lost 14 with a 4.08

Entry List For Club Championship Tourney At Bayou DeSiard Swells

McClendon's Score Stands; Washburn In Haas Memorial Finals

With a week to go toward posting qualifying scores for the second annual Bayou DeSiard Country Club Championship Tournament, the list began to mount yesterday as 22 golfers turned out to post their qualifying cards but all failed to near the leading medal mark of 69 already turned in by Harold McClendon, Bastrop.

One finalist for the annual Cramer Haas Memorial Handicap championship has been decided with the advance of J. S. Washburn into the final round. Washburn's opponent in the championship match will be determined today in a semi-final meeting between Dr. W. C. Summer and "Sonny" Richards.

Washburn gained the finals by tripping Bobby Oliver, 2 and 1. In a delayed match, Summer beat Bill Jones, 3 and 1, to reach the semi-final meeting with Richards. The list of qualifiers for the club championship event is as follows:

Harold McClendon 69, C. J. Turpin 74, Clyde Nash 74, Jack Rubin 91, "Sonny" Richards 86, Louis Milner 86, Owen McCleary 78, C. B. McMahon 84, George Miller 88, Louis Hall 86, Ned Leigh 104, Henry Hinkle 103, W. C. Crowell 86, G. L. Morgan 92, Jack Cottrell 78, Dr. W. C. Summer 82, Dr. D. L. Anderson 89, C. C. Cotton States League PLANTERS BEAT JUDGES

Clarkdale, Miss., June 9.—Pitcher Joe Kopach sparked the Clarkdale Planters in a 5-1 win over the Pine Bluff Judges here tonight.

Going the entire route for the Planters, Kopach gave up only five scattered hits, four of them singles, and one a double.

He also allowed the Judges two bases on balls.

Most of the Clarkdale scoring came in the fifth inning when the Planters got to Dick Fellhaber for two hits and three walks, which they converted into four runs.

T. Way Tie
Ruston, La., June 9.—(Special)—Two of the four leading teams in the Big Eight are new in second place as the Ruston Rebels lost to their city rivals, the Ruston Vols while Dubach 1st a close game to Bernice. Farmerville and Bernice are now tied for first place and they will battle Monday night at Farmerville not only for Big Eight honors but for the supremacy of Union parish.

The Rebels got off to a three run lead and were coasting to a seemingly easy victory but everything that could happen in a ball game did happen and the Vols slipped five runs across the plate in the 7th to take the lead which they increased by two runs in the eighth to win an 8 to 3 decision.

Hodge lost another extra inning game to Sterlington, when they blew up in the eleventh to allow Sterlington to make five runs and win 11 to 6. Bob Weaver and Howard Morgan's stick work featured the game, while Jerry Greggs tripled into the eleventh for Farmerville and C. R. Jarmons hitting enabled Farmerville to win.

The Dubach Swingers battled Bernice the entire game but Parker's three run homer in the second kept Bernice out in front in a pitchers battle between Pete Adkins and Calvin Turner, former Bernice hurler but now with Dubach.

Minden coasted to an easy victory over the Commercial Solvents of Sterlington on four hits by Sonny Booras and "Harry Davis's home run.

SOFTBALL TWIN BILL SCHEDULED

City All-Star, Southern Bell Face Camden Ark., In Legion Benefit

A double header softball show for the benefit of the Fairbanks American Legion Post is scheduled for Saturday night, June 23, at Fairbanks with the powerful Hamilton Motors Rockets of Camden, Ark., appearing in contests against the City League All - Stars of Monroe and the Southern Bell club of Monroe.

Wilbur "Smitty" Smith, former hurling ace in Monroe's City League, will be here to hurl for Hamilton against the City League All - Stars.

Murray Lambert, who single-handedly hurled the MacMillan Oilers of Norphlet, Ark., to districts and state - regional titles last year, will do the chores for the Rockets against Southern Bell.

Sam Rubin, Monroe, assisting in promotion of the game, last night said the City All - Star squad will be chosen later in the week. He promised the Rockets will be facing one of the strongest softball clubs this section of the state is able to muster.

An advanced sale of tickets for the game will also be conducted. Rubin announced pastebards, costing 50 and 25 cents, will be put on advanced sale at Lockhart - Blair Sports Shop, R. and A. Jewelers, and handled by members of the Southern Bell club and members of the Fairbanks Legion post.

St. Louis Browns Offer Tryouts At Pine Bluff

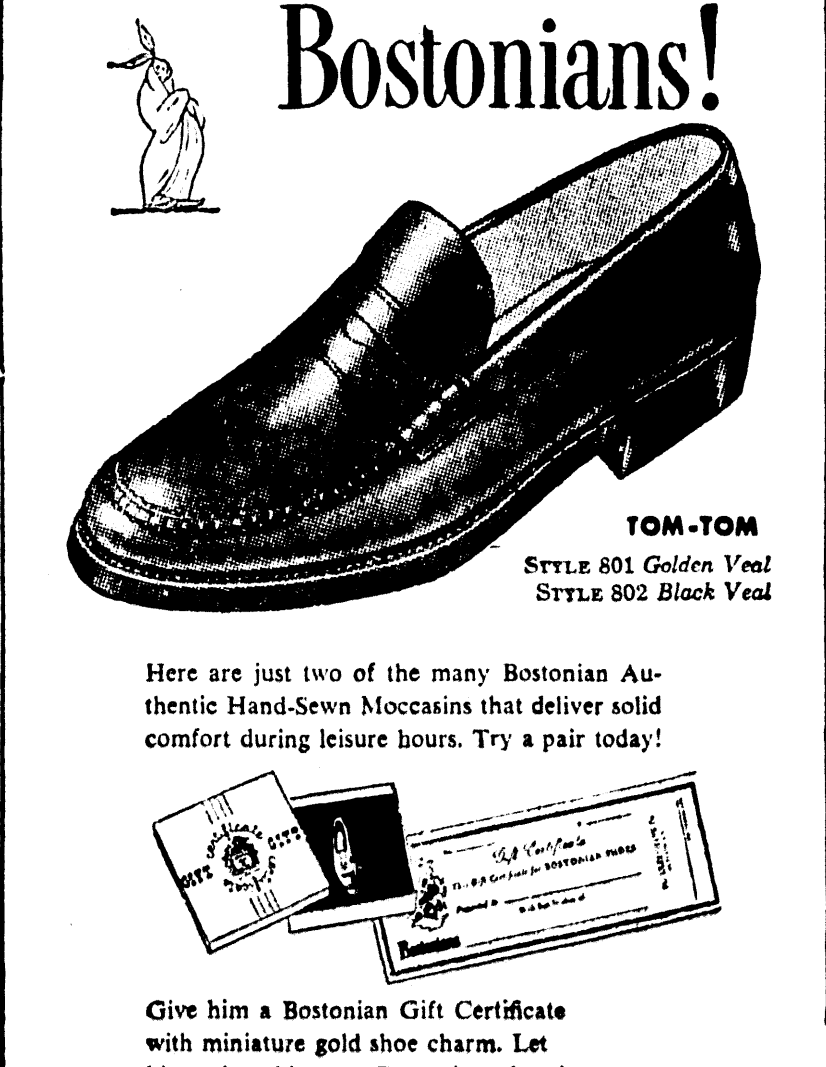

Pine Bluff, Ark., June 9.—(Special)—Many out-of-town boys are expected to attend the St. Louis Browns tryout camp opening at Taylor Field here Monday morning. Tryouts are scheduled to get under way at 10 o'clock with Maurice Archdeacon, one of the Browns ace scouts, in charge. He will be assisted by Bob Richards, manager of the Judges. Morning and afternoon sessions will be held Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. The camp will be open free to all boys 17 to 23 years of age who have their own baseball shoes and gloves. Out-of-town boys are required to pay their own expenses, but those who are signed to contracts will be reimbursed.

RAMPANT YANKS AGAIN CHILL CHISOX, 10-5

SOARING INDIANS GAIN 3RD PLACE TIE WITH BOSOX

Pierce Victim As Pale Hose
Lead Trimmed To Two And Half Games

Chicago, June 9. — The on-rushing New York Yankees chilled the Chicago White Sox for the second straight day, today, 10-5, trimming the Pale Hose league lead to 2½ games and shattering a five-game win streak by left Billy Pierce.

A crowd of 24,726 saw the Yankees relentlessly run their season mastery over the Sox to four games to one behind a 14 - hit attack. Although Frank (Spec) Shea started and surrendered a 6-2 lead to reliever Tommy Byrne in the fifth. The victory was credited to Byrne, his second decision against one defeat. The wild lefthander allowed only one hit until he got wild in the eighth and was yanked in favor of Joe Ostrowski after hitting a batter and walking two to fill the bases.

The Sox, who owned a six - game win string and 20 decisions in 22 starts before the Yanks showed up yesterday, had to derrick the ineffective Pierce in the fifth after the Yanks had battered him for nine hits and a 6-2 lead.

It was Pierce's first defeat since May 3 when he bowed to Washington, 7-1, and left him with a 7-3 season record.

The Sox — who must face the Yankees in a twin bill tomorrow — used four pitchers in all. Lou Kretlow, Marv Rotblatt and Randy Gumpert, following the jostled Pierce to the mound. Pierce had registered Chicago's only win over the Yanks, 7-4, at New York. Only one pitcher, Boston's Mel Parnell, has whipped the Yanks twice this season.

Off - afflicted Joe DiMaggio was benched by a sore left leg, but the Yankees didn't miss him as they leveled off on Pierce for six hits and four runs in the fourth and got the only other run they needed in the fifth on Phil Rizzuto's single and Gil McDougald's double for a 6-2 margin.

INDIANS SOCK BOSOX

Cleveland, June 9. — Cleveland's Indians advanced into a third-place tie with the Boston Red Sox today by defeating the Sox 5-4 behind Bob Lemon's seven-hit pitching.

It marked the 12th victory for the Tribe over the Sox in their last 14 games and their second win in a row over the faltering Sox.

Lemon, keeping the seven blows well scattered, posted his sixth victory against five defeats. The Cleveland ace, after losing four games in a row, now has won three straight.

Mel Parnell, the loser, lasted six frames, giving up 10 of the Indians 11 hits and all five of their runs.

PRICE DIRECTOR WANTS CONTROLS

DiSalle Says That Beef Prices
Need Curbing To Avoid
Other Increases

Washington, June 8.—Price Director Michael V. DiSalle told congress today that failure to curb beef prices would skyrocket the cost of other meats, poultry, eggs, milk and cereals.

The result, he said, would be the collapse of the administration's entire wage-price program to combat inflation.

But the House Agriculture Committee, meeting behind closed doors, was reported ready to fire a demand that DiSalle cancel all his recent orders for a series of rollbacks of prices of live beef.

But the House Agriculture Committee, after meeting behind closed doors, fired a demand that DiSalle cancel all his recent orders for a series of rollbacks on prices of live beef.

Chairman Cooley (D-NC) told newsmen the committee voted unanimously to send a protest to President Truman against the rollbacks.

"If this does not have the desired effect, the committee will meet again within the next few days to decide what position it should take regarding legislation," Cooley said.

The North Carolina legislator indicated that if DiSalle refuses—as he has already said he will—to withdraw the rollback orders, the committee may seek legislation to exempt livestock from price controls.

The committee charged in a statement that the rollbacks have already caused a beef shortage and will lead to consumer rationing, rapid expansion of black markets and higher costs of beef.

DiSalle has said the rollback will mean that housewives will be able to buy beef about 8 to 10 cents a pound cheaper this fall.

Amid angry protests from cattlemen, the first 10 per cent roll back went into effect May 20. Two others of 4½ per cent each are scheduled for Aug. 1 and Oct. 1.

Meanwhile, President Truman called in key congressional leaders to press anew for a two-year extension of the administration's control authority—embodied in the 1950 defense production act—and for stronger curbs on prices, credit and rents.

The act is due to expire June 30.

Mr. Truman also summoned Defense Mobilization Chief Charles E. Wilson, Economic Stabilizer Eric Johnston and DiSalle, along with top-ranking members of the Senate and House groups have heard scores of witnesses attack and defend the Federal Controls Program.

Much of the criticism has centered on DiSalle's beef rollbacks, with cattle raisers darkly predicting financial ruin and a revival of World War II black market conditions.

DiSalle told congress in a 35-page report today that his agency is quite prepared to meet the threat of black markets with strict enforcement measures.

DiSalle also told the lawmakers his Office of Price Stabilization wants:

1. Authority to license all businesses.
2. Continued ceilings on barber and beauty shop prices.
3. The No. 1 request has been a special target of criticism in congress, but DiSalle contended:

"The authority to suspend the licenses of price violators is the only feasible and flexible method of curbing chronic and willful price violators who cannot be deterred by fines."

NEW OIL STRIKE IN FRANKLIN PARISH

EXTEND FIELD IN FRANKLIN PARISH

Harper Co. Of Crowley Hits
Oil On Land Of Monroe
Resident

One of the largest wells in the South Big Creek oil field in Franklin parish in recent years was brought in June 3 by the J. A. Harper, Co., of Crowley.

Harper, a general contractor and independent oil operator, announced the production of the Harper - A. Kincaid et al No. 1 as 414 barrels with a 14" choke. The records indicate an unusual high production for recent wells in the area.

Drilled on the property of Mrs. S. A. Kincaid, 2810 Lee avenue, Monroe, the new well extends the field to the northeast. In 1946 and 1947, two dry holes had been drilled on the property. The new producer is located between the unsuccessful holes.

The total depth of the new well was listed as 3,390 feet, perforated from 3,379 to 3,382 feet. It is located in section 17, township 16, range 8 east.

Soldier Shoots Off Two Fingers

Akron, O., June 8.—Pvt. Harold White, 21, of Spencer, W. Va., in hopes of being discharged from the army, blew two fingers off his right hand with a shotgun, Barbenton police reported today.

Detective Martin Servak said White told him this at Barbenton Citizens' Hospital. White's companion, Pvt. Roy Miller, 21, also of Spencer, is in the same hospital with the same two fingers shot off.

However, Miller insisted his first and second fingers were shot off during a hunting accident.

"That wouldn't get me out," said Miller. "If I wanted to get out I would have shot myself in the foot. I don't mind the army at all."

The Pentagon at Washington said a soldier who injured himself intentionally could be court-martialed and sentenced to a maximum of seven years at hard labor and given a dishonorable discharge.

The specific army charge for such an offense is "intentional self injury with an idea to avoid work, duty or service."

BOW TO ECONOMY

Decatur, Ill.—The new city administration is looking over even the smallest item to trim expenses.

Mayor Robert E. Willis said the city commissioners plan to adopt a standardized letterhead for all offices. A single line they will be inserted to identify the individual office.

News Scants

CHURCH BURGLARIZED

Buffalo, N. Y., June 9.—Burglars smashed into a Baptist Church last night and stole a $180 rifle, plus at least $100 in cash and two cameras.

The rifle, owned by an Alaskan missionary, was in an exhibit room. The two cameras were in a suitcase owned by Mrs. R. Myron Cedarholm of Chicago, wife of the general director of the conservative Baptist Association of America. The association is holding its annual meeting in the Prospect Avenue Church.

MARGARET IS GUEST

London, June 9.—Margaret Truman was among 2,000 guests attending a garden party today at Cliveden House, home of Lord and Lady Astor. Queen Elizabeth was the honor guest at the affair given at the Astor's big mansion overlooking the Thames at Maidenhead.

RED DEMONSTRATORS

Duesseldorf, Germany, June 9.—Police swinging clubs tonight broke up a communist demonstration protesting suspension of communist newspapers in the British zone.

No one was reported injured. Police said 36 persons, including six women, were arrested.

HEARD DIES

Shreveport, La., June 9.—Former state Sen. James Heard, 77, who was with the late Huey Long when he was fatally wounded, died last night in Mansfield.

Heard was state senator from the Caddo-Desoto district from 1936 to 1940 and was a retired Baptist minister.

Funeral services are scheduled for 3 p. m. tomorrow.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. C. K. Heard.

COKE'S 3 CENTS

New York, June 9.—Price war note.

S. Klein's announced today it had reduced coke to three cents in its Newark, N. J., store and probably would establish the lower price in its New York specialty store next week.

Klein's previously sold the bottled coke for five cents.

ACHESON FINISHED

Washington, June 9.—Secretary of State Acheson concluded his testimony on the ouster of Gen. Douglas MacArthur and related foreign policies today at 4:07 p. m. (EST).

Acheson spent eight days on the stand. Lt. Gen. Albert Wedemeyer will be the next witness at 9 a. m. Monday.

ANOTHER CRUISE

Washington, June 9.—President Truman went aboard the yacht Williamsburg at 3 p. m. EST, today for an overnight cruise on the Potomac river.

He took along a few personal friends and his naval aide, Rear Admiral Robert L. Dennison. Names of the guests were not announced. The yacht is due back tomorrow afternoon.

SAVES LIVES

Washington, June 9.—All the energies of the U. S. army in Korea are not devoted to killing the enemy—it saves a lot of them from dying.

The army medical services announced today that only 7 per cent of about 37,000 wounded and captured Red soldiers brought into American hospitals have died during the past six months.

VISITS HERE

Col. Aaron W. Tyler, of Natchez, Miss., is the "father" of this strip—the only Korean air field which has been in continuous operation since the start of the war.

Tyler is the commanding officer of the 49th fighter-bomber wing and commander of the base. He has been in Korea longer than any other air force officer.

Washington, June 9.—Nearly 1,500,000 words have poured into the record of the Senate MacArthur inquiry, now in its fifth week.

Ward & Paul official stenographers, estimated that the testimony to date, including today's committee session, adds up to 1,494,750 words.

Close to a third of this wordage has been accounted for during the testimony of Secretary of State Acheson before the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees investigating the firing of General Douglas MacArthur from his Pacific commands and related the joint chiefs of staff.

Sgt. Bobby J. Clark, stationed at Eglin Air Force Base, near Pensacola, Fla., spent the past week and with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Clark of West Monroe. He returned to camp Tuesday. Also present for the family reunion were his sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. James McDaniel of Monroe.

YOUNG HUSBAND GETS MILL JOB

84-Year-Old Woman Lets 23-
Year-Old Spouse Work Out

Cat Hollow, Ky., June 8.—Inflation and the Spouse wedding anniversary arrived in Cat Hollow on the same day today.

After five years of married life, Delbert (Shorty) Sprouse, 23, is doing sawmill work at $3 a day.

His wife, 84-year-old Grandma Sprouse, gave her consent for him to "work out," since farming conditions are bad. But she wonders.

"Know places where they're getting four dollars," she mused. "Otherwise, the fifth wedding anniversary of the Shorty Sprouses was just another day in their simple life."

"We ain't makin' no more fuss about it than we ever did," said Grandma.

When they were married five years ago, Mrs. Sprouse was 79 and Shorty was 18.

As a result of the publicity their wedding got, much has happened to the Cat Hollow couple. A trip to New York, for example. Other things that would change a lot of people.

But Grandma and Shorty have not changed. They go on living the lives they would have lived if the world hadn't found out about their marriage.

Shorty is working away from the farm because farming has been made next to impossible by the hard winter.

"Ground been so hard, can't bust it," Grandma said.

The winter left its marks on Grandma, too. Their old hewn log cabin was drafty and she "caught a chill."

"Can't get rid of it," she said. But Grandma's still up and around. And she still enjoys a "chew" from her plug tobacco.

She still takes care of the chickens and does some cooking, too.

Acheson Trying To Renew Non-Partisan Policies

Washington, June 9.—Secretary of State Acheson said today he is "doing everything I can" to restore a non-partisan foreign policy.

Kefauver (D-Tenn) asked the secretary for suggestions on how congress can "get back to the good days" when the late Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) worked with Senator Connally (D-Tex) and others on two-party policy.

"Well, I am just doing everything I can all the time to bring that about," Acheson replied. "I know nothing that I have not done that I could do."

He added that he is always glad to discuss foreign policy matters "with any group in congress, whether they are committees or private groups, or the whole Senate or House."

Natchez Colonel Heads Busy Korean Airstrip

An Airfield in Korea, June 9.—A Natchez, Miss., colonel's rice paddy airstrip had its 75,000th landing today.

Dubbed the "world's busiest airfield," the strip is the center of activity for American air force planes in Korea.

Capt. Ward M. Millar of Portland, Ore., landed his jet plane and was told he made the 75,000th landing.

Col. Aaron W. Tyler, of Natchez, Miss., is the "father" of this strip—the only Korean air field which has been in continuous operation since the start of the war.

Tyler is the commanding officer of the 49th fighter-bomber wing and commander of the base. He has been in Korea longer than any other air force officer.

Summary Shows Iran Oil Impact

Tulsa, Okla., June 9.—The mid-week softening of the British-Iranian oil crisis, a welcome development politically, brought some easier breathing to petroleum producers in the Americas.

A shut-off of Iran's oil supply to Europe would create a new load on the western hemisphere's output. The continent would be dependent on the United States and Venezuela for the 600,000 barrels daily it gets by ocean tankers.

Industry observers feel the situation remains serious because of oil-hungry Russia. They believe seizure of the middle east country's fields might avail the Soviets little because of a lack of pipelines, but the wells and plants could be damaged and the west deprived of the precious oil.

Toward such a possibility, they point out, backlogs of oil have been built up in India, southern Europe and Africa.

The Iranian situation caused the office of price administration to overrule voluntarily its own price freeze and grant increases of from 14 to 31 cents per barrel for residual oil used by tankers along the Atlantic coast, to 30 cents in New York harbor.

This strengthened the Gulf coast and mid-continent demand for residual fuel oil, principally the No. 6 grade used in locomotives. Many refiners anticipate a future increase of $1.75 to $1.90 per barrel in Oklahoma refiners' markets.

The oil and gas industries found some welcome news in the national production authority's "priorities assistance" order divorcing their steel needs from construction controls.

It provides help in obtaining tubular goods such as casing tubing and drill pipe to meet drillers' normal and emergency requirements.

Normal needs are the quantities necessary to meet an operator's planned drilling, including exploratory wells. Emergencies are defined as the materials needed to carry out exploration in circumstances where not enough steel is at hand, readily available or obtainable without priorities.

Amerada Petroleum Corp., which brought in the discovery well that made North Dakota the nation's 27th oil state, is following up its announced plan of further exploration in the region.

PRIZED CHICKENS WILL BE KILLED

Fowls To Be Dressed For Final Judging In 'Tomorrow' row' Contest

Fayetteville, Ark., June 9.—(AP)—This is the last day of life for some of the most prized chickens in America.

Tomorrow they'll be killed and dressed for final judging in the national Chicken-of-Tomorrow contest—a breeding competition expected to put a meatier bird on your dinner table.

Live judging of about 16,000 specially-bred, 12-week-old chickens was recorded on technical scoreboards today. Then one-fifth of the entries, selected at random, will be dressed for the final phase of judging.

The two scoreboards of each of the 40 breeders from 24 states will be totaled, and the winning breed and breeder announced next Friday.

Growth of the chickens, of which there are 18 breeds and crosses, has been observed carefully by University of Arkansas poultry experts since the eggs from which they were hatched were shipped here three months ago.

Points scored so far on egg production, hatching record, feed consumption, growth, mortality rate and other factors will be combined with scores of the final judging in determining a winner.

The winning breeder will receive a prize of $5,000.

Sponsors are hopeful that the contest will produce an all-purpose chicken—one that is large enough to roast, yet young and tender enough to barbecue, broil or fry.

Gov. Sid McMath of Arkansas has proclaimed next week as Chicken-of-Tomorrow week and various festivities are expected to attract about 20,000 persons to Fayetteville between Sunday's final judging and the awarding of first prize Friday.

Vice-President Alben Barkley will speak Friday. Wednesday night there'll be a queen's ball, at which pretty Joan Walters of Rogers, Ark., will be crowned officially as Miss Chicken-of-Tomorrow. A parade and a poultry forum also are on the program.

Another Story Of— The Men Behind The Desks

The young executive was born and reared in Monroe. He has been president of the Palace for the past two years. He succeeded his father, the late Sigmund Masur, who founded the store in 1903.

Mr. Masur attended the University of Pennsylvania and the Wharton School of Business Administration in Philadelphia. He holds a B. S. degree in economics. His business career was launched at the Palace in 1934.

He is married to the former Miss Dorothy Slocum of this city. They have three daughters, Jacquelyn, Gretchen and Barbara. The family resides at 1703 Park Avenue.

In addition to his business, Mr. Masur is active in the Rotary Club, Chamber of Commerce and assists in various drives in the Twin Cities.

His hobbies include golf, fishing and flowers. One of his favorite pastimes is grafting. Among his grafted plants are several rare cacti and azaleas.

There are approximately 150 persons employed by Mr. Masur. The Palace is now in its 48th year and is still located approximately in the same location as when it was first established.

A breakfast which includes fruit, cereal, milk, bread and butter will supply from one fourth to one third of the day's food needs.

SYNOD TRAINING SCHOOL PLANNED

Women Of Monroe Presbyterian Church Name Conference Delegates

The synodical training school for the women of the Presbyterian church will be held at Stillman College, Clinton, La., from June 11 thru June 16. It will be a period of spiritual enrichment, training, and fellowship for the the Presbyterian women of the state.

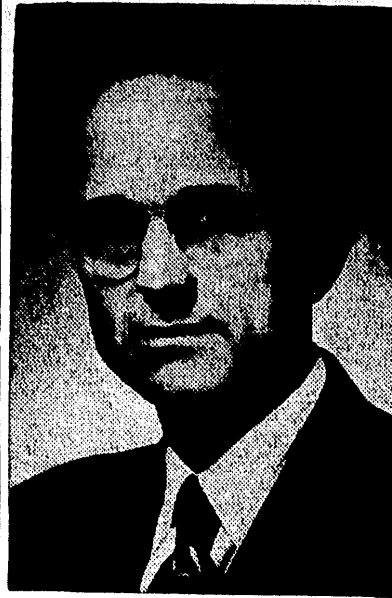

At their board meeting Tuesday, the women of the Monroe Presbyterian church elected delegates to the conference. They are Mrs. C. H. Martin, Mrs. W. B. Matthews, Mrs. Wood Brown, and Mrs. G. I. Hemphill.

Four courses will be offered to those attending: "Bible Study" concentrating on the book of the Bible to be studied by the women during the coming year, will be taught by Miss Edleen Begg of Austin, Tex., "Missions in the Local Church," with specific suggestions for the observance of mission season and special emphasis on the current mission study books, will be taught by Mrs. H. D. Haberyan of Shreveport; Mrs. C. R. Caldwell of Shreveport will teach a course in parliamentary law; and practical help for those who have the responsibility for directing the worship experience of others in the home and church groups will be given in a course by Mrs. John W. McQueen of Birmingham.

Last minute registrations will be received from the women of Monroe by Mrs. C. A. Brown, president of the local group. Registration fee is $3, board and room, $12, which includes dinner Monday night and lunch Saturday.

According to Mrs. George J. Blake, president of the Presbyterian Women, Synod of Louisiana, the training school is meant to serve as a means of preparing leadership among the women. She says that all who attend the school will return to their tasks in home, church, and community renewed in courage, refreshed in spirit, and prepared to better serve the Lord.

Miss Marvin Anne Anderson Is Bride Of Theodore Filer Terzia

Young Bridal Couple Repeat Vows At First Baptist Church In Shreveport

Candlelight and white flowers filled the First Baptist Church in Shreveport for the marriage of Miss Marvin Anne Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Marvin Anderson, and Theodore Filer Terzia, son of Mrs. Daisy Strong Terzia and the late Mr. Terzia, of Monroe, which was solemnized Saturday, June 2, Dr. Monroe E. Dodd heard their vows at seven-thirty o'clock in the evening.

Mr. E. P. Courtney at the organ played a program of nuptial music which included "Meditation" from Thais by Massenet; Barcarolle from "Tales of Hoffman" (Offenbach); and "Because," d'Hardelot. During the ceremony, the soft strains of Debussy's "Clair de Lune" were heard softly and at the end of the ceremony, Doctor Dodd's repeating of the Lord's Prayer blended with the musical accompaniment of the same prayer.

Jade leaves grew on a trellis, formed an arc in front of the baptistry and points of light from candlelight candles followed the choir rail curving along the wall to the rail of the steps leading to the pulpit. White majestic daisies cascaded coolly from a cluster of the candles at the rail center, in front of the green arc, and on either side of the pulpit on the broad hand rail at the steps. Single six foot cathedral tapers marked the beginning of the seats in the white ribbon sections.

The blond beauty of the bride, who was escorted to the altar by her father, was heightened by her wedding gown of imported tissue tulle, fashioned on princess lines. A yoke of nylon illusion ending in soft double folds where it joined the tulle bodice, gave an off-shoulder effect. Petal-like panels of the tulle embroidered in a floral design at the petal ends formed the skirt, which was floor length in the front, graduating into a semi-train in the back. The very bouffant effect was achieved by nylon illusion and a tulle foundation. The delicate cap of tulle came to petal points, framing the face.

White flowers applied over its entirety, as on the skirt panels. Her tiered veil of illusion fell from the cap to the waistline and her only ornament was a diamond cross on a slender chain belonging to her mother. Her white Bible was surmounted by two gardenias and cascading lilies of the valley. Maid of honor was Miss Sara Terzia, sister of the bridegroom, and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Walker Westom, Jr., of Oklahoma City, Mrs. James J. Butler of New Orleans, Mrs. Sam Wood III of Marshall, Tex., and Miss Virginia Frederic, Louise Bert Harris, goddaughter of the bride, was flower girl and Master William Campbell Peatross of Dallas, Tex., wearing a white linen suit, bore the ring in a small antique silver heart-shaped jewel box. The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore identically styled dresses of butter-scotch organdy over tulle. The top fold of the strapless basques was lined with sheer embroidery and similarly edged the diagonal peplums which dipped on one side to the hemline of the full skirted ivory tapers, in front of which the bride placed her gardenia and lily-of-the-valley bouquet in a gold compote. Opposite this was the double-ring confection, its gardenia and lily of the valley decoration reflected in a mirror.

Matching punch bowls at the opposite ends of the room held silver punch bowls and tall five-branched silver candelabra, burning ivory tapers, magnolia blossoms and their glossy leaves forming graceful connecting links.

Elsewhere in the ballroom were arrangement of peonies, gladioli and calla lilies, with white gladioli and calla lilies spilling from an old rosewood music box, placed beside a crystal prisms candelabrum on the piano.

After a wedding trip to New Orleans and Panama City, Fla., the couple will be at home in Monroe.

LAKE PROVIDENCE

Other Tech students in Lake Providence for Mother's Day were LeRoy Kennedy, Bill Gore and James Paul Clary.

Miss Peggy Lynn Mitchell came from Jackson, Miss., to spend the past week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Mitchell, and was joined by her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. G. K. Godwin of Monroe, who also visited with the Al Hayward family.

Mr. and Mrs. Nat Smilow and Mr. Louis Leach were delighted to have over the former week end the Smilow's daughters, Miss Evelyn Smilow and Mrs. Bill Pure and Mr. Pure and their son, Marc, all of Memphis.

Lake Providence relatives and friends are interested in news of a fellow townsman, O. Z. Goode, whose marriage on May 10 to Mrs. Ine McKinney Clark of Tullulah was a social event in Vicksburg, where the ceremony was performed in the home of the bride's sister, Mr. and Mrs. Goode will make their home in Gross Tete, La.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Ward were delighted to have as week-end guests the latter's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. John Brown of Centerville, La.

Mr. and Mrs. William Muirhead motored to Columbia on Sunday to bring home their daughter, Jean Earle, who had accompanied her maternal grandmother, Mrs. F. I. Gird, home for week-end visit. For Mother's Day, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Nelson were happy to have with them their daughter, Miss Hattie Nelson, son and daughter-in-law Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Nelson and infant daughter, Linda of Vicksburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Winters and sons, David and Major are moving to the Melbourne community at Transylvania, where Mr. Winters is rural letter carrier.

In a Mother's Day family reunion with Mr. and Mrs. John Salemi were their sons-in-law and daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Domino and children, Midnight, Miss. Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Forte and children, Lake Village, Ark., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cesare, Vicksburg, Miss., and Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Cesare and young son, J. G. Cesare, Jr., Natchez, Miss.

The bride's table, continuing the gold and white motif, was placed under the mantel and garlanded with huckleberry swags caught at the apex of the curves with white gardenias. At one end, tall brass

BRIDE-ELECT

Miss Melba L. Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Wright, whose forthcoming marriage to John W. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Moore, is announced today. The wedding will take place June 24 at Ponel Baptist Church in West Monroe.

NEWS FROM THE PUBLIC LIBRARY

During the month of May 275 new books were added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. Of this group there are books to interest every type of reader. Probably the most popular book added during the month is Harnett Kane's new title "The Scandalous Mrs. Blackford." Mr. Kane has written a number of interesting books about Louisiana and Mississippi, but in this book he goes far afield. His new story is based on the life of Harriett Blackford, of Philadelphia and Europe. Her adventures at the royal court of Russia are almost unbelievable. This story is based on fact and is probably the most interesting story that Mr. Kane has yet written. Another popular author, who had a new book this month is Frank Yerby. His latest one is "A Woman Called Fancy." Where Mr. Kane's work seems to improve with each book, Yerby's gets worse. He has never written anything as good as his first book "The Foxes of Harrow." However, there are many people who will want to read his new title and it is available at the library.

"Venture in The East" by Bruce Lancaster is a fascinating new story based on the spice trade in the days of the clipper ships. Mr. Lancaster is an interesting writer and this story is well done. Cardinal Spellman, the eminent Catholic divine has written a story called "The Foundling." It is concerned with the adventures of a founding and the influence of environment on his life. This story is most interesting. Another new novel is "Fire on The Wind" by David Garth. This is a big brawny novel of the opening up of the midwest after the Civil War and the unlimited promise for adventure and profit in timber, iron and railroads. There is also an interesting love story to make the plot complete. Don't miss this one.

Although summer is considered a time for rest and recreation, many people take this time for serious reading. There are many new books of this type in the library. Are you interested in history, especially the history of our country? If you are, you will want to read "John Quincy Adams and the Foundations of American Foreign Policy" by Samuel Flagg Bemis, "James Madison, The Nationalist" by Irving Stone, "The Smithsonian: America's Treasure House" by Webster Prentiss True, "Our More Perfect Union" by Arthur N. Holcombe, "War Years With Jeb Stuart" by William Willis Blackford and "Reunion and Reaction" by C. Vann Woodward.

Are you vitally concerned with the world in which you live? There are numerous new books that you should read. "Effects of Atomic Weapons" published by the United States government is a book that every citizen should know. "American City Government" by William Anderson contains much valuable information. "Red Storm Over Asia" by Robert Payne shows just what has happened in the continent of Asia. "Soviet Image of The United States" by Frederick Charles Barghorn, is a book that should be read by every person who has any idea that Russia is our friend. "Interview With India" by John Frederick Muehl is one of the most interesting books dealing with present day conditions in India. "Balkan Caesar" by Leigh White and "Tito and Goliath" by Hamilton Fish Armstrong are two illuminating studies of Tito. "This Happened in Pasadena" by David Hulburd is a stirring account of what happened to a school official, when a certain group in town fell out with him. "A Soldier's Story" by Major General Omar N. Bradley is a fascinating account of the European War.

Probably the most popular type of non-fiction books in the library are those which tell the reader how to do a particular thing. There are many new ones of this type. "Standard Book of Fishing" has numerous pictures and directions for every type of fishing. "Lettering" by Alexander Nesbitt is an invaluable book. "Color in Home Decoration" by Effa Brown contains excellent information for a person interested in redecorating their home. "Guide to Easier Living" by Mary and Russell Wright is a book containing much good information for housekeepers. "Your Weight and Your Life" by Alfred L. George should be read by every person who is considering a diet. "A Practical Guide For The Beginning Farmer" by Herbert Austin Jenkins is a book which will help anyone who is just beginning to farm. "Games for Grownups" by Margaret Kohl will be most valuable to anyone planning a party for adults.

There are books at the Ouachita Parish Public Library that you will surely enjoy. If you are not registered, be sure to come in and do so as soon as possible.

West Monroe Foursome Returns From Interesting 6,500-Mile Motor Trip

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Bandy, Mrs. J. W. Golsen and Mrs. W. R. Gates have returned from a 6,500 mile motor trip up the west coast which included Texas, New Mexico, Mexico, Arizona, California, Oregon, Washington, Victoria B. C., Canada, Idaho, Utah and Colorado.

Some of the highlights were: A dinner and floor show in picturesque Juarez, Mexico. In Arizona: Coolie Dam, Devil's Canyon, a wonderland of colorful rock artistically tooled by a million winds and rains. Saguaro Forest, one hundred sixty thousand acres containing a profusion of the finest specimens of giant cactus set aside as a national monument.

In California: Grauman's Chinese Theater in Hollywood. Here imbedded in cement blocks in floor of fore-court are actual signatures, hand and foot prints of the most famous of filmland celebrities. The original farmers market, the world's largest most colorful permanent food fair patronized daily by more than 15,000 visitors. It has grown to an international market where goods from the world over from buttons to boats can be purchased. The old mission in Santa Barbara. At Glendale, Forrest Lawn Park, America's most beautiful memorial park. Here many happy couples come to be married in the Little Church of the Flowers. Here on March 23, 1951 the Hall of the Crucifixion was opened for the first time. He building was erected for the purpose of displaying the largest religious picture in the world. Jan Styke's masterful portrayal "The Crucifixion" measuring 195 feet long and 45 feet high. It portrays the last moments just before Jesus was nailed to the cross. Pilgrims from all over the Christian world assemble daily to marvel at the painting—Carmel by the sea, the honeymooners paradise. . . . The Municipal Rose Garden at San Jose, where every known rose is grown. Golden Gate bridge San Francisco, Golden Gate Park where flowers, trees and shrubs from the world over are at their best. Chinatown—The Italian Swiss colony winery at Asti, Cal. — The Redwood highway through massive drive, through a tree which is 315 feet high, diameter 21 feet at the base.

In Oregon: The Rogue's river pass and Schreiner's gorgeous iris garden at Salem.

From Seattle, Wash., the group boarded the flagship "Chinook" spending night on board while crossing Puget Sound, arrived in Victoria B. C., Canada, May 24 in time for the Queen Victoria birthday celebration which began with a two-hour parade and ended with a mammoth fireworks display. Here the sun rises at 5 a.m., sets

Alpha Theta Chi Highlights Season With Formal Dance At Country Club

Miss Lee Calhoun And Miss Mary Sue Gryder Receive Fraternity 'Sweetheart' Gifts

Bayou DeSiard Country Club was the setting for one of the most attractive entertainments on the social calendar. The occasion was the spring formal given by Alpha Theta Chi, Northeast Louisiana State College fraternity.

The dance was open to all college students and seniors from Ouachita Parish, Neville and St. Matthew's High schools.

The evening was overflowing with features. Highlighting the program of specialties was the presentation of Miss Lee Calhoun of Monterey, incoming "sweetheart," and Miss Mary Sue Gryder of Rayville, outgoing "sweetheart."

Miss Calhoun received a bouquet of beautiful red carnations tied with green satin ribbon, and Miss Linquist was the recipient of an attractive engraved compact.

Miss Sue Hearne and Miss Frances Bareswell, who served as fraternity sponsors this year, also were given engraved compacts.

Mr. Edward Whately, faculty adviser of Alpha Theta Chi, was presented a tie clasp bearing the fraternity crest.

Thomas E. Bearden introduced the incoming officers. The group includes: Courtney Oliver, Jr., president; Bryan Ritter, vice president; Harold Woods, secretary; Joe Downing, treasurer; K. D. Hayes, corresponding secretary; Stanley Richards, pledge master and Larry Tucker, sentinel.

This impressive ceremony was followed by the grand march. On the list of novelties was the Alpha Theta Chi special, which called for dancing to the strains of "Moonlight Serenade."

Throughout the evening punch and individual cakes were served. Exciting moments included the entrance of J. W. Webster, former vice-president of the fraternity and now in the U. S. Air Force, who flew from Detroit, Mich., especially to attend the dance. Then there was the reading of telegrams from Lt. Gov. William J. Dodd and Milton Coverdale expressing good wishes to Alpha Theta Chi.

Special guests from the Northeast State faculty and their wives included: President and Mrs. Lew-

Selected Vegetables Important In Freezing

"Freezing a vegetable will not improve its quality, so select those at the best stage of maturity," is the information given by Mrs. Mildred G. Swift, associate home demonstration agent, with your agricultural extension department.

Select for freshness, appearance, flavor, texture and adaptability to freezing. It is better to select vegetables slightly immature than over-ripe. Sort and wash, removing all non-edible parts.

The agent says, "all vegetables should be blanched (scalded) before freezing, except sweet peppers and rhubarb, which contain enough acid to be classed with fruits. If vegetables are not thoroughly blanched they will lose their natural color and develop an unpleasant flavor and odor. Blanching brightens the color of green and yellow vegetables, softens the product and makes packing easier. The time of blanching varies with the product."

Mrs. Swift says, "blanching may be done in boiling water or by the use of live steam. Since equipment for blanching in live steam is not available in the home, the hot water method is recommended. For hot water blanching, the vessel must be large enough to hold at least one gallon of water for each pound of vegetables used. A wire basket or a long-handled collander is needed. The water must be boiling vigorously when the vegetables are immersed. Begin counting time when the water again comes to a boil. Move the blanching basket up and down in the boiling water during the blanching period."

The agent advises quick cooling of the blanched product as most important. Cool in running, or preferably, in ice water. Generally, it takes about the same length of time to cool a vegetable as it takes to blanch it. A good test is to bite into a piece. If the tongue does not register any heat, the vegetable is cool enough.

Vegetables are packed in containers immediately after blanching and cooling, with or without the addition of a brine solution. The addition of a brine solution to the packed vegetables has these distinct advantages:

- (1) It eliminates drying out when the container is not vapor proof.
- (2) It helps some soft foods such as asparagus, cauliflower and broccoli hold their shape after blanching.
- (3) It protects foods before being carried to the locker.
- (4) It retards thawing out while the food is being brought home from the locker.

The addition of brine has also some disadvantages, such as, added weight, causing packages to break while freezing, taking longer to freeze and the need of thawing before cooking. In most cases there are only slight differences in quality and food value packed with or without brine, and some green vegetables lose color in brine and some lose vitamin C. The brine is made by using one teaspoon salt to one pint of water.

A good way to introduce color into a room of monotonous is through bright pillows piled on a divan or window seat.

NEVILLE AUDITORIUM

Miss Sue Goss And Milton Bamburg United In Marriage

Impressive Double-Ring Ceremony Solemnized At Trinity Baptist Church

Beautiful simplicity characterized the wedding of Miss Sue Goss, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Crolie J. Goss, and Milton Bamburg, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Bamburg of this city, which was solemnized Saturday afternoon, May 12, at five-thirty at Trinity Baptist Church.

Madonna lilies in pedestal vases formed the background for the exchange of nuptial vows with the Rev. Fler J. Seal, church pastor, officiating at the double ring ceremony witnessed only by members of the two families and a few close friends.

The beautiful bride was wearing a summery dress in a pale pink shade with tiered skirt and a molded bodice. The tiny collar was sequin-trimmed and her pale blue hat and gloves of nylon, matched the shade of her shoes.

She carried a purple orchid atop a white Bible cascaded with white and pink satin streamers. For something old, she wore a strand of pearls, and the something borrowed was a linen handkerchief.

Miss Betty Jo Roberts, the bride's only attendant was attractive in pale blue with which she wore a corsage of pink blossoms.

Mr. Richard Bamburg served his brother as best man.

Mrs. Goss chose for her daughter's wedding a ruffled sheer with corsage of white and pink carnations, while the mother of the bridegroom wore black sheer with similar corsage.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents on Wood street immediately following the ceremony.

A theme of white and pink was used throughout effecting an exquisite setting.

The bride's table over-laid with handsome lace was beautifully appointed.

The wedding cake, embossed in pink and white and surrounded by fresh flowers in the same colors, was topped with a miniature bride and groom.

Mrs. Clyde Autrey presided at the punch bowl and Miss Betty Autrey was in charge of the bride's look.

For traveling, the bride wore a navy suit with navy accessories. Her smart navy straw hat was accented with a white nylon bow, and the orchid from her wedding bouquet was pinned high on the shoulder of her suit.

They are now at home to their friends at 809 Wood street, West Monroe.

Impressive Ceremony Held By The Wesleyan Service Guild Tuesday

In an impressive candlelight ceremony the officers of the F. L. Hearne Wesleyan Service Guild of Claiborne Methodist Church were installed on Tuesday, June 5. The meeting was begun with the singing of the first stanza of the Guild hymn, "This Is My Song" followed by a period of meditation.

Rev. F. L. Hearne, pastor of the church, then spoke on the woman's place in the church. The second stanza of the Guild hymn was then sung, followed by the formal installation of the officers by Mrs. Minza Rabun of Bastrop, Louisiana, district secretary of the Wesleyan Service Guild. Each newly elected officer pledged to fulfill her duties as she lighted a colored candle representing her office.

The officers are Mrs. J. B. Landreaux, president; Mrs. F. L. Hearne, vice - president; Miss Marguerite Norris, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Leon Owen, spiritual life chairman; Mrs. J. D. Fordham, chairman of missionary education and service; and Mrs. J. R. Fra. ton, co-ordinator between the Wesleyan Service Guild and her sister organization, the Woman's Society of Christian Service.

The last stanza of the Guild hymn was then sung, after which Mrs. Landreaux pronounced the benediction.

A reception was held at the church immediately after the installation. Mrs. Frank Wimberly, president of the Woman's Society of Christian Service, presided over the punch bowl assisted by Mrs. L. L. Brooks.

BRIDE AND GROOM

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Bamburg shown cutting their wedding cake at the reception held following their marriage on May 11. Mrs. Bamburg is the former Miss Sue Goss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Crolie J. Goss. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Bamburg.

In addition to her lectures she appears on radio programs, her audiences benefitting by her great variety of experience.

Mrs. Andrus' lecture will be followed on Monday evening by the usual informal reception during which members of the audience will have the opportunity of meeting her.

Members of Sigma chapter extend an invitation to their friends to hear this outstanding speaker on Monday evening.

GIRL SCOUT NEWS

"Hooray! School's out," we imagine most Scouts are saying, "and now we'll have more time for swimming, camping, and just plain loafing." One troop that didn't wait for school to be out to go camping was Troop 4, which under the leadership of Mrs. Louis Turner and Mrs. Robert Easterling spent last Saturday night at the new camp. Leaders and girls reported a wonderful time.

For many of the girls it was their first experience without an electric button to turn on lights, but they learned that the dark can be friendly and beautiful. Later, when electricity is available, they will, no doubt, be proud to have been pioneers in using the camp. They did all their cooking out of doors, making tasty kabobs for supper Saturday night under the direction of Ethel Easterling, who is a whiz at out-of-door skills.

Sunday morning the girls raised the flag ceremoniously, after which they held a simple Scout's own program as a Sunday observance and were awarded badges earned during the past year. Each girl received second class and my troop badges, earned in regular meetings, as well as one or two individually earned badges.

A pleasant walk along the river with time to play barefoot on a sand bar filled the rest of the morning. Before any ne could realize it, it was time for lunch, packing up, cleaning up (for of course Scouts leave a camp in apple pie order) and leaving for home. Mary Turner says it is hard to tell what the girls enjoyed most. We suspect it was just the living in the out of doors!

Correction, please. It was Troop 16 to whom Mr. M. C. Carroll of the Monroe Sand and Gravel Company gave the fire extinguisher for camp. It has arrived and, bright and shiny, now hangs in a prominent place in the camp building. Thank you, Mr. Carroll, on behalf of all the Scouts who will use the camp.

Another P-T-A. that has helped troops acquire equipment is Lida Benton. For the three Brownie troops it sponsors, the organization is providing staff and standards for troop and American flags. A nice gesture, we think.

And the Georgia Tucker P-T-A. received a gracious thank you from Emily Kay Ensminger, president of Troop 28, on behalf of all the troops in the school, for the gift of a Girl Scout flag with standard and trefoil-topped staff. Taking part in the flag ceremony which opened the last P-T-A. meeting of the year were Mary Elizabeth Webster, Mary Jo Davenport, Trudy Baugh, Nancy Breard, Martha Riser, Beverly Leach, and Mary Emma Wilson, also of Troop 28.

Don't forget to register for swimming tomorrow morning if you intend to be in on the first two weeks of instruction. Go to 207 Miro with your health certificate. Registration for cooking is at 2:00 Tuesday. Take a dish towel. For sewing, report to the Red Cross building Wednesday afternoon at 2:00, equipped with scissors, thimble, thread and 1/4 yard of print material.

Looks as if a busy summer is ahead for Scouts. Guess they'll have to wait until August for that loafing.

Delta Rho Delta Sorority Has Impressive Installation Ceremony

Mrs. James N. Riddle Is Hostess At Tea Honoring Sigma Members Tuesday

The lovely home of Mrs. James N. Riddle on North Third Street was the scene Tuesday evening of a beautifully planned tea and installation ceremony at which Mrs. Riddle, local organizer, was hostess honoring members of Sigma chapter of Delta Rho Delta National Sorority.

The guests were greeted at the door by Mrs. H. V. Collins and receiving in the living room were Miss Freeda Mickel and Mrs. D. C. Metcalf.

An exquisite arrangement of scarlet roses on the living room mantel was reflected in the large mirror, above. On a table was a bouquet of the same scarlet rosebuds softly lighted by the red tapers burning in a pair of crystal hurricane holders.

The pretty picture table in the dining room was laid with an exquisite lace cloth. Yellow lilies interspersed with scarlet rosebuds, the sorority flower, filled the handsome silver bowl at the center of the table. Red tapers in silver candelabra glowed at either side of the centerpiece. Yellow lilies and red tapers burning in silver candelabra on the buffet completed the decor for the dining room.

Mrs. Gladys Collins presided at the silver service.

An impressive installation ceremony was conducted by Mrs. D. C. Metcalf, counselor of the local chapter with the following being installed: archon, Miss Freeda Mickel; first vice-archon, Mrs. Paul Adams; second vice-archon,

W. S. C. S. Of First Methodist Church Has Monthly Meeting

The regular monthly business and program meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist Church was held Tuesday at 3 p.m. The meeting was opened with a prayer by Mrs. Lonnie Clark. The president, Mrs. Mike John, Jr., presided over the business session. Reports of the secretaries were given and the Vacation Bible School was announced for the week of June 18th. The budget for the new year was presented and adopted.

The following program was recommended by the program committee and approved by the group to be effective immediately: 1st Tuesday, general meeting at the church; 2nd Tuesday, circle meeting in the homes for Bible study; 3rd Tuesday, spiritual life meeting at 2:15 p.m. and program at 2 p.m. at the church; 4th Tuesday, Missionary Education study in the circles meeting at the homes.

The new missionary education study "Rural Prospect" by Mark Rich was announced.

An interesting program was presented by Mrs. J. J. Joyce with Mrs. Zell Smith and Mrs. E. N. Jackson assisting. They told of the mission work in our own state and on the foreign field. At the conclusion of the program a pledge service was conducted while Mrs. A. M. Serex softly played on the organ "I Would Be True."

Swami Santha 102 Has Ceremonial

The "Jean Pennell-Imperial Maharani" Ceremonial was held by Swami Santha No. 102, Nomads of Avrudaka at Castle Hall Saturday. Between 50 and 75 Nomads and guests were present. The Cold Plate Supper was in charge of Miss Noble Mae Tarver. W. L. "Bill" Rothermel gave the invocation and Horace Smith, Rajah, acted as Master of Ceremonies. All officers of Swami Santha No. 102, Nomads of Avrudaka, El Miro Temple No. 187, Knights of Khorassans, Stonewall Lodge No. 8, Knights of Pythias, Monroe Temple No. 1, and Friendship Temple No. 3, Pythian Sisters were present and visitors, Mae Elkins and James Norris, Jr. of Shreveport.

Two candidates were obligated: Dan Frost and Ann Brantley, as illness kept other candidates from attending. A Fancy Nomad Drill by Nomad Drill Team, Temple Hegwood, Captain and 1st Lt. Brown, Louise Fleet, Katie Smith, Gertrude Burke, Sara Shows, Edith Thompson, Cecile Parker, Freda Henderson, Callie Crow, Eva Hislop, and Tayloe Dennis with Ruth Selig, Pianist, was held. Refreshments were served and a social hour followed. Next Darbar will be Monday, June 18.

Impressive Double-Ring Ceremony Solemnized At The Sterlington Baptist Church

The Sterlington Baptist Church was the scene Saturday evening, June 2, at 7 o'clock of a beautiful wedding when Miss Virginia Dare Kenley and Joseph Glover Durrett, Jr., were united in marriage. The Rev. T. J. Welch performed the impressive ceremony before relatives and a few intimate friends.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Herman Kenley, of Sterlington, and Mr. Durrett is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Glover Durrett, Sr., of this city.

The bridal couple exchanged the vows of the impressive double-ring ceremony before the altar which was beautifully decorated with standards of shasta daisies and white candles in branched candelabra.

Mr. Leon Hammonds, organist, rendered a program of pre-nuptial music. Mrs. Billy Mistlead, accompanied by Mrs. Fred Perry, sang "Oh Promise Me" and "Because."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in her wedding gown of ice blue Chantilly lace fashioned with full skirt and three-quarter length sleeves. Her veil of fingertip length was of ice blue illusion and fell gracefully from her Juliet cap. Her only ornament was the three strand pearls. She carried a white Bible topped with a single white orchid.

Miss Mary Ruth Hill was maid of honor and Miss Beatrice Tucker bridesmaid. They were wearing gowns of pink organdy over pink taffeta and carried a bouquet of pink calla lilies.

William D. Durrett served his brother as best man and ushers were Harold L. Woods, Jr., Louis Craig and Wayne Woods.

Later the couple left for a wedding trip to St. Petersburg, Fla. Mrs. Durrett wore a beige linen suit with white accessories with the white orchid corsage. Upon their return they will be at home to their friends at 1006 North Sixth street. The groom is associated with his father in the furniture business.

Tallulah P.-T. A. Sponsors Annual Dance Recital

The annual dance recital sponsored by the Tallulah Parent-Teachers Association and under the direction of Miss Lou Young took place at the high school auditorium and was witnessed by a capacity audience. The beautiful and spectacular costumes, appropriate stage setting and excellent rendition of the variety of numbers gave a brilliant performance. Mrs. Harold J. Smith served as accompanist, assisted by Larry Nola and Oscar Daves. Proceeds from the dancing school will be applied on a fund to be used for a recreation building for youth of the community.

Participants in the recital were Ann Roper, Nancy Storey, Mary Jo Provine, Sherrill Wroten, Brenda McKay, Linda Gay Dean, Alta

Monticello High School Has Graduation Exercises

Lake Providence, La., June 7 (Special) Commencement exercises at the Monticello High school, in East Carroll parish began with the Baccalaureate service for which Roma Burgess gave the invocation. Scripture reading was by the Rev. Howard Hudson, who delivered the sermon. A solo "Savior, Like A Shepherd Lead Us" was by Claire Conway. Mary Ethel Watts was accompanist for the processional and recessional.

"Zeal For Democracy" was the theme for the commencement exercises with Jewel Trawick salutatorian, telling of "The Challenge For A Bright New World." Marjorie Mize, "Democracy Begins at Home," Cleopatra Kennedy, "Communism's Challenge to American Education," Gerald Atbrillon, "We Speak For Democracy," Roma Burgess answered the question "Will Democracy Survive?" Mona Dee Motley, "Education For A Free Society," Claire Conway, the valedictorian, assured that "We Inherit A Greater Demand."

M. M. Walsworth, parish superintendent of education, presented the diplomas. H. T. Poole, principal of the school, the scholarships and awards. Ernest O. Welch, the Powell Martin Barrett American Legion good citizenship and history awards.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Earl Baker announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Leita Gray, to Clifton

Wesley Bridges, of Lake Charles. The wedding will be solemnized June 16 at seven o'clock in the evening, at the West Monroe Methodist Church. A reception will follow at 309 Filhiol avenue in West Monroe.

Miss Carolyn Tilbury Feted At Prenuptial Shower In Collinston

Miss Ann Boyd and Miss Elizabeth Tripp were hostesses at a prenuptial shower honoring Miss Carolyn Tilbury, bride of June 3. The shower was held at Anndale country home of Miss Boyd.

The bride's table, which held the shower gifts, was covered in white lace cloth and had as centerpiece, in miniature, a couple on a white ship sailing on a mirror sea of matrimony. Over the table was suspended a large white beruffled parasol. White satin streamers also extended from the parasol to corners of the table ending in bows which held large pink hibiscus blossoms.

In the dining room the refreshment table, covered in white lace cloth, was centrally adorned with an arrangement of mixed spring flowers and tall white glowing candles. Miss Walter May Dalgarn presided at the antique cut glass crystal punch bowl while the hostesses assisted the guests in helping themselves to dainty canapés and confections.

Miss Boyd and Mrs. B. W. Hopgood entertained throughout the afternoon with piano selections and Miss Boyd sang in sweet voice, "Always." Guests also enjoyed with the honor guest a "special delivery" letter received by her containing "The Ten Commandments To Wives."

Fifty guests, from Collinston, Bastrop and Mer Rouge, called during the appointed hours of 4 to 6.

VALEDICTORIAN

MISS CAROLYN TILBURY BRIDE OF ERNEST ARTHUR SCHOFIELD

Relly Memorial Methodist church at Collinston was the scene of a pretty mid-afternoon wedding on Sunday, June 3, when Miss Carolyn Tilbury, daughter of Mrs. Nettie Lee Evans of Bastrop, became the bride of Pfc. Ernest Arthur Schofield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest J. Schofield of New Orleans. The Reverend Frank S. Persons, rector of Christ Episcopal church of Bastrop, officiated in the impressive double-ring rites at 4 o'clock in the presence of a large congregation of relatives and friends of the bride and groom.

Vows were exchanged at the little ivory chapel's altar before a background of greenery and golden hued daylilies in tall floor vases and gleaming candlelight from cathedral tapers in tall branched candelabra entwined with southern smilax. The graceful smilex vine with its heart-shaped leaves also entwined the choir and altar rails. Shasta daisies caught with white satin bows marked pews reserved for relatives.

A medley of nuptial music and the traditional wedding marches of Wagner and Mendelssohn were played by Mrs. Fred Crowder of Ruston. Mrs. Crowder also accompanied the piano as her daughter, Miss Harriett Crowder, sang in beautiful voice, "Ave Maria" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Candles were lighted preceding the ceremony by Bobby McDonald of Bastrop. Douglas Murphy and John Lane Norsworthy, cousins of the bride, served as ushers. Other gentlemen attendants were James Madison and Lon Keely. Attending the bridegroom as best man was Lionel Gibbons of El Dorado, Arkansas.

Preceding the bride down the aisle were her bridesmaids, Miss Wanda Reynolds of Bossier City and Miss Ann Boyd of Collinston, and her maid of honor, Miss Walter May Dalgarn of Collinston. They wore identical ankle-length dresses of orchid organdy and matching caps. Their orchid linen slippers completed the color-matched ensembles. They carried identical bouquets, a circle of golden gladioli centered with a cress gladiolus and outlined with a sheath of greenery.

The bride entered on the arm of her grandfather, Mr. John Norsworthy of Collinston, who gave her in marriage. She was radiantly lovely in her wedding dress of ankle length, full skirted white organdy with white lace jacket and matching starched lace cap with chapel length veil of illusion. She carried a white prayer book surmounted with a white orchid corsage.

RECEPTION
Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Oliver Haynes. Guests were greeted at the door by the hostess, Mrs. Haynes, Mrs. Evans, and their mother, Mrs. John Norsworthy. In the receiving line were the bride and groom, their wedding party and his parents.

Pink gladioli in attractive arrangements adorned the reception rooms at vantage points. In the living room, guests registered in the bride's book, presided over by Miss Eleanor Jean Pettiss. In an adjoining room, wedding gifts, in lovely array and including China and silver in the bride's chosen patterns, were viewed by the guests.

In the dining room the bride's table, overlaid with embroidered cut-work linen, held at one end the double-ring wedding cake, beautifully embossed and adorned with valley lilacs and tulips, resting on a flower framed rectangle plaque which mirrored and reflected mellow candlelight. Mrs. G. W. Dalgarn cut and served the cake after the bride and groom had cut their piece.

At the opposite end of the table Mrs. Byron Lee Pettiss, aunt of the bride, served frosted fruit frappe in mint green from a crystal punch bowl. Others assisting in courtesies were Mrs. J. G. Pyron, great aunt of the bride, Mrs. William Caldwell, Miss Elizabeth Tripp, and cousins of the bride: Miss Dorothy Elaine Haynes, Miss Little Miss Rosemary Perdue, Dorothy Anne Norsworthy, and The bride and groom left by motor route for a honeymoon along the Gulf Coast. In New Orleans they will be entertained with a reception in the home of Mr. Schofield's parents.

For going away the bride wore navy and white dotted silk with solid navy blue duster with white accessories and her wedding corsage. The bridegroom changed from his wedding attire to his army uniform.

Mrs. Schofield is a graduate of Bastrop High School, 1948, and a student of La. Tech., Ruston. Her high school sororities are Delta Sigma Tau and Mu Sigma (honorary). At college she is a member of Sigma Kappa.

Mr. Schofield is a graduate of La. Tech. class of 1951. His fraternities are Beta Theta Pi, O. K. honorary society, and Sigma Tau Delta honorary literary society. He is at present with the Signal Photographic Corps of the U. S. Army.

REHEARSAL SUPPER

Miss Walter May Dalgarn was hostess to the Schofield-Tilbury Wedding Party at a rehearsal supper in her home in Collinston on Saturday evening, June 2.

The bride's table, covered with linen in pale green was adorned with magnolias in artistic flat arrangement. The menu's pièce de résistance was barbecued spring chicken.

The company in the later evening hours motored to Monroe for a private party. Present were the honor guest, Miss Carolyn Tilbury, Mr. Ernest A. Schofield, Miss Walter May Dalgarn, Mr. Lionel Gibbons, Miss Ann Boyd, Mr. Bobby McDonald, Miss Wanda Reynolds, Mr. Douglas Murphy, Miss Harriett Crowder, Mr. Robert Bray, Miss Elizabeth Tripp, pe, Mr. Eddy Schofield, Miss Elana Jean Pettiss, Mr. John Lane Norsworthy, Rev. and Mrs. Frank S. Persons, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Schofield, Mrs. Nettie Lee Evans, Mrs. Guy Boyd, Mrs. G. W. Dalgarn, Mr. and Mrs. John Norsworthy.

Chapter V, P. E. O., Has Final Meeting Of The Club Year

Chapter V, P. E. O. held its final meeting for the '50-51 year in the home of Mrs. Ben R. Simpson with Mrs. J. P. Curry, co-hostess.

During the business session reports were given from the secretary, treasurer and from all committee chairmen. Mrs. Simpson, president, expressed the chapter's thanks to Mrs. W. A. Cotton and her husband who were hosts to the members and their husbands at a recent barbeque.

The main event of the evening was the initiation of two new members, Mrs. Z. C. Ambrose and Mrs. E. T. Nichols.

Mrs. Rogers Beasley who, with her husband, is leaving in September for two years in Liberia, Africa as medical missionaries.

To end the final meeting Mrs. Simpson and Mrs. Curry served delicious refreshments to the following members present: Mrs. W. A. Cotton, Mrs. Robert Farr, Mrs. H. D. Touchstone, Mrs. M. B. Adams, Mrs. D. H. Martin, Mrs. W. C. Scott, Mrs. F. C. Eason, Jr., Mrs. C. B. Ackel, Mrs. D. G. Kiper, Mrs. Z. C. Ambrose and Mrs. E. T. Nichols and Mrs. Beasley, guest.

MISTAKEN CHEER

Portland, Ore., June 7. — (AP) — When Gov. Douglas McKay of Oregon walked into the Portland Rose Festival crowd today, thousands cheered.

And immediately the cheers subsided into a disappointed, "O-o-o-h."

But for one bright, happy moment the governor, dressed in western clothes, had enjoyed the popularity of a Hopalong Cassidy (William Boyd) who was scheduled to turn up at the same moment.

What is the age of GLAMOUR?

The age of glamour is any age at which a woman's beauty and charm make her most fascinating! She's seldom under "30"...she's usually in her "40's" or older...and she invariably devotes time and care to keep her skin naturally lovely and youthful looking...without the use of "cover-up" cosmetics.

For over 15 years, thousands of women have achieved this naturally youthful look with Endocrine... because Endocrine, with its exclusive hormone ingredient "Activol" actually regenerates ageing skin cells and tissue for most women...smoothes out lines and wrinkles...firms up the skin...makes it look more youthful. Isn't it worth finding out for yourself? A full month's supply only $3.50 plus tax.

Miss Peggy Tousinau Is Honored At Buffet Supper

Outstanding Graduate Of Ouachita Parish High School Feted In Fairbanks

On Tuesday evening Miss Peggy Tousinau, one of Ouachita Parish High School's outstanding graduates, was honored with a buffet supper in the home of Mrs. C. L. Harrison in Fairbanks with Mrs. Charles R. Johnson, co-hostess.

A centerpiece of green and white, the class of 1951's colors, was effectively used on the table overlaid with a handsome imported handdrawn cloth. Silver and crystal appointments completed the arrangements.

Mrs. A. D. Davis, Mrs. Albert Barker, Mrs. W. R. Sanders and Mrs. J. M. Tousinau assisted in extending courtesies to the guests who were members of the Lion staff of which Miss Tousinau is editor-in-chief.

Sharing this happy occasion with the honoree were: Mrs. Dorothy

Bayou DeSiard Garden Club Members Meet With Mrs. J. S. Cage

The Bayou DeSiard Garden Club held their June meeting in the home of Mrs. J. S. Cage with Mrs. J. S. Huffman, co-hostess.

The meeting was opened with the roll call and minutes of the past meeting read; following was a brief business meeting.

Members were reminded that the July meeting would be held the 11th instead of the 4th.

A very interesting talk was given on planting and drying of Coxcomb by Mrs. H. W. Tolson, and Mrs. F. T. Smith, Jr., talked on tea roses. She gave the names of some of the more adapted roses for this climate.

Delicious refreshments were served to the following members present: Mrs. James S. Bradley, Mrs. Cage, Mrs. P. N. Edwards, Mrs. R. D. Farr, Jr., Mrs. R. T. Farr, Mrs. Crusman Gillette, Mrs. Joseph P. Haggerty, Mrs. J. S. Huffman, Mrs. Jack Rushing, Mrs. Ben R. Simpson, Jr., Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Enos L. Thompson and Mrs. H. W. Tolson.

LAKE PROVIDENCE

A daughter, Bonny Jean Wylly, was born to Mr. and Mrs. William Norris Wylly at the Terral clinic, May 11. Mr. N. B. Golsen of Calhoun is maternal grandfather, and Mr. and Mrs. Grady Wylly, of DeCade are paternal grandparents.

Added pleasure for Mrs. W. H. Maben on Mother's Day was the visit from her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cotting and sons, Charles, John and Malcolm, Jackson, Miss.

Miss Donna Davis in motoring up from L. S. U., Baton Rouge to spend Mother's Day with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. D. F. Davis, was accompanied by Mr. Bonny Trosclair of Plaquemine.

Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Davis and son, John Russell Davis, were in Newellton on Monday evening to attend the glee club recital, presented by their daughter, Miss Laverne Davis, public school music supervisor at Newellton High.

Mrs. E. D. Schneider and son, E. D. Schneider, Jr., motored to Memphis on Tuesday to meet Mrs. Harry Graham who was en route from her home in Louisville, Ky., to Lake Providence for a visit with the Schneiders and Miss Frances E. Keene at "Twin Oaks."

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Williams and son, John of Baton Rouge, are expected for a visit with Mrs. J. C. Bass in early June, during the N. E. sports carnival.

Friends throughout this area will be pleased to learn that Miss Jo Ann Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Phillips, freshman at L. S. U. was awarded the Alpha Delta Pi sorority loving cup as

FORT HILL MEET BY MASONS SET

Will Be Conducted Sunday, June 24, In Catahoula Parish

Harrisonburg, La., June 9.—(Special)—Hundreds of Masons over Louisiana and in adjoining states are looking forward to what, in five years, has become one of the most popular Masonic events in this area. That is the annual Fort Hill meeting of the Fourth district Masonic lodge, set for Sunday afternoon, June 24.

Hosts for the meeting will be the three lodges of Catahoula parish—Harrisonburg, W. M. Bankston, worshipful master Jonesville, Lee Young worshipful master, and Sicily Island, M. I. Saltzman, worshipful master.

Highlight of the meeting, which will begin at 1:30 p.m., will be the conferring of a degree by the degree team of Monroe, wearing full regalia. Guest speaker will be

Tom W. Sharp of Baton Rouge, grand master of the Grand Lodge of Louisiana. All grand lodge officers are scheduled to attend.

The fourth Masonic district is composed of 20 lodges in Catahoula, Concordia, Caldwell, Franklin, Tensas and Ouachita parishes.

Back in 1947, when district officers were looking for a suitable place to hold a meeting, they decided upon Fort Hill, overlooking this town and the site of Fort Beauregard of Civil War time. That year, more than 600 Masons gathered beneath the virgin pines of the hill in a natural amphitheater formed partly by remnants of breastworks. The meeting was so successful that Fort Hill was settled upon for the annual gathering. Each year attendance has increased, and last year reached almost 1,200.

Mrs. Evalyn Mitchell Retires At Close Of '50-'51 School Year

Lake Providence, La., June 7.—(Special)—Mrs. Evalyn Evans Mitchell retired as a teacher in East Carroll Parish in the elementary department of the Transylvania Junior High, Transylvania, La., at the close of the 1950-51 school session. Mrs. Mitchell's retirement comes at the end of 31 years of teaching, in the parishes of Union, Tensas, Madison, Morehouse and East Carroll, with most of the years in the last named parish.

Mrs. Mitchell received her basic training at Peabody College For Teachers, in Nashville, Tenn., with additional training at the University of Tennessee courses at Chattanooga, New York, graduate work at Louisiana State University, and degree of B. S. from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute, Ruston in 1915.

Complimenting Mrs. Mitchell was resolution of appreciation and gift of silver vase from the East Carroll Parish Education Association, with presentation by Paul Geisler, principal of the Lake Providence High, and Transylvania school faculty luncheon with appropriate remarks of gratitude for faithful service, by M. M. Walsworth, superintendent of schools, and gift of lazy susan from faculty.

Mrs. Mitchell, mother of three children and grandmother of four, tempered gentleness and thoughtfulness and full knowledge of the child and his background to her curriculum, and won love and respect, not by force, but by kindness and gentleness. Enjoying a wide circle of friends, who hope that many more years will be enjoyed by Mrs. Mitchell, in which she can travel, visit friends and relatives and continue to contribute refinement and appreciation to the finer things of life where ever she goes.

For a different luncheon dish serve a sauce of minced clams with garlic and butter added over hot cooked spaghetti. Add a green salad and French or Italian bread.

Jane Wilbert Is Hostess At 'Story-Book' Party

Granddaughter Of Mr. And Mrs. A. K. Kilpatrick Celebrates Third Birthday Here With Fairyland Party In Patio Of Their Home

Jane Wilbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Wilbert, celebrated the third anniversary of her birthday recently in the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Kilpatrick.

The scene of the festive occasion was the patio and back yard where excited children ran, squealed, and played to their hearts' content.

A fairyland atmosphere was created by such novelties as rubber balls with streamers hanging from all the trees and multi-colored decorations everywhere.

In the midst of the decorations was a long table centered with the cake, a pale pink confection adorned with garlands of pastel ribbons and miniature roses.

Throughout this "story-book" party, moving pictures and recordings were taken of the perfect little hostess, Jane, and her guests.

Mrs. George Trousdale contributed her artistry to the decorations and both Mrs. Trousdale and her daughter, Nancy, assisted Mrs. Kilpatrick in serving the guests.

Among those present were: Diane Peck, Pattie Pierson, Susan

Johns, Joe Thomas, Mary Lou Myatt, Sally Bread, Roberta Cobb, Robert Oliver, Virginia Harkey, John and Marianne Salisbury, Linda Atkinson, Linda Dixon, Nell Smith, and Caroline Inabnet.

To "simmer" food means to cook it just below the boiling point.

NEWS ABOUT O. E. S. CHAPTERS

Mrs. Flossie Faust, worthy grand matron of the Grand Chapter of Louisiana, will make an official visit to the O. E. S. chapters of district No. 6, on Saturday, June 16, in the Masonic Temple. She will be entertained at a banquet at 6 p.m. at one of the local restaurants. Mrs. Faust will be accompanied by Mrs. Louise Walden, who is serving as Grand Chaplain of the Grand Chapter, and who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Benoit of this city.

Others attending will be Mr. M. T. Cheves, worthy grand patron of Natchitoches, La., Mrs. Arrah H. Culver, associate grand conductress, of Monroe; Mrs. Hazel DeWees, grand trustee, of Monroe; Mrs. Gertrude S. Davis, grand secretary, of LeCompte; Mrs. Birdie Mae Mulhern, and Mrs. Lovie Gregory, past grand matrons of Monroe; Mr. Fred M. Culver, past grand patron, of Monroe; Mrs. Geneva Falkenheimer, grand Martha, of Vidalia, and many of the committee members, grand representatives, and district deputy grand matrons. Mrs. Edith Williamson, D. D. G. M. of Monroe, is in charge of this meeting.

Chapters in district No. 6 will take part in the exemplification of the ritualistic work of the order are: Mer Rouge No. 148, Harry Vaughan No. 125, of Collinston, Sunny South No. 12, of Bastrop, Sterling No. 201, Bethel No. 158, of Rayville, Dixie No. 179, and Louise L. McGuire No. 4, of Monroe.

Sincerity Chapter, U. D. will be constituted Tuesday night, June 12, at Calhoun, La., in the Masonic Temple there. The worthy grand matron, Mrs. Flossie Faust, of Alexandria will be in charge of the ceremony, and other grand officers will be present and assist.

The grand assembly of the Order of Rainbow for Girls will convene in Shreveport June 14, 15. Officers and members of Monroe assembly will go by chartered bus, accompanied by Mrs. Mary Sullivan, mother advisor. The assembly is represented in the grand assembly by Miss Mary Lou Trawick, as grand drill leader, one of the most responsible positions in the work and ceremonies to be performed. Miss Mary Sue Coates is worthy advisor of the local assembly. The group will assemble at the Masonic Temple, on Fourth street at 11 a.m., Thursday to leave for Shreveport. They will return on Saturday, and appear in a drill just prior to the official visit of the grand matron to the chapters in this district. The colorful drill will be presented at 7:15 p.m. in the Masonic Temple.

Monroe Assembly No. 103 Social Order of the Beauceant will hold its regular meeting Friday, June 15. All members are requested to attend.

Mrs. George A. Bennett and Mrs. Curtis B. Hair of the Monroe Assembly of the Beauceant motored over to McComb, Miss., where a new assembly was constituted on June 2, by Mrs. Homer B. Miller, supreme president of the Beauceant. The Monroe representatives assisted the Minden assembly in the installation of officers.

Mr. Henry O. Hartman, past grand commander of Knights Templar in Louisiana, and R. E. department commander, south central department, Grand Encampment, recently visited the grand commandery of Oklahoma, and also those of Indiana, Ohio, and Kentucky, representing the M. E. Grand Master, Sir Knight Robert B. Gaylord, of California. He was accompanied by Mrs. Hartman. Many delightful courtesies were extended both Mr. and Mrs. Hartman on the occasion of these visits.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Culver and Mrs. B. L. Mulhern were the guests of Natchitoches Chapter No. 12, of Natchitoches, La., on the occasion of their Golden Anniversary, their having been instituted June 7, 1901. A banquet was held in a local hotel there, with about 80 guests and members attending. Following the banquet a meeting was held in the Masonic Temple, with many additional members and friends attending. Features of interest were the presentation of certificates, both 50-year, and 25-year, and the history of the Chapter since its institution. Two members were present at the banquet, who have held membership in the Chapter since it was organized. They are Miss Fannie B. Nelkin, P.G.M. and Miss Gussie Nelkin, who is a past matron of the Chapter, and will be remembered by many of her students as a teacher at Northwestern College in the days when it was known as "The Normal". Golden Certificates were presented to them by Mr. M. T. Cheves, W.G.P. of Louisiana, who is also a member of the Chapter. Several members were presented Silver Certificates by Mrs. Flossie Faust, W.G.M., who was present to enjoy the occasion. Many of the elective and appointive Grand officers were present to offer their congratulations and good wishes for another period of constructive work. Miss Vannie Nelkin, P.G., was the central figure in the history of the chapter. It was pointed out by many of those present that this was also true of her activities in the history of the Grand Chapter of Louisiana.

Dixie Chapter No. 179 celebrated its 25th anniversary on May 28. An interesting ceremony depicting "The Present, the Past and the Future" was represented by Mrs. A. T. White, Worthy Matron, Mrs. Mary Castles, and Mrs. Neva Jones. Silver certificates were awarded to Mrs. Mary Wilder, P.M. and Mr. Henry Haas, P.P. Those not present but receiving certificates were Mrs. Bertha Causey, Mr. S. C. Causey, Mrs. Annie Douglas, Miss Mattie Douglas, and Mrs. Mabel Swayze. Officers and members were saddened by the announcement that the Altar and Charter would be draped in memory of Miss May Gardner, P.M., who had been a charter member of the Chapter. Following this ceremony the Chapter was closed and members and guests were invited to the banquet hall where a beautifully decorated anniversary cake and fruit punch was served. A School of Instruction was held in Wisner, La., on Sunday June 3, at 2 p.m., with Miss Hazel Crawford, D.D.G.M., the presiding officer, and Mrs. Arrah H. Culver, A.G.C. as supervisor. Mrs. Culver also supervised a school at Ruston, Friday June 8 with Mrs. Beatrice Young, as presiding deputy. Many Monroe members accompanied Mrs. Culver to this district.

IN DANCE RECITAL

Miss Judith Ann Cathey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Cathey, West Monroe, was presented in the "Lucky Strike" dance number in the recital of Dixie Madden in Arcadia. Judith Ann will also appear in this number in the dance revue of Miss Armadine Renaud to be held at Neville auditorium, June 14.

Miss Mamie Cameron, Grand Conductress of Haynesville and Mrs. Velma Richard, Associate Grand Matron will leave Monroe Sunday to visit the Grand Chapter session in Georgia the coming week, and following that they will attend the Grand Chapter Session in South Carolina.

The School of Instruction of District No. 5 will be held in Downsville Friday June 15, at Downsville, La., in the new school building, with Mrs. Polly McGeehee, District Deputy in charge, and Mrs. Arrah Culver, A.G.C. as supervisor.

The Worthy Grand Matron, Mrs. Flossie Faust, will make an official visit to District No. 7, on Sunday afternoon June 17, in the Masonic Temple at Tallulah, La., with Mrs. Doris McDonald, D.D. G.M. in charge. The Grand Matron and other guests will be entertained at the Patton Camp at a luncheon. Among those who will attend are Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Culver, Mr. M. T. Cheves, W.G.P., Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Mulhern and Mrs. Louise Walden.

Annie D. Bennett Chapter No. 181, of West Monroe held its regular meeting Friday evening at 8 p.m. in the Masonic Temple. A very beautiful and instructive flag ceremony was presented by officers and members, this being the meeting nearest Flag Day. Mrs. Ocie Burkett, worthy matron, planned and directed the program.

Annual Meeting of Hemerocallis Society Held In Little Rock

Attending the annual meeting of the Hemerocallis Society at Little Rock, which is being held June 8-10, is Mrs. T. D. Pickens, who has been a member for four years. Mrs. Pickens, a resident of West Monroe, is a guest in the homes of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. House and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vestal.

This year the meeting headquarters will be the Marion Hotel, where registrations were made in the Continental Room. Slides will be shown and other interesting pictures during the registration.

Mr. Thomas Manley, Region No. 4 Supervisor, who has charge of the Test Garden at Squire Valleu farm near Cleveland and horticulturalist for the Garden Center of Greater Cleveland, was guest speaker Friday night. Other highlights of the meeting were the tour to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Vestal and the Sylvan Hills Country Club. Mrs. Thomas A. Nesmith, supervisor of Region 4, was guest speaker at the directors meeting which was held on Saturday, following the tour.

Mr. J. W. House, president of the Hemerocallis Society, whose garden will also be on display, has developed many varieties of the lilies by hybridization. His garden, better known as "Flower Acres", has 1,200 flowering or ornamental shrubs, 1,000 rose bushes, 2,500 tuberose, four acres of day lilies, five acres of iris, three of gladioli, 200 varieties of chrysanthemums and Shasta daisies and 4,000 peonies. All of the plants are perennials.

Many interesting affairs and programs have been planned for those attending the convention.

Can You Make Six No-Trump

By Oswald Jacoby

Today we have a little contest for our expert readers. Cover up the East-West cards and study just the North-South cards. How would you play the hand to make sure of a six no-trump?

A moment's thought shows you that the contract is ice-cold unless one of the opponents has all four of the missing clubs. Therefore your plan has to provide against a 4-0 club break—in either direction. The best plan is to win the open-discards a diamond on the first round of clubs. This makes it harder for declarer.

South must put up the ace of clubs and return the three of clubs. West dares not take his king, for then the entire club suit could be brought in. Hence he plays the nine, and dummy wins with the jack of clubs.

Now declarer has won two club tricks without losing the lead. He enters his hand with the king of spades and returns a heart to finesse dummy's ten. Whether this finesse wins or loses South is sure of three heart tricks. These three hearts together with three spades, two clubs, and four diamonds guarantee the slam contract.

You, South, hold: Spades A-Q-J-9-8-3, Hearts 5-3-2, Diamonds K-10-6, Club 4. What do you do?
 A—Bid three spades. Although you have only an average hand in high cards, you have a strong six-card suit and good distribution. There is probably a good play for game at spades.

Today's Question
 The bidding has been: North, 1 heart; East, pass; South, 1 spade; West, pass; North, 1 no-trump; East, pass; South ?
 You, South, hold: Spades A-Q-9-8-3, Hearts J-3, Diamonds K-10-6, Clubs Q-8-4. What do you do?

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By ALBERT EDWARD WIGGAM, D. S.

1. SHOULD YOUNG PERSONS GO STEADY BEFORE HAVING NUMEROUS DATES?
 © 1951 by John F. Dille Co. YES ☐ NO ☐

Answer to Question No. 1
 1. No. The late sociologist, Ernest R. Groves, said that every boy and girl should know well at least 25 persons of the opposite sex and date at least 12 of them before being qualified to select one as a mate. It takes long and careful study to judge human nature—especially the kind of human nature you want to live with.

 Answer to Question No. 2
 2. Apparently yes. Years ago Prince Kropotkin of Russia claimed that Darwin's idea of "survival of the fittest" through fighting was incomplete and that cooperation was just as essential as competition. Darwin, too, recognized this principle. Only by cooperation can groups and species survive. Anthropologist M. F. Ashley Montagu, maintains with additional evidence, that love and cooperation, not hostility and the fighting instinct, are the strongest drives in human nature. He thinks our schools should teach the "Fourth R—Human Relations"—how to get along together—as our chief defense against communism. Certainly a bigger idea than communism.

Answer to Question No. 3
 3. Far more. As pointed out by Sociologist A. R. Mangus, problems of modern life are vastly more complex and harder to solve. Second, psychologists have discovered how astonishingly childhood fears, attitudes, and ideals rule the life of the adult. The adult has forgotten most of these experiences, but they unconsciously either dog his whole life, or else add immensely to his happiness and achievements.

"What Do You Mean—Only ONE True Church?"

Non-Catholics often resent the claim that the Catholic Church alone is the true Church of Christ.

"You Catholics," some of them say, "have a lot of nerve. The Church is universal. Anybody can belong to it who accepts Christ as his personal Savior and models his life after Christ's teaching. We can be members of the true Church without being Catholics."

Many who feel this way about it are, of course, sincere and devout people. And it is not our intention to challenge the various shades of Christian thought which they represent. We do ask them, however, to understand that the Catholic claim is not a matter of arrogance or intolerance—but of the deepest religious conviction.

Nearly all Christians agree that there can be only one true Church. Yet there are hundreds of different denominations—some of them miles apart in what they teach—all claiming to be the true Church. Certainly all of them cannot be right... in fact, only ONE can.

But which one? How can we identify it?

The Son of God made Himself recognizable to men by coming upon the earth with a body and soul like ours. It was in His physical body that He died for our redemption. Having thus so carefully revealed Himself to the people of His own time, would He not make equally sure that future generations should also know Him?

Catholics believe that the Savior did so, through the Church... in which he is able at all times to save those who came to God through Him." The Church is, therefore, not merely a body of people believing in Christ... but the Body appointed by Christ Himself to continue His mission of redemption.

"He who hears you," the Savior said, "hears Me." For Catholics, this means that when the Church speaks it is Christ speaking. When the Church offers prayer and sacrifice and forgiveness of sins, it is Christ's prayer and sacrifice and forgiveness of sins. The Church, as Catholics see it, is Christ living in the world today!

Hobby Pays Off For Local Gun Collector

Marvin Williamson Experimented With Practically All American, Foreign Makes; Has In Collection $1,200 Belgium Browning

By Margaret Gambrell

(Of The Morning World Staff)

Gun collecting—a lifelong hobby of 26-year-old Marvin Williamson—has proven a profitable pastime, making him one of the foremost gunmen in Louisiana.

An expert in the field of shotguns, rifles and revolvers, Williamson has had experience with practically all the American calibers and scores of foreign makes.

FIRST GUN

Born in Clayton, three-year-old Marvin moved to Oak Grove in 1928. He was the third of six children in the Lem Williamson family.

At the age of 11, he received his first gun—a double barrel 16 gauge shotgun—which was a gift from his father.

Today he describes it as "one of the few guns in my collection money can't buy."

His first hunt with the double barrel was for quail and, luckily, he recalls, the first fowl killed with the gun was a quail.

He fast became an expert marksman and soon began collecting guns. Later he made his own repairs and adjustments, through curiosity.

In addition to turning into a spokesman, he learned through experience and books the art of repairing guns, mounting scopes, and adjustments for getting the best results from various calibers.

Williamson graduated from the Oak Grove High School and served in the navy from 1945 until 1947. After his discharge, he entered Northeast Junior College and studied wildlife and forestry conservation for two years.

Despite losing his left arm in an industrial accident, Williamson continued to hunt and collect guns. The fact is, he says—"I shoot better now than I did before the accident." In his spare time he uses his collection for target shooting and hunting.

LOCATES HERE

For the past year, he has been associated with Hunt and Whitaker's where he repairs guns, and telescopic sights. He also does hand loading and makes his own ammunition.

The gunman has hunted from Florida to California and Mexico. Two years ago, he took part in an eight month hunt for desert sheep, quail and mule deer in Mexico.

"Some guns are collected because they're antiques," Williamson says, "and others for their usefulness."

"However all my guns are usable," he pointed out.

The collector is continually buying and selling firearms.

When asked why he has so many guns, Williamson replied, "I experiment to actually determine their performance in the field."

"At one time, I have experimented with almost all American caliber guns and scores of foreign guns."

His favorite bird gun is a Browning "sweet sixteen." For big game he uses a 270 custom built mauser.

In September of 1949, he came to Monroe. Williamson is married and lives at 206 Linderman avenue, West Monroe.

Among his most treasured guns is a $1,200 Belgium made Browning with a gold inlaid receiver.

Though his hobby of gun collecting has paid dividends, his ambition is to own his own sporting store.

MISS EVE BRADFORD

As society editor of the Morning World and News-Star for 28 years, Miss Eve Bradford was one of Monroe's most active women. For the past three years she has been inactive because of her health; however, she looks upon her newspaper experience with much pleasure and great pride. She was photographed during a recent interview in her suite at the Frances Hotel. (Staff photo by Leon Noland, Jr.)

Eve Bradford's First Job Turns Into 23-Year Career

As News-Star-World Society Editor, She Attended Hundreds Of Parties, Weddings, Civic Programs; Interviewed Celebrities

By Margaret Gambrell

(Of The Morning World Staff)

For more than 28 years, Miss Eve Bradford's name has been synonymous with society in Monroe.

As society editor of the Monroe Morning World and News-Star, she attended hundreds of parties, weddings, civic programs and interviewed many of the nation's most distinguished personalities.

In an interview recently describing her career as society editor, Miss Bradford explained, "It was my home, my child, my whole life. I dearly loved it."

HER FIRST JOB

Hearing that the society editor of the News-Star was moving away from Monroe, Miss Bradford applied for the position and later proved to be her first and only job.

Born in Manistee, Michigan on Friday, May 13, the destined newspaper woman moved to Monroe at the age of 16. Her father was associated with the Grayling Lumber Company at that time and they later moved to Mansfield. After a short time there she returned to make their home here.

Eve was the youngest of the Bradford's three children. A relative newcomer here with no newspaper experience but plenty of determination, she acquired the job, Eve says, "I'm sure it was only that Judson Smith had faith in me and my ability."

"They started me off at $25 a week which was a lot of money," she recalls. Unable to type, she took notes on meetings and turned them over to Editor Dorth Campbell who compiled the news into stories. She remembers him as being a retiring man who depended on her to meet the public.

Within a short time, the versatile society editor had gained confidence and was writing about anything she wanted to. It was not long before she developed a flare for writing feature stories.

Among the features that stands out most with her was one written on the Good Samaritan home then on the Winesboro road.

She pointed out that from the story, the home got a piano, radio and a used car to replace the out-dated horse and buggy.

Looking back on her first blunders, she amusingly remembers writing one of her first wedding stories in which she had the bride married to the minister.

It was at the Ursuline Convent that Eve received her literary training. There she won several volumes of beautiful books which are among her most prized possessions.

In Mansfield, Eve won her first car, a Studebaker touring car, in a contest sponsored by the Ewing family who years later was to become her employer.

Still filled with excitement and the thrill of winning the touring car, Eve and her father went to Shreveport for the presentation. There she recalls one of her most tense moments as her father shouted, "Young man, you cut this out," when the gentleman speeding along at all of 30 miles an hour, "WALLING WALL."

Although the society editor was expected to write all the social news, the paper was so small she also read proof, attended public meetings and interviewed scores of persons.

Her office, termed a "wailing wall" by one of the editors for more than two and a half decades, was visited by thousands of persons from all walks of life—many of whom poured out their souls to the sympathetic and untiring editor.

During her career she never refused anyone and today despite a serious illness retains her gentle and hospitable qualities.

Miss Bradford asserts, "The highlight of my lifetime was when the Ewings bought the paper and retained me."

However with this transaction, she became responsible for two papers and a Sunday society section, a responsibility she gracefully accepted and did well.

For a number of years she wrote a gossip column and later a shopping column. At the end of four years, she had practically the same advertisers she started the column with. Even with all this she had no assistant and was never away from her desk for more than three weeks in the entire 28 years for illness.

In addition, the public demanded the versatile society editor to attend hundreds of luncheons, banquets and club meetings which she wrote up and described at length.

One of the changes noticed by Eve during her career is the interest women have shown in club work in the past few years.

During her experiences as society editor, she made thousands of friends for the paper, all of whom she looks back on with a great deal of satisfaction.

Reflecting back on her most active days, Eve was a faculty for turning out work says, "I don't know how I did it, but there's something about the activity in a newspaper office that makes you never want to give it up—even when your health compels it."

She points out, "With all truth, the most wonderful thing that ever happened to me was having the opportunity to work for the Ewings. My boss, Wilson Ewing was the most understanding person I've ever known in my whole life."

Next to people, traveling has been Miss Bradford's favorite hobby. Having traveled extensively throughout the United States, Canada and Mexico, Eve acquired bits of information here and there which she later brought home and put into print.

One of the happiest occasions in her lifetime came last year, when she pinned the air force insignia on her nephew, Daniel Bradford when he graduated from the U. S. naval academy at Annapolis. Daniel has lived with his aunt since early childhood and is now flying jet planes.

While in England, Daniel remembered Eve with one of the loveliest gifts, she recalls receiving—a beautiful set of wedgewood which he packed himself and delivered to her personally.

During the past three years, Eve has been inactive as the result of several illnesses. However, she still maintains her suite in the Frances Hotel, where she leads a quiet but pleasant life.

"Thank God for hotels," she says, "here I can shut the door against the world or I can always go down in the lobby and be with people."

PREFERS FLYING

In traveling, Eve prefers flying and holds the distinction of being the first and only passenger on

Duet Awarded Father Bordelon Assumes Scholarship New Duties In Simmesport

Former N. L. S. C. Teacher Is Recipient Of Fellowship To Sarbonne In Paris

Former St. Matthew's Assistant Pastor Recently Accepted Pastoral Duties At Christ The King Church In Central La.

By Esther Ewing

(Of The Morning World Staff)

Father Marvin Bordelon, for the past three years first assistant pastor of St. Matthew's Church, left Friday, June 1, to assume pastoral duties of Christ and King Church at Simmesport.

Father Bordelon, the only child of Mr. and Mrs. Russell L. Bordelon of Alexandria, was born September 18, 1923 in Bordelonville. He received his early education, through three years of high school, at public schools in Bordelonville.

At the age of 15, the youthful Marvin considered following any one of several vocations open to him. These occupations—namely medicine and engineering, were particularly attractive because the family physician said Marvin showed promise of becoming a good doctor; and his science professor believed he should enter the field of engineering.

Surprising his parents, young Marvin announced that he desired to enter the ministry.

Father Bordelon said, "I felt that I could render more service to God and man in priesthood than in any other profession—although, every man, no matter what his profession may be, receives a corresponding grace from God."

Father Bordelon pointed out further that nothing, other than the provision of a good Christian home by his parents, influenced him in making this decision. "I received no revelation, only a very natural and deep-seated knowledge of heart and mind that this was to be my life's work."

Following this decision, Marvin left, at the age of sixteen, for St. Joseph's Seminary, a preparatory high school for the ministry, which is located at a clearing near St. Benedict.

While there, Marvin completed his high school education and two years of college.

In 1943, the young man entered Notre Dame Seminary in New Orleans where he completed two years of philosophical studies and four years of theological studies in five years.

It was in theological courses that he accelerated; thus enabling him to complete his ministerial training in a comparatively short time.

On May 22, 1948, the portals to the highest form of God's service opened to Marvin Bordelon when he was ordained a priest by Bishop Charles P. Greco in St. Francis Xavier Cathedral at Alexandria.

Father Bordelon was soon appointed assistant pastor to St. Matthew's Church where he first began to serve his people in God's name.

The present appointment of Father Bordelon to Simmesport, a town of 300 Catholic families, is in recognition of his ability to serve God and man.

The distinguished young priest has many many friends in the Twin Cities during these past few years, both within the church and outside, all of whom regret his leaving.

Youngsters Play Their Own Brand Of Baseball

Little Baseball League Season Opens Monday; Teams Of 8 To 12-Year-Olds Organized Here By Band Of Sports Lovers

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of two stories on the growth of the Little Baseball League and the people who organized it in Monroe.)

By Louie Mathis

(Of The Morning World Staff)

Starting Monday afternoon, things are going to be different around here.

Because the days when boys from 8 to 12 years old hang around a baseball diamond watching their big brothers play will cease Monday, and a new era begins.

This time the youngsters are going to play their own brand of baseball with new uniforms, pinstriped bats, and on a diamond tailored to fit short legs and sturdy hearts.

It's time for Little Baseball League season, and if you don't believe things are changing, ask a few parents in the Twin Cities.

Organized here by a small band of sports lovers, The Monroe Little League is part of a national organization that reaches from coast to coast and on to Canada, Cuba and Hawaii.

BUDDY BLAIR

of Williamsport, Pa., in 1938 and the growth has been phenomenal. Stotz is still president and commissioner of the national organization.

For its continued growth, the Little League depends upon these things: a few men banded together who love baseball and like to see little boys play; a community that prefers wholesome sports for its children; and businessmen willing to sponsor a club by putting up hard cash to get it started.

These problems were met in recent story, and will be told later.

Monroe by the organizers, and they were solved.

Louis N. "Buddy" Blair, a man famous in his own right as an athlete, nurtured a plan to start Little League baseball here. He whispered his idea around town for a few days, and it caught fire fast.

He talked to Sports Announcer Irving Zeldman, and the pair looked around for somebody else to light on.

Men were picked who knew baseball, but each man chosen had a special talent.

A board of directors was set up which included Recreation Director Jack Hesketh, Dr. W. L. Bendel of the Wright-Bendel Clinic; Buddy Blair, who played with Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics in the American League;

Irving Zeldman, radio announcer; A. L. "Red" Swanson, former coach at L. S. U., Southwestern at Lafayette, and Southeastern at Hammond; Swanson is now superintendent at the Louisiana Training Institute.

Saul Adler, who once was president of Monroe Cotton States League team, was drafted into the group. Paul Martin, sports editor, also became a board member; and David Garrett, Jr., lawyer, became the legal advisor.

Garrett, along with treasurer Carroll Royce, was one of the first to start work. A few days later, Garrett, a captain in the army reserve corps, leaves for active duty at Fort Hood, near Temple, Tex., but not before he put the league on solid legal footing as a non-profit corporation.

These are the men who set the league in motion, and who will lean back and grin Monday when 118 boys start playing.

The men who loved sports and like to see boys play baseball are doing their part.

The business places which sponsor the six teams, the managers who train players, and financial backers who kicked in their money with no strings attached, are also doing their part, but that's a different story, and will be told later.

TRAFFIC CLUB TO BE FORMED

Will Include Members In Radius Of 50 Miles From Twin Cities

There is to be organized a traffic and transportation club for Monroe and West Monroe at a special meeting in the Rendezvous June 14 at 7 p.m. Members will be admitted who live within 50 miles radius from Monroe.

It is believed that the settlement of most transportation, problems of national and general concern depend largely on an understanding of them and on a realization that the interests of carrier, shipper and public are for the most part identical.

Some of the aims and purposes are expressed as follows:

To suggest educational programs of transportation subjects of national importance, and to encourage study and discussion of those subjects at meetings of member clubs for the purpose of being of educational help to individual members.

To promote discussion and understanding, and to provide discourse by persons who have studied transportation subjects deeply, and are most competent to discuss them.

To inspire those in traffic work to the importance and dignity of their profession.

To impress business executives with the necessity, value and importance of traffic departments.

To provide speakers of national prominence on transportation subjects at its general meetings as well as for member club meetings.

To effect sound transportation policies through the study and discussion of all questions relating to all phases of transportation.

To preserve free enterprise in ownership and operation of all the modes of transportation.

To encourage those who believe in their duty unsparingly to devote something of their thought and effort to the advancement of their profession.

To present a plan of co-ordination of the efforts of traffic clubs more effectively to carry out to the fullest extent its slogan—"Shipper and carrier co-operation in transportation."

Faded, one-color bath mats or small washable rugs can be given new life with a simple dye job. Wash as usual in your automatic washer with a good, rich suds to remove all soil and then add, in the second rinse, about a half-ounce of tint. Use more if you wish a darker shade. The third rinse will remove excess color. Dry in the shade.

KNOW YOUR POLICE FORCE

Traffic Sergeant J. E. McMullen is shown above seated in his patrol car with which he patrols the city. Officer McMullen, who has been a member of the Monroe police department for ten years, protects citizens from red light runners, speeders, drunk drivers, and other motorists caught violating traffic ordinances.

Besides his traffic duties Sgt. McMullen is entrusted with the protection of citizens in any other case that may arise. Before taking the position with the police department McMullen was employed by the city in the street department. The 10-year service officer lives at 118 Vernon street and has two children. Wooden Jets Failed Hitler

Munich — A cheap jet fighter with wooden wings, using a by-product of tar as fuel, became Nazi Germany's last hope in the war. But his "miracle weapon" designed to overcome the famine of aviation gasoline and metal alloys in the crumbling Reich—was doomed.

That is the story told in the Munich newspaper, "Abendzeitung," by an anonymous German writer, who said he helped develop the fragile ersatz plane.

The decision to start the project was reached at a 24-hour conference at Luftwaffe headquarters in Berlin in October, 1944. Two hundred German scientists and research experts reportedly attended.

Some enthusiasts talked of producing 3,000 a month of these ersatz fighters by the spring of 1945, and imagined they would reverse the disastrous trend of the Allied air war.

Delta Air Lines when it made its inaugural flight from Monroe to Dallas, Tex.

I sat down and the door to the pilot room closed, I can't express my feeling," she recalls. Over Shreveport, the pilot turned off the engine and Eve, his only passenger immediately visualized engine trouble, and opened the door. She was amazed to see the city below having only been up a few minutes. By the time the plane reached Dallas, Eve was a full fledged flyer.

Before Miss Bradford became inactive, she was an honorary member of the Business and Professional Women's Club, a charter member of Little Theater, honorary member of the Monroe Garden Club and a member of the Fine Arts Association and an honorary member of the Lotus Club. Eve personally interviewed most of the guest artists brought here by the Civic Music Association.

Despite a prolonged illness since leaving her desk at the News-Star—World, the long-to-be remembered society editor—Eve Camille Bradford—says, "I'd go back tomorrow if I could. Every day I miss it more."

Father Of Twins Freed From Jail

St. Louis, June 9.—(AP)—Ronald Yinger, jailed as a parole violator when the birth of mid-century twins to his wife put him in the spotlight two and a half years ago, finally is a free man.

He was paroled by Circuit Judge James E. McLaughlin yesterday after serving two months of a one-year sentence in the St. Louis city workhouse.

The birth of the twins to his wife in New York one on the last day of 1949 and the other on the first day of 1950 was given wide publicity. As a result, Missouri authorities discovered Yinger, 27, had violated his parole by leaving Missouri.

He was returned to the state penitentiary at Jefferson City as a parole violator and completed a three-year sentence in the prison two months ago. When he was released there, a St. Louis deputy sheriff was waiting and brought him here to serve out a one-year term on which his parole had been revoked.

Both Yinger's sentences were on bad check convictions.

Yinger says he has been promised his old job at a cleaning establishment in Brooklyn, N. Y., where his family lives.

Judge McLaughlin said he granted the parole yesterday so that Yinger could attend the funeral today of his brother, Robert M. Yinger, 20, killed this week when he was thrown from a motorcycle he was riding.

APPROVE WING

Baton Rouge, La., June 9. — (AP) — Preliminary plans for a welfare wing of Louisiana's civil defense program were approved here today by welfare experts from throughout the state.

The meeting was the last of three this week devoted to three phases of civil defense — highway control, auxiliary police and welfare. The conferences were called by State Director of Civil Defense Douglas Manship.

COMING TO DELTA

"Bitter Rice" starring Doris Dowling and Silvana Mangano, begins at the Delta Theater tomorrow for a four-day run. The movie tells the story of women workers in the Po Valley rice fields, who slave from sunup to sundown beneath the scorching sun.

'BITTER RICE' IS DELTA FEATURE

New Picture Introduces Sultry
The Screen

"Bitter Rice" introduces Silvana Mangano, who resembles Ingrid Bergman, although she's far more seductive. Her figure is a composite of Rita Hayworth (plus 20 pounds), Jane Russell (less corsetry) and one of those full-blown Rubens nudes (hip arrangements). "Bitter Rice" is a perfect story for Miss Mangano. She is a field hand in an Italian rice paddy, and obviously must be dressed to suit the part. Where other girls wear dresses, tucked up to keep them out of the water, Silvana wears a pair of shorts that would be tight on a midget, a black sweater and a pair of long black stockings. This is where Silvana takes a lead.

As a not-so-innocent farmer lass, Silvana meets an Italian type gun moll and her boy friend, both fleeing from the police. The gun moll, played by Doris Dowling, becomes the fast friend of Miss Mangano and together they head for the rice fields in the Po Valley to harvest the crop. Silvana, the gun-chewing lady hick, is intrigued by the tales Miss Dowling spins of her life with her hoodlum. Silvana decides the man for her is the hood, who suddenly pops up at the hoedown where Silvana is gyrating. She plays hard-to-get, which is quite unwise with the thief, and finally is ravished in a rainstorm, after a sound horse whipping.

The story is a good one, if for no other reason than to see Silvana.

OPENS AT PARAMOUNT

Bob Hope is getting the inside dope from someone who should know in this scene from the hilarious, tuneful comedy, "The Lemon Drop Kid," which opens a five-day engagement at the Paramount today.

'Lemon Drop Kid,' Starring Bob Hope,
Showing At Paramount Today

Marilyn Maxwell, Lloyd Nolan
And Jane Darwell Also In Cast

Bob Hope's latest and reportedly funniest comedy is "The Lemon Drop Kid," a Paramount picture which will open today at the Paramount Theater. Teamed with Bob for the first time is blonde and sumptuous Marilyn Maxwell, and Lloyd Nolan and Jane Darwell are also starred.

Adapted for the screen from a famous Damon Runyon story, this uproarious adventure has been skillfully tailored to make the most of Bob's unique talents in the title role.

The story follows The Lemon Drop Kid, a hilarious race-track tout, in his attempt to raise the $10,000 which a tough New York hoodlum has dropped on one of his phony tips. The gangster gives The Kid till Christmas—twenty-three days—to raise his ransom. If he can't produce, he must submit to the scalpel of an unlicensed practitioner named Sam The Surgeon. Opening a bogus home for old women, The Kid enlists the help of his Broadway cronies: crooks, safe crackers and pickpockets. Dressed as Santa Claus and equipped with bells and pots, they solicit contributions on New York's busiest corners.

According to overjoyed previewers, what happens from here on in is punctuated with riotous laughs and a score of incredibly funny situations that give Bob more than ample opportunity to display his inimitable clowning.

The filmization of this Runyon classic again unites the talents which produced the outstanding comedy success, "Sorrowful Jones," with Robert L. Welch and Sidney Lanfield respectively producing and directing. The new picture is peopled with the wonderful Broadway characters that have become synonymous with the name Runyon, and you'll meet such delightful personalities as Singing Solly, Izzy Cheesecake, Boston Barney and High Society Hogan.

Ace Tunesmiths Jay Livingston and Ray Evans, who penned such top hits as "Buttons and Bows," "To Each His Own" and "Mona Lisa," have written three hit-Parade bound tunes for this side-splitting comedy—"Silver Bells," "They Obviously Want Me To Sing" and "It Doesn't Cost A Dime to Dream."

Between takes for "The Lemon Drop Kid," Bob and Marilyn managed to sandwich a thirty day entertainment tour of military installations in the Pacific. This included two weeks in Korea, where they performed at every United Nations base on the peninsula.

When a recipe says to "dust" meat or fish with flour, it means to sprinkle lightly.

IN MOVIELAND

Hollywood, June 9.—(AP)—Looking at the week's news:

What has happened to Josef von Sternberg's comeback? The erratic director, famed for his oldtime films with Marlene Dietrich, made two pictures for Howard Hughes. But one, "Jet Pilot," has been in and out of production for about two years.

Now his second film, "Macao," is going back for four weeks of retakes, which means that it is virtually being remade. No one could be happier than Gloria Grahame, who had virtually a bit role in the picture. Her part will probably be eliminated because she has since left the studio after a beef over the film.

Least surprising news of the week was the announcement that Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II turned down an offer to write "Hans Christian Andersen" for Sam Goldwyn. The musical team will devote their efforts to the stage. And why not? Why should they scratch for Hollywood when they have three gold mines on Broadway—"The King and I," "South Pacific" and "Oklahoma!"

Both Rodgers and Hammerstein formerly did much writing for the screen and they collaborated on one movie together—"State Fair." Hollywood hasn't had a movie score to compare with that one since then.

The Johnston office may have overlooked the risque nature of the new Danny Kay opus, "On the Riviera," but not the Legion of Decency. It classified the film "objectionable in part," citing "suggestive costuming, sequences and dialogue." Low moral tone.

Claudette Colbert reportedly is not happy about having it printed that she plays a grandmother in her latest film, "Aw, Claudette." Joan Bennett and Dietrich are real grandmas and they still get whistles.

This will show you why ulcers flourish in Hollywood. The makers of "The Thing" can look for word to a good profit. But their take would have been much more, except for the vagaries of nature.

The company had to sit around for six weeks in Cutbank, Mont., waiting for snow to fall. This ran the film's cost up to $1,100,000. The bill would have much less if the snow had dropped on schedule.

Clark Gable's answer to his wife's divorce action gave Hollywood a jolt. It looks as though fireworks may arrive before July 4.

PLAYING AT TEM

Mario Lanza and Ann Blythe top one of the greatest musical casts ever assembled for a motion picture in "The Great Caruso" now playing at the new Tem Theater.

'Oh! Susanna' At
Paramount Friday

Blood-chilling battles between Sioux Indians, U. S. cavalrymen and gold-mad invade the dark Hills of Dakota are brought to vivid life on the screen. Paramount Theatre where Republic's Trucolor production, "Oh! Susanna," opens Friday. Top players are Rod Cameron, Adrian Booth, Forrest Tucker and Chill Wills.

"Oh! Susanna" tells of a bitter feud between Cameron and Tucker. Both have romantic sights set on Miss Booth, who portrays Lia Wilson, singer in a gambling house. Cameron plays Web Calhoun, a cavalry captain and West Point graduate, and Tucker, his commanding officer, Lieutenant Colonel Lloyd Unger. Unger has come up from the ranks and has no use for West Pointers. He is new to the territory and knows nothing of Indian fighting.

In defiance of a U. S. treaty with the Sioux, increasing numbers of opportunists are attempting to move into the Black Hills in quest of gold. Calhoun keeps matters well in hand when he has to cope only with small bands on invading gold-rushers, but when all the rushers are organized into open rebellion, the fighting begins in earnest. In force, the rushers move into the Hills and fire on the Sioux. The Indians, of course, fight back. Unger and most of the cavalry post's men are massacred when he foolishly leads them into a trap. Calhoun and his small detachment wage a desperate defense of the post, but the captain ultimately is obliged to surrender. The Indians know Calhoun has tried to enforce the treaty, and thus permit him and his party to leave safely.

Right Around HOME with MYRTLE

by Dudley Fisher

SCHOOL'S OUT, AND WE ALL PASSED!

AND WE'RE TAKING OUR TEACHER TO THE AIR-PORT!

NOW YOU SEE WHAT I'LL HAVE TO PUT UP WITH ALL SUMMER.

WE'LL DON'T EXPECT ME TO TAKE MYRTLE TO THE OFFICE.

I GOT YOU AN EGG-SITTER, ALICE, SO WE CAN GO OUT TO THE AIR-PORT AND SEE THE FUN!

SHE LOOKS YOUNG, ARE YOU SURE SHE'S DEPENDABLE?

STAND BACK AND GIVE HER AIR.

GOOD BYE, NICE FLUNKEM.

HAVE A NICE VACATION!

I DON'T KNOW WHY MISS FLUNKEM IS SO TIRED OUT. WE DID ALL THE STUDYING.

WE JUST CAME TO PUT OUR TEACHER ON THE PLANE.

AND WE MADE IT AND SHE DIDN'T.

WELL, SIT DOWN AND RELAX CAUSE YOU'RE GOING NOW!

YOU CAN TAKE MYRTLE OFF NOW, JUNIOR.

I'LL BET MYRTLE FEELS LIKE SHE JUST GOT OUT OF THE DOG POUND.

YOU CAN'T PROVE IT BY ME... I'VE NEVER BEEN IN.

Little Orphan Annie

IF WE DO MEET AGAIN, WHY, WE SHALL SMILE; IF NOT, WHY THEN THIS PARTING WAS WELL MADE. (SHAKESPEARE) YEP—LET'S FACE IT—WHEN YUH GOTTA GO, YUH GOTTA GO!

JUST AS WELL AUNT BET AND DOGY AND GRAMP ARE ALL OUT—I NEVER DID LIKE GOOD-BYS—AND I'VE SURE GOT TO GO!

I SHOOK THAT BIG GORILLA, NIKOLI, BUT ONLY FOR A LITTLE WHILE—

SEEMS AS HOW NOBODY CAN PR'TECT ME FROM THAT GUY—AND IF HE EVER GRABS ME IT'LL BE BAD FOR "DADDY" AN' PLENTY OTHER FOLKS, TOO—

ON MY OWN, I CAN GET AWAY GOOD—I'VE DONE IT BEFORE—CAN'T WAIT FOR SANDY—BUT HE'LL CATCH UP WITH ME—

GOOD BOY, SANDY! KEEP TRACKING HER—HEY! LOOK HERE! THIS LOW WIRE! AND THESE TRACKS!

ANNIE DOUBLED BACK, HERE—NIKOLI CUT BETWEEN THESE TREES—

SLACK WIRE CAUGHT HIS ANKLE—TOSSED HIM A GOOD TWENTY FEET—

ONTO HIS HEAD, HERE—SEE THE DENT IT MADE?

HA! HE STAGGERED OFF THAT WAY—

WHILE ANNIE'S TRACKS NOW START STRAIGHT FOR AUNT BET'S HOUSE!

BUT I'M NOT GOIN' BACK THERE, WITH NIKOLI LOOSE IN THOSE WOODS—I'VE HAD IT—

EVEN PUNJAB WON'T BE ABLE TO FOLLOW TRACKS IN TH' WATER—

AND I WON'T LEAVE ANY ON TH' BANK, EITHER, IF THIS VINE DOESN'T BUST—

MOST FOLKS IN A HURRY WOULD TAKE TH' FASTEST TRAIL—SO—I'LL TAKE TH' ROUGH ONE OVER TH' RIDGE—I'M IN NO RUSH—JUST DOG-GONED SURE I'M GETTIN' OUT O' HERE—ALONE!

HAROLD GRAY

SMILIN'?

LAVALAVA PHONED HOT-ROD TO MEET HER IN THE CADET RECEPTION ROOM!

WHAT! YOU SAY A FRIEND OF YOURS WAS DRIVING IN TH' COUNTRY AND SAW ME LEAVIN' A RANCH HOUSE?

YES—AND MY FRIEND CHECKED UP AND FOUND OUT THAT TALL TIMBER, YOUR OLD SWEETHEART, LIVES THERE!

JACK

—AND TO THINK I THOUGHT THAT YOU LOVED ME—BUT YOU BROKE A DATE WITH ME TO SEE THAT BIG AMAZON!

WELL, I DID SEE TIMBER, BUT STRICTLY ON BUSINESS! —SHE MEANS NOTHING TO ME NOW! I LOVE ONLY YOU!

WELL, IF YOU REALLY HAD A BUSINESS APPOINTMENT WITH HER—WHY WERE YOU AFRAID TO TELL ME WHOM YOU WERE SEEING?

SIMPLY BECAUSE I WAS AFRAID YOU WOULDN'T UNDERSTAND AND MIGHT ACT JUST AS YOU ARE ACTING!

—I CAN'T TELL YOU YET WHAT I WAS SEEING TIMBER ABOUT, BUT YOU MUST TRUST ME, LAVALAVA!

YOU DON'T THINK I'M SILLY ENOUGH TO BELIEVE A LINE LIKE THAT, DO YOU? YOU WENT TO——SEE TIMBER BECAUSE YOU'RE STILL CARRYIN' TH' TORCH FOR HER—I SAW IT IN YOUR EYES! GOOD-BY!

—ME WITH JUDO AN' THREW ME OUT OF THE CRIMSON HAMMER'S HIDEOUT AT HER REQUEST—

—WHAT'S COME OVER ME? HERE TH' CRIMSON HAMMER HAS TREATED ME LIKE DIRT AND—

WAS I SHOCKED WHEN THAT LITTLE SHRIMP, THE EELY-ONE SURPRISED——ORDERED ME TO WORK ON A DANGEROUS SUBVERSIVE ASSIGNMENT—AND STILL I LOVE THAT RUTHLESS CREATURE!

—WELL, EVEN THOUGH SHE GAVE ME TH' BRUSH-OFF, I GOT A PHOTO OF HER WITH MY TINY SECRET SPY CAMERA—

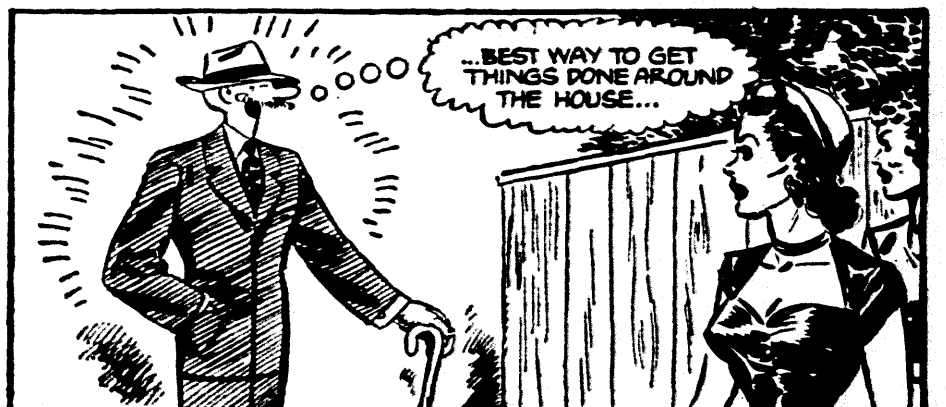

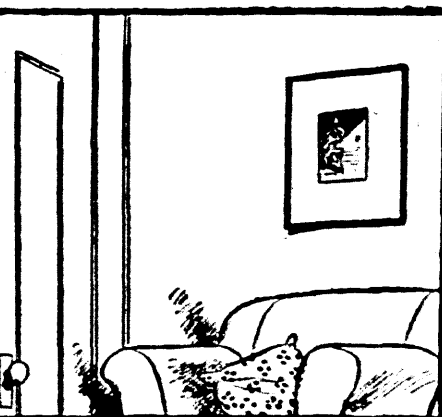

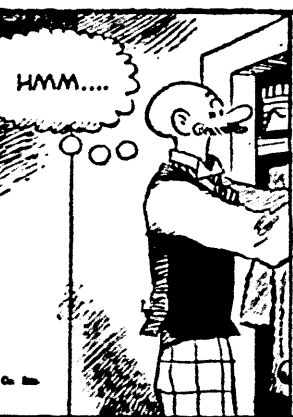

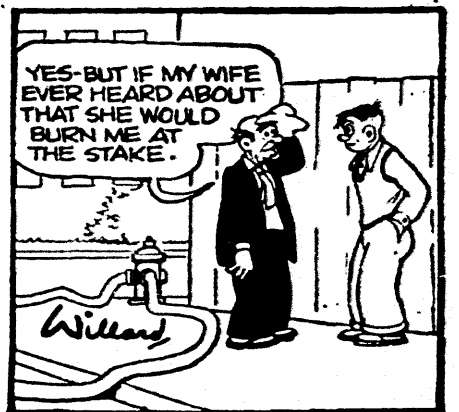

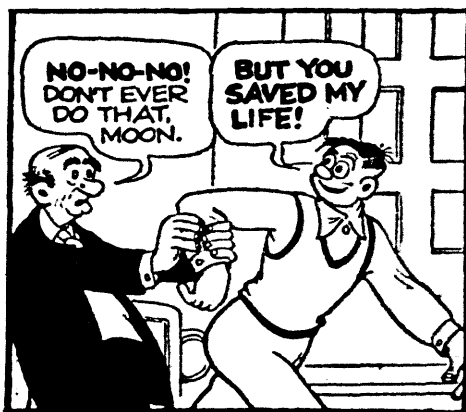

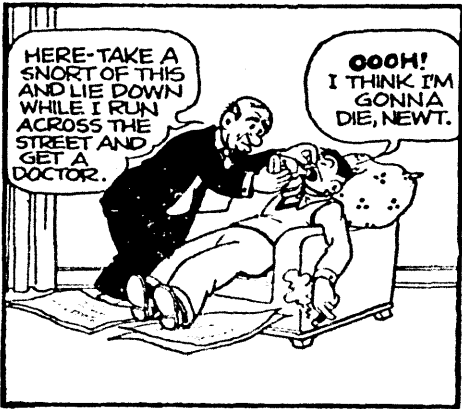

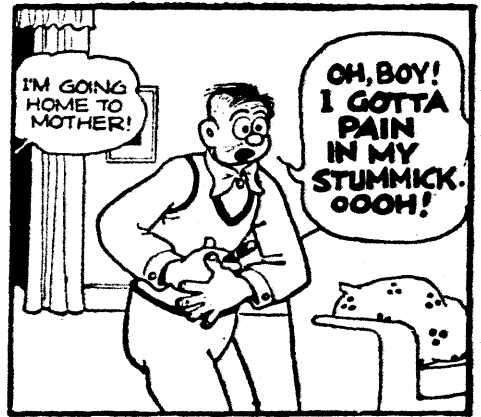

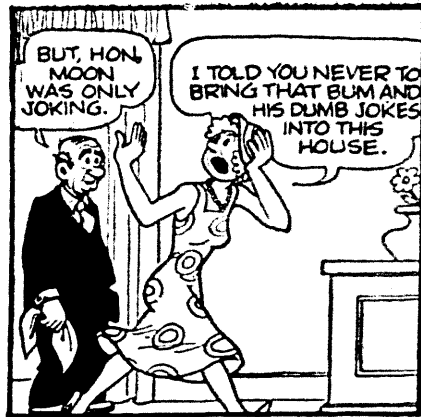

—WHICH WAS HIDDEN IN MY NECKTIE AND FOCUSED THRU A SLIT IN TH' TIE STRIPE—

WHEN BICEPS CHANGED UNIFORMS, THE PICTURE OF CRIMSON HAMMER FELL FROM HIS POCKET TO THE CLOSET FLOOR UNNOTICED.

The PHANTOM

By LEE FALK and WILSON MCCOY

WELCOME BACK TO THE DEEP WOODS, O GHOST WHO WALKS! SO-YOU FOUND THE RING. WHERE WAS IT?

WHERE WAS IT, GURAN? WHERE WASN'T IT?

THE PHANTOM RETURNS TO THE FABULOUS SKULL THRONE IN THE DEEP WOODS.

BRING ME MORE GOLD AND JEWELS.

"FATSY, A TRAMP, FOUND IT FIRST. IT MADE HIM A KING. HE LOOTED THE JUNGLE TRIBES UNTIL--"

NOW I'LL BE KING!

"TRADER JOE TOOK IT AWAY FROM HIM-- BUT JOE DIDNT KEEP IT VERY LONG--"

"SPIKE, AN ESCAPED CONVICT STOLE IT FROM TRADER JOE-- BUT THE RING LANDED HIM RIGHT BACK IN JAIL!"

BANG! BANG! BAD MEN, YOU'RE DEAD!

"BOBBY, A LITTLE BOY, FOUND IT, AND ROUTED A SHIPLOAD OF PIRATES WHEN THEY SAW IT--"

"THEN A POOR GIRL, MARY, FOUND IT, SAVED RICH PRINCE RANDOLPH FROM KIDNAPPERS, AND WOUND UP MARRYING HIM!"

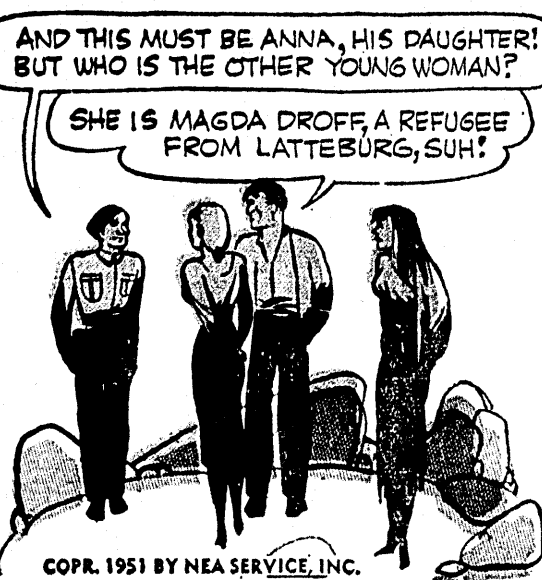

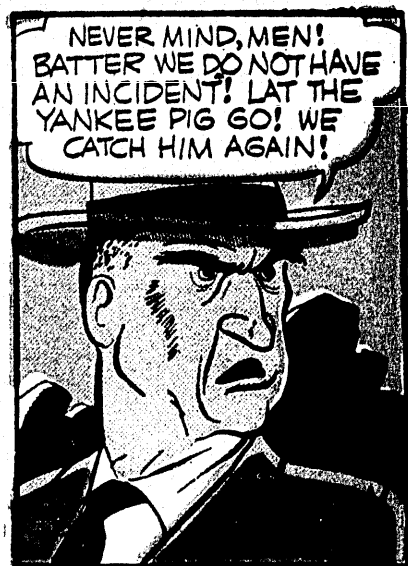

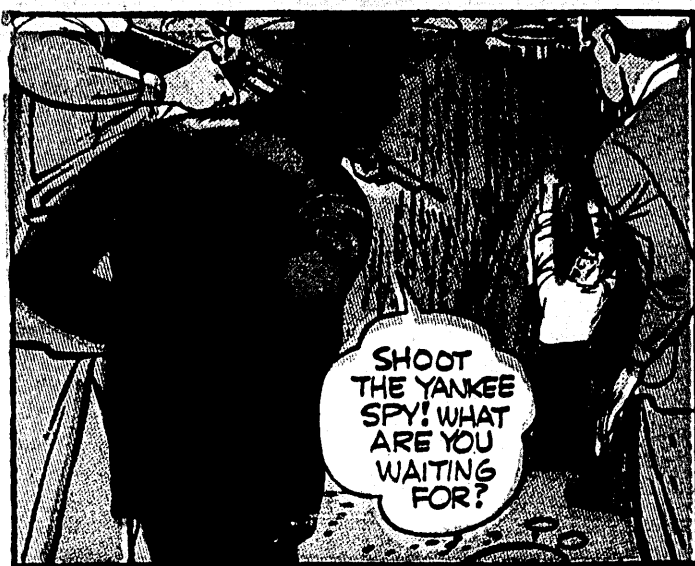

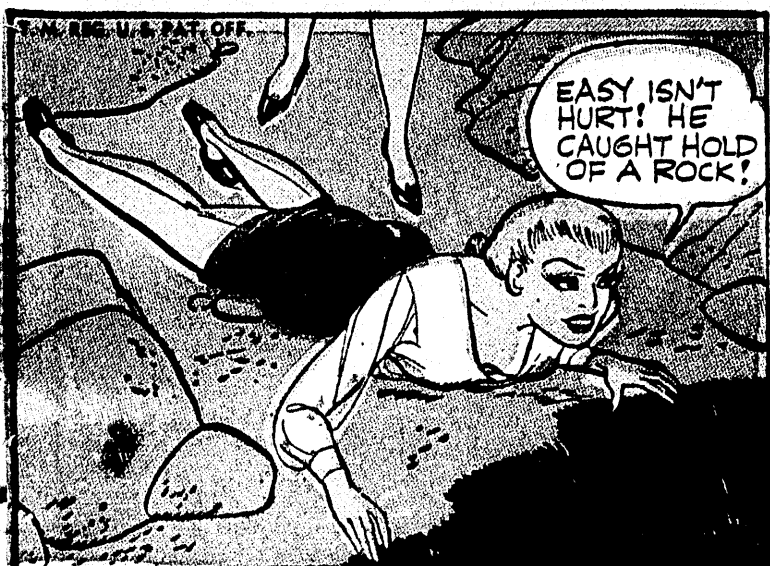

VERILY, IT IS A RING OF GREAT POWER!

IT'S JUST A RING, GURAN. IT'S "POWER" IS IN PEOPLE'S MINDS. BUT IT CAN CAUSE A RUCKUS! I'LL NEVER LOSE IT AGAIN!
